Death of Noted Leader Habitant Troubadours

Hundreds here will remember the visit last December to Timmins of Charles Marchand, the famous leader of the Habitant Troubadours. Mr. Marchand and his Troubadours delighted all at the noted annual charity turkey stag, and also at a special recital in the New Empire theatre the following day. The attractive Habitant songs were given in a bright and sympathetic way that could not help but please and it is not too much to say that this gifted singer and poet made hosts of friends here. He visited Iroquois Falls, Halleybury and other centres in the North and wherever he and his Troubadours went they were popular and appreciated. There will be general regret accordingly at the news of the death of Mr. Marchand in the prime of life. He was only 38 years old when he was taken by death. The report of his death as given by despatches from Montreal last week is as follows:—

"Charles Marchand, the well-known singer of French-Canadian folksongs, died of pleurisy, after an illness of less than two weeks. Mr. Marchand's contributions to French-Canadian folk music were very considerable. It was he, who, to a great extent, popularized the songs which had been collected and arranged by Maurice Barbeau and E. Z. Massicote, with whom he was intimately associated for many years.

"Mr. Marchand organized the famous Bytown Troubadours, a quartette of singers specializing in French-Canadian folk songs. At the head of this quartette he travelled throughout Canada and also extensively in the United States, where it is said he was a great favourite. He took a prominent part in the folk-song festival held at the Chateau Frontenac in 1928, at the Great West Canadian Festival held in Winnipeg and Calgary this year, and at the Toronto Festival held last November. It is understood that this year's Quebec Festival, which was to have taken place in May, was postponed until October on account of Mr. Marchand's illness.

"Mr. Marchand has devoted himself exclusively to the profession of folk-singer for many years. His repertoire contained a wide range of 17th and 18th century French-Canadian folk songs. Those who have heard him sing say, it was not so much his voice as his sense of rhythm and his ability to create atmosphere that made his art so unique. When singing to English audiences it was his invariable practice to render a few songs at the end of his recital of J. Murray Gibbons.

"Mr. Marchand was 38 years old at the time of his death. He was born in St. Paul, L'Hermite, Que., educated at L'Assomption College and at the College of the Clerics St. Viateur, Rigaud. Previous to taking up his profession he was employed in the offices of the Federal government at Ottawa."

REV. FR. O'GORMAN WRITES ABOUT HIS TRIP TO EUROPE

Had a Splendid Passage From St. John, N.B., to Cherbourg. Writes From Marseilles, France. Attending Eucharistic Congress.

Rev. Fr. J. R. O'Gorman, of the Church of the Nativity, Timmins, who is at present on a tour overseas, promised before leaving here to drop an occasional letter to The Advance so that his many friends here might know how the trip was progressing. True to his promise Rev. Fr. O'Gorman has written The Advance from Marseilles, France, under date of May 6th, the letter reaching here this week. All will be interested in this pleasing letter from Rev. Fr. O'Gorman.

Grand Hotel de Geneve, Marseilles, France.
May 6th, 1930

Dear Advance:—A few brief notes on my journey thus far. Leaving St. John N. B., on the "Montrose," April 23rd, we had a splendid passage to Cherbourg, arriving May 1st. I am with a party of sixteen Montrealers.

At Cherbourg we engaged a motor bus for the trip to Paris, 230 miles. It was a pleasant day, and the "apple blossom time in Normandy" gladdened our eyes.

We made short stops en route at Bayeux, Caen, and Lisieux, arriving in Paris at 10 p.m. Almost at the hotel door we collided with a taxi but no damage resulted.

Next day was spent in seeing the principal places of interest in the French capital. Saturday we left for Lourdes, traversing the whole of France to the Pyrenees. A quiet Sunday was passed at the famous shrine. Monday saw us astray early to entrain for Nice, but as I had been to the theatre I alighted at Marseilles to which city the rest of the party will return to-night. We embark to-morrow for Tunis and Carthage.

This busy city is busier than ever these days, with so many visitors passing through on the way to Carthage. They appear to come from every quarter of the globe.

Travelling with our party is Rt. Rev. Bishop McCloskey, of Jaro, in the Philippine Islands. He is a native of Philadelphia but has been in the Islands for many years. He is a very charming companion.

The Eucharistic Congress will open Wednesday morning. We shall not arrive until Thursday evening. The final ceremonies will be on Sunday. I shall write you again on Sunday evening and should have much to tell you.

J. R. O'GORMAN

P.S.—I am sending a report of the Eucharistic Congress by cable to the Canadian Press at the request of the C.P.R. You will see it before this reaches you.

In reference to the postscript to Rev. Fr. O'Gorman's letter it is interesting to note the following cable from Carthage, Tunisia, under date of May 8th, in a number of the daily newspapers:—

"Where followers of Christ were delivered to wild beasts in the beginning of Christianity, little children to-day took part in a moving ceremony of the 13th Roman Catholic Eucharistic Congress of the world.

"Under the warm afternoon sun, 5,000 little ones paid their tribute to the memory of the countless martyrs whom pagans cast into the ancient amphitheatre to make a "Roman holiday."

"Catholic tradition preserves the spots where thirty-odd martyrs died, each spot being marked with a plaque. The children, most of whom had just entered upon their first communion, marched through the once blood-soaked arena and reverently placed palms upon the plaques.

"The ceremony of decoration, the children's communion and a pontifical mass sung before a vast assemblage in the Carthage Cathedral, today marked the high lights of the congress."

DEATH OF MRS. McQUARRIE, MOTHER OF MRS. PICKERING

Some weeks ago The Advance referred to the fact that Mrs. A. W. Pickering had been called to the south owing to the illness of her mother, Mrs. Hector McQuarrie, who for a number of years was a highly esteemed resident of Halleybury. Since then the sad news has been received here of the death of Mrs. McQuarrie at Toronto. There will be general sympathy with Mrs. Pickering in her bereavement through the death of her mother. In referring to the death of Mrs. McQuarrie under the heading "Early Resident of Halleybury Passes in Toronto," The Halleyburian last week says:—"Word came from Toronto this week of the death of a former citizen of Halleybury in the person of Mrs. Hector McQuarrie, which took place at her residence on the city on Saturday last. With the late Mr. McQuarrie, she was among the earliest settlers in this section of the North and there are many old friends here who remember them with kindly feelings of regard. Mr. McQuarrie died a good many years ago, and Mrs. McQuarrie went to Toronto to reside. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, interment being at Dundalk, Ont., her former home."

Efforts of the fire rangers and auxiliary fire-fighters, coupled with the rains that fell, have completely checked the fire menace in the district adjacent to North Bay. Last week Chief Ranger D. J. Kennedy, of the North Bay district, reported his area as completely rid of fire danger. All but five or six of the auxiliary force despatched to fight the fires were withdrawn on Thursday last, the danger being past.

FUNERAL OF HARRY AUSTIN AT PEMBROKE ON SATURDAY

Formerly Resident of Timmins. Had Wide Circle of Friends Here. Funeral with Masonic Honours. Was Veteran of the Great War.

The funeral of Harry Austin, whose death at Cochrane last week was referred to in the last issue of The Advance, took place at Pembroke, his old home town, on Saturday afternoon, May 17th. The body was taken from Cochrane to Pembroke, arriving in the latter place on Saturday morning. The funeral took place from the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Johnson, Pembroke. From Toronto, Sudbury, Timmins, North Bay and Cochrane there were present representatives of the firm by which the young man was employed, and a number of relatives from a distance were also in attendance, as well as many townspeople. Members of Pembroke Masonic Lodge were present in a body, and conducted the Masonic burial service at the grave. Rev. H. S. Osborne, of Wesley United Church, officiated at the house and grave. Interment took place in the United Church cemetery, Pembroke.

As noted in The Advance last week the late Harry Austin died after an illness of only a day. For some time past he had been manager of the Cochrane branch of the National Grocers. He had previously been stationed at Timmins with the National Grocers and had hosts of friends here. His widow, formerly Miss Mary Gray, was for some years a teacher on the public school staff here, and a sister of Duncan Gray who conducted a drug store here for several years. To the bereaved widow and little daughter, Barbara, the deepest sympathy of wide circles of friends in Timmins and district will be extended in their sad loss.

The late Harry Austin was in his 30th year at the time of death. He was born in Montreal and as a boy went to Pembroke to reside, living for many years with his grandmother, the late Mrs. A. Foster. He was educated at the Pembroke public and high schools. Some years ago he went to North Bay where he entered the employ of the National Grocers. From North Bay he came to Timmins, later going to Cochrane where for some years past he was manager of the branch there of the firm. He was a son of the late A. F. G. Austin, of Montreal, and Mrs. Austin, the latter now residing with an only daughter at Pasadena, California. The late Dr. J. D. Deacon, of Pembroke, whose sudden death at noon on Wednesday shocked Pembroke people, was an uncle of the late Harry Austin, uncle and nephew thus passing away on the same day. Four years ago the late Harry Austin was married to Miss Mary Gray, of Blind River, Ont., who was at that time a public school teacher in Timmins.

The late H. B. Austin was a returned soldier. He was a member of Cochrane Lodge A. F. & A. M. The funeral on Saturday took place from the residence of his aunt, Mrs. H. B. Johnson, Pembroke.

The late H. B. Austin was a young man of talent and fine personality and his sad and sudden death was a decided shock to large circles of friends and acquaintances in the North Land.

ONTARIO BOARDS OF TRADE FOR TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY

The following resolution was passed at the last annual convention of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, the resolution being introduced by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce:—

"Resolved, that the members in convention assembled heartily approve and endorse the proposed construction of a trans-continental all-Canadian King's highway from sea to sea, and respectively urge that a joint conference representing all the provinces and government of the Dominion be summoned at the earliest possible date, so that equitable terms may be arranged and co-operation secured with a view actually to initiate this great national work not later than the summer of 1930."

In commenting on the resolution, The Northern Tribune, of Kapuskasing, suggests that Belleville had no direct interest in the matter, not being on any of the proposed routes, and so may be considered altogether selfish in the advocacy of the highway. It will, of course, be admitted that Belleville is actuated for purely patriotic reasons in its advocacy of the Trans-Canada highway. So, for that matter, are the boards of trade and other bodies in this North. But it should not be forgotten that all of Canada will benefit from the building of the proposed highway from coast to coast. With motor traffic what it is to-day, there is no other work so important for Canada as a whole as the Trans-Canada highway. It would greatly increase traffic in the Belleville area and in practically all other areas of Canada, for there would be a general "rush" as it were, to use the Trans-Canada highway by tourists and others and practically all areas in Canada would be used to reach the highway. The Northern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade is on record as in favour of the immediate building of the Trans-Canada highway. So is the Ontario Motor League, and scores of other bodies. The demand for the completion of the Trans-Canada highway is so urgent that only a government out of touch with the popular mind would scorn the requests. The immediate arrangement to proceed with the work is demanded as the most economical method to cope with some of the unemployment that now is injuring Canada.

SISTER OF MRS. H. A. MORIN DIES AT NORTH BAY SUNDAY

A despatch from North Bay on Sunday says:—"The death occurred at North Bay on Sunday afternoon of Mrs. Josephine P. Quinton, a resident of this city for almost 45 years. Mrs. Quinton, who before her marriage was Mary C. Bourke, was born at Portage Du Fort, Que., 54 years ago. In 1886 her parents brought their family to North Bay and she had been a continuous resident of this city since that time. She is survived by her husband and one young son, six brothers, Thomas J. James and Joseph, of North Bay; John, Port Arthur; William, Toronto; Edward, La Tuque, Que., and four sisters, Mrs. Harry McDonald, Toronto; Rev. Sister Wilhelmina, of the Sisters of St. Joseph, Toronto; Mrs. J. P. Howe, Pembroke, and Mrs. Harry A. Morin, Timmins, also mourn. The funeral will likely be held from her late residence 184 Klock avenue, Wednesday morning to St. Mary's pro cathedral. Interment will be at the Catholic cemetery."

Huntingdon Gleaner:—McDonald Jeffrey, 51, of Windsor, Ont., died suddenly while playing a game of cards. He had been running in hard luck and laughingly "blew on the deck" to change his luck. Before he dealt a card he fell forward dead. Heart disease was given as the cause of death.
