Providence Journal—"Whoopee," by any rational measurement of significance, is a particularly silly word. It implies much more than its milder exponent is possibly capable of, and yet it is wholly inadequate and inane as a description of what really robust whoopers are up to. The erudite Mr. Vize-telly, who has probably concocted more dictionaries than any man living, recently made a survey of the word and traced it back to Merlin, the celebrated magician of King Arthur's court, who, "when he came nigh the lodge, he shot another bolt, and whooped to King Arthur."

WHISTLING SWANS AND JACK MINER'S STATEMENT

Recently all leading papers carried a despatch from Medicine Hat, Alberta, quoting Jack Miner as saying, "there were only a thousand swans on continent." When interviewing Jack Miner on his question he said the eye sight of the people of Medicine Hat must be real bad, because while there last fall he showed them moving pictures of several thousand of these white angelic birds feeding along the shores of lake Erie in front of his bird sanctuary. In view of this, why would Jack Miner say there were one thousand white whistling swans on continent when since 1922 he has been feeding four or five thousand annually? What he did say was, that along Atlantic coast when these birds were counted previous to 1916, there were less than one thousand which meant that they were nearly extinct. In 1916 the migratory bird treaty between Canada and the United States came into effect, which gave birds absolute protection, and in 1928 on same ground where previous to 1916 only one thousand were counted, there were twenty-eight thousand of same variety of birds. Jack Miner adds: "If in twelve years swans, which are slow breeders, can increase under absolute protection from one thousand to twenty-eight thousand, other birds that are so nearly extinct will increase equally as fast, if not faster if given absolute protection."

MAGISTRATE'S KINDNESS TO ERRING TORONTO YOUTH

The kindly interest of Magistrate E. R. Tucker, of Cochrane, some days ago not only saved a Toronto youth from jail but also secured a position for the young man and supplied him with the money to make the necessary trip to his new position. The young fellow quit his high school course in Toronto some time ago and started on a trip through the North, all without the knowledge of his mother. After a time he encountered particularly hard luck and he succumbed to temptation. He was put off the National for failure to have a ticket or pay his fare and being left at a lonely spot near Nakina he wandered along till he came to a trapper's cabin. He entered this and took away a pair of trousers that he needed and also a couple of rifles that were there. The rifles he sold to a railwayman for $15.00. Then he proceeded to Nakina where the trapper recognized the trousers the lad was wearing and had the youth arrested. The youth admitted his guilt when he came before Magistrate Tucker and many magistrates would have simply accepted the plea of guilty and imposed a jail sentence and let it go at that. Magistrate Tucker like the other mag-istrate in this North, Magistrate Atkin-son, had a kindly thought for youthful offenders and questioned the lad closely. He found that the boy's father had been killed on duty overseas and that the widowed mother in the city could not help out her lad in his trouble. The magistrate was soon con-vinced that the boy was not a bad sort but had simply gone wrong for the time. A prison term might turn him permanently into ways of crime. Kind-ly treatment might save the youth to good citizenship. So the magistrate sentenced the youth to a term not to exceed two years, but suspended the sentence so that the lad might have another chance. This chance was given to the boy through the kindly in-terest of Magistrate Tucker, who not only secured a position at Kapuskasing for him, but also out of his own pocket gave him money enough to travel to Kapuskasing to take the position.

PROSPECTORS ASSISTING IN DRAWING UP RULES

In co-operation with the Northern Manitoba Prospectors' Association, the Manitoba Government is preparing regulations to govern mining activities in that province. The transfer of the natural resources from the federal to the provincial government will go into effect in the not distant future, and it is for the administration of these that the new regulations are now proposed. The assistance of the Prospectors' Association in framing the regulations is chiefly to avoid, if possible, impractical rules. More than 100 members of the association were present at the annual meeting of the association held in The Pas a few days ago, when special reference was made to proposals that might be incorporated in the provincial government's regulations governing mining activity in the province. The Northern Manitoba Prospectors' Association has been growing rapidly in the mining centres of the North and plans are under way to establish executive officers at Cold Lake, Flin Flon, Beaver Lake, Cranberry Portage and Herb Lake, at which points considerable mining development will be undertaken during the coming season.

EIGHT STOPPING PLACES NAMED ON THE EXTENSION

Names of Stations on T. & N. O. Line North of Island Falls, With Suggested Reasons as to Origin of Names.

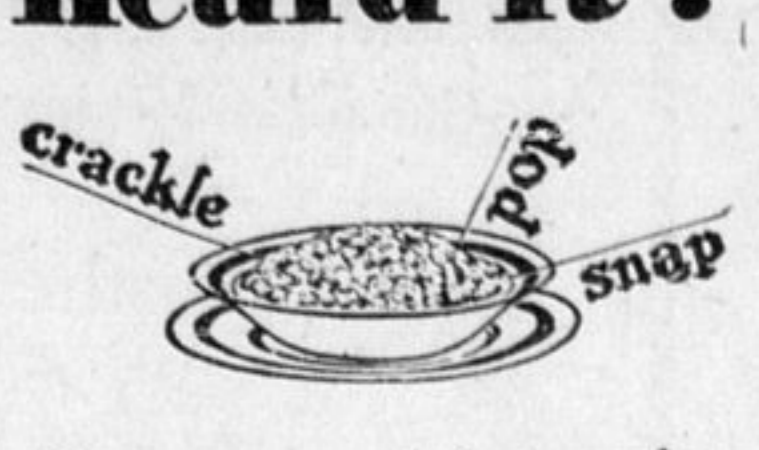

It is now duly reported that eight new stopping places have been given names and signs on the extension of the line of the T. & N. O. north of Island Falls. The places so named are as follows:—Homuth, Brownrigg, Burntwood, McCloud, Fraserdale, Therrien, Foxville and Sextant. On several occasions The Advance has referred to the names of places in this new north and expressed regret that despite the newness of the country the origin and significance of many of the place names has already been lost. For instance, there is more than a little passing dispute as to how Porcupine came to be so named. Being as close to the days of the origin of the centres in this North it would seem to be an easy matter to decide on any such question, but this is not the case. The failure to preserve accurate data in the very early days leaves such matter altogether a question between various memories, not always too reliable, and in the cases where the memory is absolutely accurate and reliable there is no proof that can be brought forward to counterbalance the opinion or idea of some other old-timer on the matter. It would appear that newspapers would do well to make record of points that later may become of historical interest. As a consequence of this idea The Advance is reproducing here the names of the new T. & N. O. stations on the extension north of Island Falls with the accredited reason given now for the choice of name:—
Homuth is named in honour of Karl Kenneth Homuth, member of the Ontario Legislature for the riding of Waterloo South.
Brownrigg is the name of the section foreman on the T. & N. O. at the point named after him.
Burntwood is a name that suggests its own origin. At that it may be noted that despite its easy origin it is by no means original.
The Advance has no information as to the origin of the name "McCloud" as applied to one of the eight stations, and the same is true about Foxville and Sextant.
Fraserdale is named after the resident engineer at Coral Rapids, "Scotty" Fraser.
Therrien is the official in charge of the job of extending the road and one of the stations or stopping places is named after him.

IT IS "JUST A SLICE OF HAM" BUT IT HAS NEW FLAVOUR

"They all said they weren't hungry—but look at the platter!" That's how it goes when you cook your slice of ham in Borden's St. Charles Milk, according to the recipe below.
The mustard flavour is cooked in, and there's a suggestion of cloves, too—besides the extra-rich milk which gives every dish a superior savour and nutritive value. Be sure to use St. Charles milk—ordinary milk is too thin. You'll be surprised how different this dish is from just plain ham.
Baker Ham with St. Charles
1 slice ham cut about 1 inch thick, with rim of fat.
1 tablespoon sugar
1 cup Borden's St. Charles Milk
1 teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup water
Trim off rim of fat and cut in very small pieces. Thoroughly mix flour and mustard and pat into ham. Place in rather deep pan. Mix together cloves and sugar and rub through the fat; place over top of ham. Dilute milk with water and pour over ham to cover. Bake in a moderate oven until ham is tender, about one hour. Add more milk as needed to cover ham while baking.
