GOD SAVE THE KING

Archdeacon Visits at His Former Home

Ven. Archdeacon Woodall, of Porcupine, Ont., Given Warm Welcome and Reception at Luton, Near London, England.

His hosts of friends—and he has hosts of friends among all classes and creeds in this North Land that he has saved so faithfully and so long—will be interested and pleased to read of the welcome given to Ven. Archdeacon Woodall in his homeland, England. Rev. Mr. Woodall left this North Land several weeks ago to enjoy a holiday overseas.

A copy of "The Beds and Herts Pictorial" to hand this week gives a very interesting reference to Archdeacon Woodall's visit to his former parish of Luton. The article follows in full:—

Ven. J. E. Woodall Home
 Former curate of St. Matthew's, Luton, the Ven. J. E. Woodall, Archdeacon of Temiskaming, in the Diocese of Moosonee, Ontario, visited his old parish during the week-end.

The Archdeacon was entertained to a welcome tea at St. Matthew's Parish Hall on Saturday, and preached at the Sunday School anniversary services on Sunday, and again yesterday evening. At the tea table the Vicar, the Rev. C. W. J. Harbridge presided, and with the Archdeacon were Mrs. Woodall, who is sister-in-law to Mr. Alfred Burgess, the organist at St. Matthew's, Mrs. Harbridge, and relatives and friends of the visitors.

The Vicar thanked the ladies who served tea, and acknowledged the work of the Sunday School teachers. He stressed the importance of Sunday School work.

Vicar and Sunday Schools
 "I feel to-day there are two hindrances to Sunday School work. First, the church throughout the country does not take interest in the work. We vicars, of course, are to blame a great deal. Our lives are very full on Sundays, and we cannot give the time we ought to work among the children.

"But at the same time I feel it is not merely the responsibility of parsons. Church people themselves do not take the interest and it would be of great benefit to the work if they did. I do not know, for instance how many of us have taken the trouble to give encouragement to our Sunday School teachers. Theirs is hard and laborious work, and the least we can do is to say 'Thank you' and assure them of our sympathy, interest and prayers.

"Secondly, there is the lack of co-operation between parents and Sunday School teachers. No matter how good the Sunday School teachers are, if there is no co-operation in the home, the seed that is sown on Sunday afternoon is soon going to be choked. The great thing the Sunday School teachers are up against to-day, is the fact that parents don't see their children an example of a church-going and religious life. Very few parents take the trouble to go into church unless it is for a baptism, wedding, or funeral, and so the present generation is not receiving the help they ought to have from the home life of our country."

Holiday After Eighteen Years
 Welcoming the Archdeacon and Mrs. Woodall first because of his former association with St. Matthew's Parish, the Vicar said it was about 18 years ago since the Archdeacon was home, and something like 29 years ago since he was curate of the parish. He could truthfully say that whatever he had heard about the Archdeacon and Mrs. Woodall had always been to their credit. They had been greatly loved in the past, and their name was still honoured and revered.

St. Matthew's had taken an interest and valued the great work the Archdeacon had been doing in Canada, labouring under very bad conditions. On behalf of St. Matthew's, the Vicar congratulated Archdeacon and Mrs. Woodall on the great work they were doing in Canada.

Acknowledging the welcome, the Archdeacon said it was only those who had been working on the outskirts of civilization, and beyond civilization, who could fully appreciate such a gathering as that, such a welcome home.

The Fatted Calf
 "It reminds me of the Gospel story of the young man who went into a far country and there wasted his substance in riotous living.

"Well, I have not done that (laughter). Luckily perhaps, I have not had very much to spend, but coming home you have really killed the fatted calf and made merry."

For all that the people of St. Matthew's had done to help them in their work among the Indians and the Eskimos at Hudson Bay, the Archdeacon and Mrs. Woodall were profoundly thankful.

"We have often felt it in that lonely country, travelling sometimes for sixteen days without meeting a single soul. You can get lonesome not seeing anybody, and I have often sat by the little camp fire watching the smoke curl up to the hole at the top of the tent, and thought of St. Matthew's, and in that smoke I have seen old faces come back to me (applause).

Changed Luton
 "And then to this town which I look upon as my home and to see the wonderful improvements and advances of the town, to see the wonderful expansion in all directions; and to see this England of ours once again—it does one's heart good.

changes have not been so great as I expected, and the changes I have seen have to my mind been for the better.

Drunkenness
 "Before I came to St. Matthew's, I worked in one of the slums of Battersea. You could not go out on Saturday night in safety. No policeman would walk through that part alone at night. You would see drunken men around and in the pubs.

"I have been through the same district since I have been back, and I have yet to meet a man the worse for liquor. That is one of the greatest changes; not what I have seen but what I have not seen—a drunken man on the streets.

"My own impression is that England has what we call in Canada the right dope."

One of the methods they had of dealing with the liquor question in Ontario was by prohibition. When the Archdeacon was a curate in Luton he would have held up both his hands for prohibition.

"As we grow older we get wiser," continued the Ven. J. E. Woodall. "I was in Ontario under prohibition, and I saw more drunken men than I ever saw before, when we had the open bar, or than I have seen since we have had Government control.

"I do hope this country will never go in for prohibition (applause). To my mind it is contrary to the best interests of the community. I am glad that under your present system here, you have made such a wonderful social change as you have in the last 18 years."

The Archdeacon went on to describe life and work in the Diocese of Moosonee.

Mr. Woodall preached at the services on Sunday addressing the children in the afternoon. The various departments of the Sunday School—the infants under Miss H. Poulton, and the main school under Mr. S. Murden and Miss A. Bainton, sang special hymns, the infants singing alone. Mr. A. Burgess, the organist was responsible for the musical part of the services.

The collections for Sunday School funds amounted to over $26.

The Haileyburian last week says:—"J. D. and Earl Sutherland, recently of the Castle Trethewey mine at Bestel, have gone to Forcupine, where they have secured jobs at the McIntyre and Dome mines."

Brantford Expositor:—Iowa farmers are resisting by force attempts to make tuberculin tests of their cattle. How would the farmers like it, if for the protection of the consuming public, the areas containing such cattle were declared closed ones, and milk and meat from them barred from public sale.

Diamond Drilling Being Done in Gulbord Township Near the Croesus Mine. Other Promising Areas in the District.

H. A. Preston has always been a booster of the area around Matheson. Recently, he has been making special reference to the district south of Timmins as a gold area but this week in a letter to The Advance he centres again on the section immediately around Matheson. His letter follows:—

Matheson, Ont., May 18th, 1931
 To the Editor of The Advance, Timmins.

Dear Sir:—There is going to be considerable diamond drilling done in Gulbord township around the mountain, which is a short distance from the Croesus Mine, where the richest gold in Ontario was found. There is a body of quartz running southwest for many miles and it is believed there is a mine somewhere near it. This country has several good showings of gold and is one of the two most likely areas to find another Lake Shore Mine. It is directly east from Porcupine and the Night-hawk area. The other place is all the country south of Porcupine to Tyrrell township. This promising area around Munro and Gulbord townships is about thirty miles north of Kirkland Lake, and stretches from Lightning River westward to Porcupine and it seems almost a certainty that the next great gold mines in Ontario will be in this and the Macatchewan area to the south of Porcupine. Not only does this green area already contain America's greatest gold mines but many more like them are here and if they be discovered it will not cost a fortune to get to them. Two or three hours' run from Timmins and the Porcupine, and plenty of power nearby, and roads to transfer machinery. Canada is now second place for gold production. What has put her there? Why Porcupine and Kirkland Lake certainly! Then just stamp this in your mind, that if Canada is to take first place it will be the area east of Porcupine to Shiningtree area that will put her there. Can anyone tell me a better place to look for great mines?

Jas. Foley has taken charge of the Stanley hotel here. Mr. Foley, who spent a long time in distant fields, like many others, has decided this part where the big mines are is the best place to see a brighter future ahead of it.

Tourists passing through Matheson will see one of the cleanest towns in the North. Everything is being done to make it so.

Yours truly,
 H. A. Preston.
