GRAVEL AND SAND—AND PLACER

A Timmins Scotsman who went to Toronto to enjoy the Christmas holidays complains that the soup served in the soup kitchens in the Queen City is very poor and thin.

A Timmins man who spent a few days in Hamilton recently says:—"Those Hamilton people are the kind that make a mountain out of a mole hill."

In an editorial note last week The Mail and Empire says: "Chatham has a new and commodious Children's Shelter. There is no doubt about the readiness to take care of homeless waifs. Might there not be some social work done to make artificial homes unnecessary? Work a bit upstream?" The fact of the matter is that the whole effort of the Children's Aid Society is to make institutional homes for children unnecessary. The Children's Aid Society recognized forty years ago in Ontario that real homes are needed for children and that artificial homes can not take the place of individual homes. No one knows better than the Children's Aid Society that children can not be trained like soldiers to any advantage and that machine methods are neither fair nor successful in the rearing of children. At the same time facts must be accepted and a large percentage of the children coming under the attention of the Children's Aid would not be accepted in any home in the condition in which they are taken over by the Society. The average ward of the Society must be cleaned up, physically, mentally, socially, before he or she would be considered by the sort of home that would be acceptable to the Society. Further it should be noted that good homes for homeless children have to be patiently sought; they are not going begging; and the youngsters must have some proper place of abode until the new home is sought and found. The Children's Aid works as far upstream as is possible. The first effort is to improve the home where a neglected child may be. No child is taken from his or her own home until all efforts to better conditions have been unavailing. In the District of Cochrane last year, for instance, literally scores of homes were bettered through the patient, tactful earnest work of the local superintendent of the Children's Aid Society. Only as a last resort are children placed in the Shelter. And it should not be forgotten what a bleeding to children the Shelter proves. The Shelters, too, are real homes for the kiddies. Those interested in Children's Aid work are usually determined opponents of institutional homes for children, yet when they note the wonderful care and affection under which youngsters thrive and develop in Shelters like the District of Cochrane enjoys the feeling is inevitable that the Shelters are doing a useful and helpful work and one that cannot be replaced without grievous loss.

In canvassing for the sale of a few stamps the other day the postmaster at Timmins is reported as saying that nobody reads The Advance. He pretended to base his remarkable statement on the fact that there were not many subscribers receiving their papers through the Timmins post office. It is interesting to note that while circulation of The Advance has grown from less than a thousand some years ago to a proven circulation to-day of practically three thousand, the number of papers distributed at the Timmins post office has decreased if there is any change. Scores of people have informed The Advance that to get their favourite newspaper on time and to be sure of getting it at all they had to use some other plan than having it sent through the local post office. Although the papers for distribution through the Timmins post office are delivered there before any are placed on the news stands or given to the carrier boys, people in general find that if they wish prompt delivery they can not hope to receive it by any dependence on the local post office. Papers in the wrong boxes, papers missing, and papers not available until the next day or some later day are apparently the rule and custom for the Timmins post office service. The experiences with other post offices in the district and beyond is entirely contrary, so it appears to be only fair to lay the blame on the Timmins office. Courtesy and service are the rules for the other post offices. These can scarcely be expected from the Timmins post office when the postmaster himself as he did last week shows so glaring an example of impudence and unfairness. It does not appear to be the duty of the postmaster to increase his sale of stamps by canvassing for his own favourite methods of publicity and defaming institutions like The Advance. In the case referred to the answer was conclusive because the gentleman approached was able to quote conclusive facts to show that he had received very superior results from advertising in The Advance. The Advance is not seriously concerned with any childish talk that the postmaster may indulge in with reference to this newspaper, but it is seriously concerned with the fact that the people are not receiving the service that they should in the local post office. The little time that the postmaster appears to give to his duties seems to be too much devoted to petty red tape and interferences that are of no value to the public. A package suspected of overweight by a fraction has no chance of passing the eagle eye, but the eyes are mole's eyes when it comes to letters that have no box numbers or that are not otherwise perfect examples of addressing under the wonderful rules of the post office department. The idea seems to be that the people are made for the convenience of the post office instead of the post office for the service of the public. If the postmaster had read and heeded that paper he is quoted as saying that nobody reads, it would not be necessary now to tell him the town needs a new post office service even more than it needs a new building.

TOWN COUNCIL ENDORSES KITCHENER RESOLUTION

Asks Government for Change in the Old Age Pensions Act. Rev. Bruce Millar Appointed to Library Board. Other Council Business.

The regular meeting of the town council was held on Monday afternoon with Mayor Geo. S. Drew in the chair and Councillors A. G. Carson, Dr. S. L. Honey, R. Richardson, Alfred Caron, J. T. Chenier and C. P. Ramsay present.

The application of Dr. Minthorne for rebates in taxes on account of vacancies at his properties was not granted. S. Shub complained to council about the charges made for water. He had been paying $14.00 per quarter and thought this too much, and so had the town install a meter. The first quarter under the meter amounted to $24.00, which he thought altogether wrong. Council deferred the matter until the meter could be tested to see if there were anything wrong with it.

An account for water rates charged in error was authorized to be written off in another case.

Accounts were passed for payment and other routine business dealt with. A man on Avenue road applied to council for a refund of taxes paid in 1928 on a lot he did not own. He had paid the taxes, he said, not noticing that he was charged with a lot he did not own. The matter was left over to see if the owner would not settle with the man who paid the taxes, as had been done in one or more other cases of similar sort.

The Timmins public library board this year will require about $1,000.00 less than in past years, having a surplus on hand and being ready to help out the plans for economy by using this surplus up in settling for this year's requirements.

Mr. J. W. Treleven having resigned from the public library board, and being a town appointment, it was necessary for the town council to name a member of the library board in Mr. Treleven's place. Accordingly, on motion, Rev. Bruce Millar, minister of the United Church, was appointed as a member on the public library board for the term of three years.

A letter was received from the Kitchener City council pointing out the desirability of an amendment to the Old Age Pensions Act so that municipalities may be permitted to share proportionately in the returns from the estate of any deceased pensioner. The Government asks that property left by a pensioner be turned over to the Government so that the pension may be thus recovered after the pensioner has no further use for the property. The Kitchener council felt that the municipality that paid part of the pension should share in any money thus received by the Government. Eventually, the council passed a resolution to the effect that the Government be asked to consider the amendment of the Old Age Pensions Act so that the local municipality that has contributed to the cost of maintaining any pensioner may after his death share in any sums recovered from the deceased pensioner's estate by the provincial commission in proportion to the amount contributed by the local municipality bears to the total cost of maintaining such pensioner, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the commission.

The following members for the local board of health were re-elected as the council's appointees for the year 1930: A. Laprairie, Harry Morin and W. Nicholson. Mayor Drew took occasion to refer to the good work of the board during 1929 and the excellent service given by Messrs Laprairie, Morin and Nicholson. Councillor Carson brought up the matter of changing the curfew bell by law so as to conform with the provincial legislation along that line. At present the town by-law calls for children to be off the streets by nine o'clock in summer and eight in winter. The provincial law favoured nine o'clock both summer and winter, and this might be preferable. It would make for a better enforcement of the law. It was decided to leave the matter over to the next meeting to see what powers the town had in the matter, some of the councillors preferring the ringing of the curfew at eight o'clock in the winter.

FORCUPINE UNITED BEING DEVELOPED SUCCESSFULLY

An error appeared in an article in these columns last week when J. A. McRae was quoted on mining progress in the North. In the course of his article Mr. McRae referred to the Porcupine United being closed down and The Advance overlooked calling attention to this mistake. The Porcupine United has not been closed down but is making very satisfactory progress and showing good prospects for success from the work done. The article by Mr. McRae was quoted to show the reasons for well-grounded faith in the Porcupine area's future, and the correction of Mr. McRae's error in regard to the Porcupine United gives added proof of the good prospects ahead.

FORMER TIMMINS CITIZEN KILLED AT SUBURBY SUNDAY

A despatch from Sudbury this week says:—"Elmer Lahti, 38, shift boss at the 2800 foot level of the Frood mine, was killed instantly Sunday when three or four tons of loose earth fell on him in No. 2 stop, while he was making his morning rounds. On entering the stop which was off the 2800-foot level, Lahti noticed several pieces of loose muck visible and sent two men back to get a heavy iron bar and a ladder to take them down. While they were away, a large piece in the roof weighing between three and four tons, which had shown no signs of being loose, fell on him. Lahti leaves a widow and one child in Timmins. The inquest will be held at Frood Monday."

Iroquois Falls Noses Out in Overtime Game

In the Senior hockey of the N.O.H.A. on Wednesday night of this week Iroquois Falls won out after twenty minutes overtime had been necessary to break another tie. The South Porcupine team seemed to have nosed itself out of this game through penalties. This puts the Falls team one up for the first half. With a minor change or two and the South Porcupine players making a point of consistently staying on the ice the second half of the series for this group may easily tell a different tale. The final score last night was 4 to 3 in favour of Iroquois Falls. The game was played at the South Porcupine arena.

In the early part of the game Dr. Hudson had the misfortune to badly injure his thumb and had to retire from the game as a consequence. This was a serious handicap for the team. The South Porcupine players put up a good game during the evening and lost out only by the fortunes of war.
