GOVERNMENT ENFORCING REAL PROTECTION POLICY

Increased Duties on Glass Revoked by Cabinet. Sir George Perley Emphasizes Fact That the Consumer Must Be Given Protection.

The Government has proven its good faith and also its ability by the revoking of the duty on glass. The chief objection to protective tariffs has been the claim that the duty has been added on the price of the home manufactured article and so the consumer has been far from protected. When Sir John A. Macdonald first evolved the idea of the national policy of protection, his idea was to protect the struggling young industry from the "dumping" tactics of foreign nations, while at the same time the consumer would also be protected from the greed of the home manufacturer.

The present Bennett administration has proven that they favour a real national policy of protection—policy that will truly protect, not only the manufacturer and the labourer who works in the factory, but also the ordinary, everyday consumer, the fellow who seems hitherto to have been more or less forgotten in the whole matter.

The increased duties on window glass approved at the last session of Parliament have been revoked. This action constitutes the first definite step of this kind by the Government to protect the consumer against enhanced prices of commodities the duties of which were increased.

The action, according to an official statement, issued by Sir George Perley, Acting Prime Minister, Thursday last week, follows on receipt of complaints that the prices of ordinary window glass to the consumer has been doubled since the special session of Parliament. Enquiry by the Government is stated, resulted in the conclusion that no active steps have been taken to produce glass in Canada by those having factories here.

The step taken follows on an exchange of cables between members of the Government here and Premier R. B. Bennett, in London.

The duties on window glass now return to what they were before the special session of Parliament, namely 7 1-2 percent, under the British preference, 12 1-2 percent, under the intermediate, and the same under the general tariff. The schedules approved at the last session divided the commodity into classes and fixed specific rates which were a great deal higher than those which had been effective.

Strenuous debate followed the introduction of the new glass schedules into the House of Commons, Premier Bennett read to the House a letter from the Canadian Libby-Owens Sheet Glass Company, Ltd., in which that company undertook to take immediate steps to bring their factories into operation if the increased duties were granted. Mr. Bennett explained to the House that a Belgian glass cartel had succeeded in closing out the Canadian glass industry. The object of the increased duties, he said, was to revive this industry. There was to be no increased price.

During discussion of the tariff increases, a number of undertakings from manufacturers declaring that there would be no price advances if the duties on their commodities were raised, were read by the Prime Minister. The objection was raised that these undertakings were of little value because they would not stand up in a court of law. To this objection, the Prime Minister replied that the Government did not propose to indulge in litigation with any manufacturer. The remedy lay in the hands of the Government, he said. If the prices were increased the duties would come down. The Government had the power to reduce the duties whenever it felt that the undertaking had not been lived up to.

Sir George issued the following statement:

"During the special session when the increases in the tariff were under discussion, the Prime Minister stated repeatedly that the Government would not permit consumers to be exploited or charged unfair prices, and that if anything of that sort were attempted, the Government would exercise its power to reduce the rates of duty. Complaints have come to the Government that the price of ordinary window glass to consumers has been doubled since the special session, and after inquiry the Government has learned that no active steps have so far been taken to produce glass in Canada by those having factories here. Under the circumstances, the Prime Minister was communicated with by cable and he replied, stating again definitely that glass users must not be exploited and that therefore the duty should be reduced as being the only way to protect them under present conditions.

"The Cabinet has therefore passed an Order-in-Council setting forth that it has become apparent that considerable time will elapse before producers in Canada of ordinary window glass will be able to supply the demand; and in the meantime it is right and conducive to the public good that the ultimate consumer of this commodity and the users thereof in Canadian manufactures should be protected; and that the duty on common and colourless window glass under item 318 shall hereafter be the rates applicable prior to the special session viz: 7 1-2 percent, preferential 12 1-2 percent intermediate and 12 1-2 percent, general.

"This action is taken in accordance with the settled policy of the Government as stated many times definitely by the Prime Minister himself, that we wish to encourage in every way the production of everything that can be reasonably produced in Canada, but at

Quarterly Letter from Canada Northern Power Corporation Refers to Promising Situation of Basic Industry of the North.

In the letter accompanying the quarterly dividends on the preferred stock in the Canada Northern Power Corporation, the vice-president and general manager B. V. Harrison, refers to the situation in regard to the basic industry of this North, mining. The letter in part reads:—

"The basic industry of the district served by your Company, viz Mining, continues to be quite active, the market for gold being unaffected by business depressions, in fact, the low price of other commodities rather benefits the gold industry.

As will be seen by the following comparative figures, the gross earnings of our Company continue to show an increase, being $3,149,736.02 during the twelve months ending August 31st, 1930 as compared with $3,117,680.30 during that period in 1929.

The expansion programmes at the established mines served by our Company are making excellent progress, notably at the Lake Shore Mine in Kirkland Lake, where their new milling equipment is being installed, their connected load having been increased by 2,000 H.P. during September.

The new crusher plant and mill extension at the Teck Hughes Mine is nearing completion, which will materially increase their power demand within the next few months.

In the Porcupine district, increased activity is also most noticeable, the rebuilding of the Dome Mill and the construction of the new Mill at the McIntyre Mine being outstanding features, which will naturally call for increased power requirements.

The Noranda Mine in the Province of Quebec is steadily adding to its utilization of power, while the operations at the Amulet continue at the full capacity of their equipment.

The Tough Oakes Mine in Kirkland Lake has been reopened, operations being conducted by the Bunker Hill Extension Mines and satisfactory progress is being made in the exploration work which they have undertaken, and there is every probability that their Mill will be in operation in the near future.

We have inaugurated a new optional residential rate, which will undoubtedly increase the use of power in the homes of the residents of our territory, judging by the experience of our own and other electric companies.

At Noranda we opened a store on September 2nd, for the sale of electric appliances, which brings up the number of similar stores to ten.

Our new plant at the Upper Notch is practically completed, making available 13,000 additional horse power which will enable us to meet the demands indicated above.

The Company's Pulp Mill continues to be operated at capacity and our various plants are being maintained in a satisfactory condition.

Abitibi Canyon Scene of Great Activity Now

(From The Cochrane Post)

The Abitibi Canyon, some seventy three miles from Cochrane is to-day one of the busiest spots in Canada. In slightly more than 2 months, the Dominion Construction Company have transformed what was virgin bush into a veritable hive of activity. The Company's camp is located in a natural amphitheatre. The buildings, which are of a semi-permanent construction are built on the slope of the ridge that separates the camp from the Abitibi river, about a quarter of a mile distant. Surmounting the top of the ridge are a number of cottages to house the officials of the company and will later be used as residences by the permanent staff employed in the power-house. Here also is the twenty-five thousand gallon water tank to which water from the Abitibi will be pumped for the use of the camp, after being first chlorinated to make it safe for use. Lower down on the slope are staff bunkhouse, the two large cookeries, each seating three hundred men at a time, the staff cookery, the main office building, the employment office, the camp store, the foremen's bunkhouse, the post office, warehouses, etc., and also two large bunk houses for the men, each over three hundred feet long. The men's bunkhouses are divided into sections, each one accommodating sixteen men, and will be equipped with shower baths, running water, and sewerage, as will all the other buildings.

While much of what has so far been accomplished is more of a preliminary character, the actual work of building the dam is proceeding. On each side of the river, excavating is being done for the dam itself, while a shaft is being sunk through solid rock, from which the tunnels will be cut to take the water of the river while the dam is under construction. The shaft has reached a depth of over fifty feet, and the tunnels, when completed, will have a total length of over twenty-two hundred feet. A large bank of gravel for use in the building of the dam and power house is being built up, gravel coming from the pit at mileage 94 on T. & N. O., and is coming in at the rate of several trains per day.

The main activities of the camp occupy an area of at least half as big as the town of Cochrane, while an area of three or four times that extent has been cleared of bush, with more yet to be cleared. All the buildings in the camp are equipped with electric light, power coming from Island the same time protect the consumer from unfair prices."
