

ALL-BRITAIN SOCIAL CLUB EVENT FRIDAY THIS WEEK

The All-Britain Social Club will hold another great social evening in the Hollinger Recreation hall on Friday, Feb. 27th. Cards, competitions and dancing will be the features of the evening. The cards will commence promptly at 8 p.m. and will continue to 9 o'clock. All card-lovers are asked to be on hand early to avoid disappointment. There will be cigarettes and chocolates and, as usual, the best refreshments. Everyone attending is assured of a very pleasant evening. All are welcome. The fee for admission is a nominal one. All members are asked to please bring refreshments.

The All-Britain Social Club are holding another of their well-enjoyed whist drives on Tuesday, March 3rd, at 8 p.m. There will be the best of prizes and refreshments.

First Play-Offs on Friday in T.B.A.A.

Final Standings T.B.A.A. Juvenile Hockey in Junior, Intermediate and Senior Sections of the Schedule.

In the T.B.A.A. Juvenile hockey the stage is now set for the play-offs in the three sections, Junior, Intermediate and Senior. In each section there are to be two games, with goals to count.

The first of the play-offs in each of the three sections will be on Friday of this week with the second game on Friday of next week, March 6th. There will be three games each night, Junior, Intermediate and Senior. No lover of good hockey should miss these play-offs. All through the season the boys have been putting up a brand of hockey that has delighted the fans. In all the sections all the scheduled games have been played, making a record for hockey in this North. And all the games have been sparkling ones. Scores of hockey fans have followed these matches with interest. The following are the recent games, and the final standings:—

boys have been playing great hockey; giving everything they have, and that is quite a bit; it's great stuff," the fans say. Accordingly there should be special interest in the play-offs to decide the championship of each of the groups. In the Junior section the battle is between the Tuxis and the High School. In the Intermediate section Holy Name team and the Tuxis will stage a real contest. They are tied on points now and this section should provide an especially keen contest. In the Senior section Tuxis and Holy Name teams must fight it out.

The following are the recent games, and the final standings:—

SOCIAL EVENT, MARCH 5TH, BY CORNISH SOCIAL CLUB

The Cornish Social Club are holding a social evening and dance in the Hollinger hall on Thursday evening, March 5th. Each member is asked to bring a friend. The evening will be spent in dancing and entertainment and one of the good old Cornish lunches will be served. No one should miss this event because an important announcement will be made regarding the next social evening which will be held on March 19th. Members are asked to bring refreshments.

Mrs. S. O. Weldon, of St. Catharines, Ont., was a visitor to friends here last week.

Thought First of the Safety of Train 47

T. & N. O. Brakeman Has Legs Badly Crushed in Accident, but Thinks First of Safety of Approaching Passenger Train.

Samuel Smith, a brakeman on the T. & N. O. Railway was so badly injured on Saturday of last week in an accident at the railway yards at Cobalt that amputation of the lower part of both his legs was necessary later in the day, yet his first thought as he lay crushed under the wheels of a moving freight car was not for himself, though he must have suffered severely, but for the safety of an approaching passenger train. "Never mind me, boys, for a minute or two," he is reported as saying, "but look out for No. 47, for the switch is set wrong." Smith had fallen under the wheels of a freight and it was apparent that he was badly hurt. He was rushed to the Mines hospital at Cobalt, where an operation was performed later in the day by Dr. G. E. Case, Dr. G. A. Schmidt and Dr. W. C. Arnold.

Smith, whose home is in Englehart, was engaged in switching cars when the accident happened. His condition is reported fair.

At the time of the accident, about 9.50 Saturday morning, Smith was riding a freight car along the passing track, while his train was switching in the yard.

Apparently he had been leaning out too far and came in contact with the corner of a hopper car, the impact throwing him under the moving car.

Medical help and the ambulance were summoned, and Smith was taken to the Mines hospital, where Dr. G. E. Case and Dr. G. A. Schmidt rendered assistance. Before the injured man had been moved, H. E. Blackwall, balliff, of Haileybury, had improvised a tourniquet with a spare shoelace he carried, and was able to prevent excessive bleeding from one of the crushed limbs.

After being hurt, Smith's thought was for the protection of the north-bound passenger train, due shortly after the accident. To fellow members of the train crew, he said, "Watch for 47; the switch is set wrong."

Smith did not lose consciousness, though he suffered intensely. His wife and two members of his family, with a brother, came down from Englehart on the afternoon train.

Mrs. Smith is convalescing after an operation.

Gold Rush Now on in Rouyn and Joannes

Berrigan-McWatters Group of Claims in Rouyn Area Causes Another Rush. Three Hundred and Fifty Claims Recorded.

The latest rush is into the Rouyn camp. Recent discoveries reported at the Berrigan-McWatters claims have resulted in a regular rush of prospectors and no less than 350 claims have been recorded at the Noranda mining recorder's office in the last few weeks according to the account given. The rush has caused a considerable revival of interest in the Rouyn area and there is a chance that the new rush may rival the Matachewan one in interest. A despatch this week from Rouyn, Quebec, says:—"A staking rush, reminiscent of the early boom days of the camp, is in progress in the townships of Rouyn and Joannes, following upon the discovery of a large system of quartz veins carrying high gold values, on the Berrigan-McWatters group of claims, in Rouyn township.

"A considerable amount of work has been done on this property during the winter, but little was said about the discovery until some two weeks ago, when, following upon a report of the property by A. G. Morrison, M.E., it became known that the system of veins had been opened up for a length of approximately 500 feet, interconnected veins and veinlets showing over the great width of 250 feet in places.

"Since the news of the discovery has become known, 350 claims have been recorded at the Noranda office and many parties are still in the bush.

"Questioned regarding plans for further development of the property, Dave McWatters, one of the owners, stated that although offers had been made, none had as yet been accepted.

"Meanwhile, systematic sampling continues and a crew is engaged in taking in supplies for the continuation of work. An engineer representing Consolidated Smelters is leaving to make an examination of the property tomorrow."

Suggestions Made to Settlers in the North

(From The Northern Tribune)

There has been some response to our suggestion last week that settlers should go in for more poultry-raising, making their start by building a standard log house recommended by the Experimental Farm authorities, plans of which are furnished free. It is slow work disseminating ideas of this kind among settlers scattered far and wide throughout the North. The real thing that is wanted is a determination by the settlers that this year they will make a strong effort to raise either crops or stock, or both, on a larger scale than before, and thus get themselves in the way of making an independent living on their own farms. Those who are not attracted to the idea of raising poultry in numbers can give thought to the many other possibilities open to them, the start of which can be made on a small scale. There is bee-keeping, for example. The North has fine crops of nectar for bees, and it is easy to start in with a few colonies of honey gatherers. There is dairying, about which nothing need be said here: the settler may decide for himself whether he should not go in for milk and beef production. Raising hogs is quite profitable, and is also one way to supply the home table with food. As for vegetable growing, there is a first-rate market in the Northern towns for well-grown vegetables brought in fresh from the farm, and the good housewife can in this manner earn many an odd dollar with which to do her periodical town shopping. Amid all these calculations, flowers to beautify the home inside and out must not be neglected. At the very least, a few packets of annuals ought to be bought and planted to make the place cheerful. Now is the time to figure such things out, so that a clear idea is in mind when the spring rush of work comes along to claim attention. The work that is planned is always easier done and invites success.

COIN IS HELD IN TIMMINS

A rare and old coin of more than passing interest was shown The Advance this week by J. Russell who has had it for a number of years and who received it from his father who in turn had been in possession of the coin for a considerable time. This coin is a gold one dated 1790 and evidently, not only old but much worn in the 141 years it has been in existence. There is a hole in the top of the coin and it has evidently been used for years as a watch fob or in some similar way on a chain. The coin has no value or denomination stamped on it but would appear to have been the equivalent of a $10.00 gold piece in value to judge from its size. The hole cut through it has given rise to an odd change in the designation of the monarch under whom it was issued. According to the coin as it appears now it bears the inscription of George II. The date, however, shows that it could not be of the reign of that monarch. George II died in 1760 and so it is not likely that this coin, dated 1790, was issued 30 years after his death. It is apparent that the lettering "George II" was originally "George III," and that the hole through the coin cut away the final "I" from the "George III" thus leaving "George II," as the coin reads to-day.

The Kiwanis Children's Ward, or Wards, in the St. Mary's hospital, provided of special service during the past few weeks when there has been so much illness in the town and district, the children apparently having their full share. The Kiwanis wards in the hospital have proven already by the service given to be worth the effort and cost to establish them when the question is considered from the viewpoint of benefit to the youngsters.

Cochrane Running Out of Relief Work Money

(From The Northland Post)

Last year Mayor Mitchell obtained a grant of five thousand dollars for emergency relief to which the town was to add an additional large sum, in the hopes that sufficient work would be provided to support all the local unemployed. Many more men applied than were expected and the work did not last as long as was hoped for. In order to keep these local families from starving or becoming a charge on the town, Mayor Mitchell applied to the Government for more money but was not definitely promised any additional help. The municipality has already spent more than five hundred dollars more than the local budget calls for and lack of outside help will mean that all the public works will cease. Mayor Mitchell said in an interview this morning that "We will keep the men on till tomorrow but after that we can do no more without the assistance of the Government. We have been working the men in two sections, three days a week each, in order to picking the job, and even then we had so many that the job would not last as long as we had hoped."

Settlers Organize at McIntosh Springs

First Local Branch of South Cochrane Settlers Association Formed Last Week. Settlers Organize for Mutual Help and Advantage.

Any reader of The Advance knows the struggle that settlers in this part of the North Land are having to get along and establish themselves, and anything that promises assistance along this line will be gladly welcomed. Last week the settlers in the McIntosh Springs district met and formed a local branch of the South Cochrane Settlers' Association. This is the first local branch to be formed in South Cochrane, though North Cochrane has a large number of branches of the Northern Ontario Settlers' Association. The letter given below gives details of the purpose of the organization at McIntosh Springs and there should be every possible support given the association in the work undertaken. McIntosh Springs local can certainly depend on The Advance doing anything and everything practical to assist it in its good work for the settlers. The Advance believes that it can also rely on the goodwill and co-operation of the member of this riding, A. F. Kenning, M.P.P. Any thinking person can see the difficulties encountered by the settlers, and all good citizens should be willing to assist in any way to make the work and life of the settlers less difficult. This is all in the interests of the North as a whole. It would be a good thing if other sections of this part of the North would follow the lead of the settlers around McIntosh Springs and organize to help themselves. The letter referred to explains itself and reads as follows:—

McIntosh Springs, Ont.
To the Editor of The Advance, Timmins.

Dear Sir:—Last week a meeting was held at McIntosh Springs by the settlers of Dundonald township at which they adhered to the South Cochrane Settlers' Association and formed a local.

In the past, perhaps, we have been too individualistic. We have tried to paddle our own canoe as long as we have thought we can do so on our own advantage. But the depressed condition of the settlers in this part of the North has taught everyone to seek a remedy in union.

There will be no question of nationality, nor religion, nor political party in our association and we expect to get the support of our member of parliament. We want to work for the good of all and not view the movement from a personal and selfish standpoint, and I am sure that the settlers will find that when we have served unselfishly in this movement we have even served our own selfish ends the best.

The land is deserted; the few remaining settlers have to support all the weight of the school taxes. We want to find the cause of that desertion and apply immediately the remedy. Knowing for a long time the kind
