The garden party held at the home of Mrs. A. Ewing, Bruce Avenue, on Saturday, August 2nd, was quite a success. Ideal weather favored the event which was given under the auspices of the Rebekah Lodge of South Porcupine. A fish pond for the children on the verandah under the charge of Miss Maud Carne was quite an attraction during the afternoon. There was also Jack Horner's Plum Pudding over which Miss Bessie Mansfield presided. Mrs. W. Thomas was in charge of the ice-cream booth. Mrs. Freeman and Mrs. Anthony assisted with the tea and cake, while Mrs. W. Rayner and Mrs. F. Hamilton presided over Miss Muffet's garden where the tables were arranged on the lawn. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Miller and daughter, Muriel, are leaving this Saturday on a motor trip to Pembroke and Ottawa.

An esteemed resident passed on to her reward when Mrs. William Miller died at her home on Crawford street at nine o'clock on Saturday evening, August second. The late Mrs. Miller was born in Haliburton sixty-four years ago. On the sixth of August forty-five years ago she was married to William Miller. Besides the sorrowing husband nine children mourn the loss of a faithful mother. There are six daughters and three sons—Mrs. Bain of Cache Bay, Mrs. Glandon of Aylmer, Quebec; Mrs. Booth, of Toronto; Mrs. I. E. Dunn, of Timmins; Mrs. Roy MacLeod, of Iroquois Falls; and Mrs. H. Clark, of Swastika. The sons are Herbert, of Schumacher; Sheridan of South Porcupine; and Walter, of Swastika. Mr. and Mrs. Miller with their family came to Porcupine in 1911 and have kept their home here on Crawford street ever since, although they were in Kirkland Lake for part of the time during the past five years. Kindly, loving and conscientious, Mrs. Miller had many friends who regret her passing but she has suffered much during her lingering illness of the past year. The late Mrs. Miller was a member of the Anglican Church and the funeral services were held there on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. The service was taken by Rev. Archdeacon Woodall who preached a very sympathetic sermon from the text "God is love." The pall-bearers were Messrs Ostrom, J. Andrews, J. A. Armstrong, G. Alcott, J. McQuarrie and S. McQuarrie. The daughters were all home about a month ago to see their mother and Mrs. Booth and Mrs. Clark were not able to get back for the funeral, Mrs. Clark being seriously ill. Mr. and Mrs. Bain and little son, of Cache Bay also Mr. Alcott, of Cache Bay; Mrs. Glandon, of Aylmer; Mrs. and Mrs. E. Varette, Mr. and Mrs. Roy MacLeod and son, of Iroquois Falls, were here for the funeral. The floral offerings were beautiful and many, among them being sprays from Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. Munro and Miss Stevens, Mr. P. Millions, Miss Stack, of Iroquois Falls; Mr. and Mrs. E. Varette, of Iroquois Falls; Mr. and Mrs. F. Findlay, of New Liskeard; Mr. and Miss Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. H. Clark, Swastika. Wreaths from Mrs. McQuarrie and family; from Grace Chapel, Timmins, Mr. and Mrs. Bower Bain and family, Cache Bay; Mercantile Department, Abitibi Company, Iroquois Falls; Mrs. Korpi, Mrs. Katto, and Mrs. Kawisto; a crescent from South Porcupine Rebekah Lodge and the I.O.O.F.; a cross from Mr. and Mrs. O. Spiers; a pillow from the children, and a spray from the grandchildren.

Miss Dorothy, Clark returned to Montreal on Sunday, after a vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Clark.

Action Free Press—It would seem that the city papers, in their rush for sensationalism magnify what the communities consider rather trivial matters. We have noticed like experiences locally and can see the funny side of the question as well as most other communities. About a year ago we heard a city daily representative promise to supply its readers with all the inside information on a subject with which we were fairly conversant. It, however, was only a promise, and never possibly just as well for all concerned developed into a reality, which was The dailies are great institutions but their function is not the accurate descriptions of the local events in the smaller communities.

Pioneering Route for Trans-Canada Highway

The Northern Tribune, of Kapuskasing, last week had following reference to a proposed plan for pioneering the route of the Trans-Canada highway— "Mr. E. Wharton Shaw of Hamilton, Ont., connected with the Sawyer-Massey Co., was in Kapuskasing this week in connection with a project he has launched for bridging the roadway gap between Hearst and Winnipeg. He has spent some days at Engleheart, New Liskeard, Cochrane and other Northern points enlisting active support for his scheme, and proceeded from here to Hearst. After leaving there he will go on to Winnipeg, thence to Fort William, and finally coming back this way again.

Mr. Wharton represents a group of Canadian manufacturers of road-machinery who have joined together each contributing one or more pieces of equipment, to conduct a tour from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts under their own power, and thus blaze the way for a national highway. The intention was to start this year from Halfax and come up via North Bay and Cochrane to Hearst, from which point they expected to follow the height of land to Orient Bay. The Northland Post of Cochrane released some press matter which had been issued in advance, and two weeks ago described how the motorcade had got as far as Temagami; but the fact is that a start was never made at all, this being postponed until 1931.

"Mr. Wharton is seeking the co-operation of boards of trade and other Northern interests in financing the proposition and giving it publicity. They are being asked to consider contributions to make the expedition possible. "There would seem to be very strong objection to a group of private manufacturers taking the lead in settling the route of the proposed trans-Canada highway and getting plenty of free publicity at the cost of the North in venture unsoundly based. The letter sent to boards of trade mentioned the possibility of making headway through trackless bush south-west of Hearst at the rate of three miles a day until Orient Bay was reached.

"The outcome of the federal elections means that the trans-Canada highway route may be settled in the next few weeks, just prior to the opening of the emergency session of the new parliament, and an early start would be made on construction work on the un-built gaps. If the advocates of the Northern route hope to have their case considered by the new cabinet (Which will include a Fort William cabinet minister) it would seem to be necessary to forthwith organize a non-partisan highways association to present and push their arguments. The matter of route will probably not be left over till next spring at all, but actual work on the road may likely be done before snow flies."

Northern Tribune—Apparently we must have miles of arguments before we can have miles of trans-Canada highway. Therefore it is incumbent upon those who favor the construction of this great national undertaking to counter the evasions and speciousness of those who have thus far encompassed its delay or defeat. When public opinion so strongly endorses the project, reinforced by repeated demands of many nation-wide representative organizations, it becomes necessary to dissipate unsound opposition and hold the issue to clear light before the electors.

Simcoe Reformer—The Reformer has heard a number of comments on the timeliness of the article appearing on this page last week with reference to the obnoxious practice of strewing waste paper and handbills upon the lawns of householders in Simcoe. Members of the Town Council and particularly the Board of Works are priding themselves upon the cleanliness of downtown streets, which have received special attention this summer. The officials deserve all the compliments bestowed upon them by citizens for this innovation. At the same time the town fathers should carry the cleanup further by enacting a bylaw to prevent the distribution of bills from house to house and by making it an offence to throw waste paper of any kind, on other people's lawns. Only some such stringent measure will do away with a habit that causes householders no end of annoyance and trouble.
