SENTENCE MINE DIRECTOR TO TERM IN REFORMATORY

Appeal Entered Against Conviction of Harry E. Harcourt. Dave M. Thomson, Acquitted of Charge.

Harry E. Harcourt, Toronto, formerly managing director of Jackson-Manion Mines, Limited, was sentenced to 15 months determinate and one year indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory at Guelph, by Judge O'Connell at Toronto on Friday last.

Harcourt was convicted June 26 on charges of unlawfully circulating or publishing false statements in connection with the sale of stock in the Jackson-Manion mine.

Shortly after sentence was pronounced, an appeal against the conviction was filed at Osgoode Hall on the grounds that there had been a miscarriage of justice since no evidence had proved the statements complained of to be false to the accused's knowledge or belief.

The judge in registering the conviction last week, found that Harcourt had published statements and alleged views of mine assays that were not in accordance with the facts.

The term, "representative channel assays," was often mentioned throughout the case, and in this regard his Honour found that statements made by Harcourt as to such values were untrue and not in accordance with the information in Harcourt's possession.

In regard to Harcourt's stand that he had not analyzed the assay sheets, Judge O'Connell stated "it seems almost incredible that a man occupying a position for which he was paid a substantial sum, and with the professional training he had, would not look at these assay sheets to see what information they contained."

David M. Thomson, formerly of Timmins, who was also tried at Toronto, in connection with alleged wrongful information given out in regard to affairs and conditions in reference to the Jackson-Manion, was acquitted and freed on the charge.

The Charlton correspondent of The Northern News last week says: "The annual school picnic of Sharp Township proved one of the most successful outings held under the committee in charge. The sports programme was both varied and complete."

Teck council has passed the necessary by-law establishing a market at Kirkland Lake. The market will be open every Friday from July 5th to November 15th, and over one hundred farmers are expected to be in attendance.

Room 8—Kathleen M. Sims, teacher K.P. to Sr. Pr.—Maynard Bailey, Leo Bandiero, Reginald Cavanagh, June Chisholm, Eva Crocina, Pasquale D'Allesandri, Marleo di Marco, Ida Dominico, Dominic Guistone, Donald Harvey, Jean Homer, Lloyd Jones, Eileen Knott, Clara Marin, Reno Mascarin, Nanette Mascioli, Norma McIntosh, Gordon McLeod, Elton McCord, Angella Nadaletta, Verna Palmer, Ermenigildo Pelizzari, Ferriando Poloni, Alfred Savareo, Pierri Savareo, Isobel Smith, Peter Spada, Doris Spjuth.

Year's Progress at McIntyre Viewed with Satisfaction

Says President at Annual Meeting. Ready to Actively Work New Lower Levels. Increased Production Awaits Results of This Work. Board of Directors Re-elected for Year.

The annual meeting of the McIntyre Porcupine Mines, Limited, was held at Toronto on Wednesday of last week, and despatches from Toronto show that the reports for the year show the mine in very satisfactory condition.

J. P. Bickell referred to the increased production and higher earnings and stated that while last year the management was more immediately concerned with opening up new territory rather than developing ore occurrences, they nevertheless were able to announce a fairly substantial increase in the probable ore reserves.

McIntyre in the last year adopted a new method of stoping, which it was pointed out, made the costs slightly higher, but would also give higher recovery per ton.

While ore reserves did not include anything outside of the $1,000,000 below the 3,000-foot level, Manager Ennis declared all levels from the 2,875 to the 4,000-foot level are being developed for the lenses in which McIntyre's ore is found.

The 3,375-foot level was declared to have the best break yet, and it is being actively opened in addition to many in the old part of the mine.

Recently Englehart has been seeking for a place in the sun as a mining centre. The Englehart Times last week said: "Some magnificent samples of ore containing silver, copper and gold were brought into our office last week by a prospector from the Latimer property in Pense. This place is worth watching."

Canada News: A girl surprised a burglar in the office of her employer, and telephoned for the police, but he made his escape. A telephone subscriber says he is not surprised considering the long start the intruder had.
