All Foreign Reds Should be Deported

None who are Unwilling to Carry Out Responsibility of Good Citizenship Here Should be Helped in Any Way.

The Advance has had much to say in recent issues in regard to the offensiveness of the communists and other foreign reds—ignorant and objectionable fellows who are creating disturbance and annoyance in this country when decent people have enough troubles in attempting to care for loyal people who may be in hard luck because of world-wide conditions of depression. The Advance has taken the stand that the first care should be given to the loyal people of the country, first to Canadians and other British and then to loyal people who may have come from other lands. To the alien or other disloyal red who attempts to bite the hand that feeds him or stab the country that is supporting him, no quarter should be shown. In Timmins, for instance, the chief supporters of the communists are foreigners who own property and try to stir up their ignorant fellow countrymen so that the latter may not notice how they are being bled and misled by the men who are making money out of the game. Communists are supposed to be opposed to all owning of property by individuals, yet if the so-called communists here lost all their property-owners there would be scarcely enough left to stop an egg. These property-owning communists, many of them comfortably rich on money made in Canada, have been importing here alien and other paid agitators to fool their simple countrymen while they are making a clean-up.

In an interesting article last week The New Liskeard Speaker touches on some features of the case as follows: "In most of the northern cities and towns the foreign element of the Communist order has been 'demanding' employment or aid. Not only have they demanded this aid but in some cases they have made their demands in an offensive manner. One would imagine that if they really are in destitute circumstances they would respectfully ask for help. Certainly they have no license to 'demand' the help they say they need.

"If these foreigners came to Canada of their own free will, and in the hope that they might succeed here better than in their own country, they should be deported if they are not satisfied with conditions existing here. If they were brought here by promises of work by Government agents, then it is up to the Government to keep faith with them and see that they get work or be cared for until they do get work. Of course, we mean immigrants who are willing to become Canadian citizens, but not Reds, or trouble-makers should receive Government aid or in any sense become wards of the Government. No foreigners who are unwilling to serve this country as soldiers should be kept here at the country's expense.

"Recently an important decision was given in an American court on which five judges sat, as to whether a foreigner wishing to take the oath of allegiance to the United States must agree to assume all the responsibilities of citizenship such as a native American has to assume, the point in dispute being in regard to military service. Three of the judges ruled that the applicant must be willing to serve the United States as a soldier if called upon so to do, and hence that is the law in that country. What applies in the United States should apply to Canada, at least in this respect.

"During the Great War internment camps had to be provided for the safe keeping of foreigners not to be trusted at large, and all over the country soldiers had to be kept here to watch disloyal foreigners. As bad as matters in this respect were during the war, they would be worse now in case Great Britain became involved in another war. Surely it were best for our Department of Militia to profit by the experiences of the Great War.

"About fifty years ago when the first lot of Doukhobor immigrants came to Canada from Russia they were told they would not be called upon for military service. One branch of these immigrants 'made good,' but the other branch has given, and still is giving, the country a great deal of trouble. Hereafter no immigrants should be allowed to come to this country who are not willing to assume all the responsibilities of citizenship. It is unreasonable for any one to expect others to fight for them. Great Britain, amongst the great powers, at least, is the only country which allows 'religious convictions' to relieve any one from fighting in defence of the homeland.

"During the American civil war there was a Northern farmer who was 'drafted' to go and fight. He refused to join the battalion, but not for long. A corporal and two private soldiers went for him with fixed bayonets. He no longer hesitated.

"In the case we have cited the military authorities of the United States did what would have been done under similar conditions in any other country, yet we have in Canada thousands of foreigners who would laugh with derision at the idea of having to perform military service. It is long past the time when they should be given to understand that they must become Canadians or leave the country. It is preposterous to expect the Government to provide for this class of foreigners while our own British and Canadian born are in want."

CANADA TOO YOUNG AND RICH FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

(From The Estevan Mercury).
 A Saskatoon lawyer has been listening in at some of the city's numerous conventions of the discontented element, and he tells an audience of his own that he fears anarchy is near. He differs widely from the general run of spellbinders in that he does not lay the country's woes against the government. He rings the changes again in prescribing a fairly reasonable and quite workable remedy for the recurring problem of unemployment. He says that unemployment relief is not a local or regional but a national responsibility. What then? He would have the entire manhood of the nation numbered, registered and classified. Then he would have the federal government assume responsibility for distributing this army of workers wherever labour is needed, and to provide public works for the surplus unemployed, drafting men from one point to another as occasion required.

The suggestion flavours somewhat of dictatorship and therefore may not meet with immediate and enthusiastic approval. But there is this to be said in its favour, that in a country as broad, diversified, rich and undeveloped as Canada is, there should be no sound reason why thousands of men stand idle and their families suffer privation.

Seeks Support of North for Information Bureau

They are at it again. Once more the North Bay board of trade is endeavouring to secure the assistance of towns in the North Land for the maintenance of a bureau of information to be supported at North Bay for the dissemination of information regarding the North Land, especially to tourists.

This subject was brought before the boards of trade of the North on some previous occasions, but did not find many backers in this part of the North. Here there was a general belief that a bureau of information at North Bay would not help this part of the country to any marked extent. It was claimed that North Bay in past years did not encourage visitors to come north. Also, it was felt that tourist traffic will not be very heavy in this particular part of the North until after the belt line of roads is built. If North Bay wishes to interest this part of North in any financing of an information bureau the city had better bend its efforts first to having the belt line of roads completed by the finishing of the road between Timmins and Sudbury. In referring to the plans of the North Bay board of trade last week, The North Bay Nugget says:—

"President R. H. Thompson, of the North Bay board of trade, will represent this city at a meeting of the Northern Ontario Boards of Trade to be held at Iroquois Falls some time near the end of June, at a date to be set. He will have several resolutions from the local board of trade to bring before the attention of the organization. One resolution will ask for support to impress on the Provincial Government the advisability of establishing a Northern Ontario information bureau in this city, which was refused, according to a letter from Premier Henry's secretary. Another suggestion concerned the building of a large relief map at the eastern entrance to North Bay that would show the North country, its roads, lakes and rivers, railways and other features in relief. Such a map as proposed is seen by travellers going from Quebec to New Brunswick. Other matters that may be taken up with the Northern Board of Trade will be considered by the president and vice-president of the North Bay body. An additional grant of five dollars was endorsed at the meeting on Thursday of the local board of trade executive held in the new bureau of information."

CENSUS OF MERCHANDISING AND SERVICE CONCERNS

The fifteen thousand enumerators who have been engaged since June 1st in taking the population census have also been making a record of the name and address of every retail and wholesale establishment in the Dominion. These names are to be the basis for the postal census of merchandising and service establishments.

It will be some weeks before all the lists are in the hands of the officials in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. When they have been carefully scrutinized and certain other preliminary work done, schedules will be made to each retail or wholesale establishment. It is expected that somewhere between 150,000 and 200,000 names will be received and, though, a very great amount of preparatory work is necessary before schedules can be mailed, it is expected that they will be sent out in August.

United Church and Anglicans Combine

Smooth Rock Falls the Scene of Interesting Experiment in a Further Extension of the Idea of Church Union.

When "Church Union" is referred to it is meant usually to concern the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches which form the United Church of to-day, but at the time a still further union of churches was hoped for. It may be of interest to know that, whether for good or ill, the North Land took a forward part in the church union idea. Indeed, there were union churches here before there was any United Church. The churches in the Porcupine camp, for instance, united sufficiently years ago that Methodists and Presbyterians joined together and apportioned the territory as it were. The Presbyterians carried on the churches at Schumacher and Timmins, while the Methodists had the church at South Porcupine, Methodists and Presbyterians alike attending the three churches.

It is also of interest now to note that the North Land is again to the front along the lines of further union. At Smooth Rock Falls a somewhat similar union has been effected between the United Church and the Anglicans as obtained years ago in the Porcupine camp and other parts of the North between the Methodists and Presbyterians. A despatch last week from Smooth Rock Falls, via Cochrane, tells the story as follows:—

"A former Sudbury pastor Rev. T. D. Jones, pastor at the United Church at Smooth Rock Falls since last summer, has been quietly solving the problem of Evangelical co-operation in this little northern paper town. Union between Anglican and United Church communions, mentioned as a possibility at the Anglican Church Synod meeting in Toronto a week ago, is an established fact here, and has been for the past six months.

"The United Church was for a long time the only Protestant church in the community, though there were several adherents of the Anglican denomination. On his appointment to the charge last summer, Mr. Jones, who had previously been in charge of the All People's Mission in Sudbury was impressed by the idea that a greater measure of service could be rendered the community if some form of church co-operation could be accomplished.

"He brought the matter to the attention of Bishop J. C. Anderson, Anglican Bishop of Moosonee, at Cochrane, and the Presbytery of the United Church, and galped their consent to conduct the experiment. Last October, a referendum was taken among the Anglicans in Smooth Rock Falls, and by almost unanimous majority they voted to accept the offer of the United Church.

"As a result the front of the United Church auditorium was altered in order that conformation might be made with the Anglican ritual and service. The pulpit, in the centre in United churches was shoved to one side, and the Anglican altar placed in the centre. Beside the pulpit was placed a reading desk, and a prayer desk was stationed at the other side of the altar.

"Service is conducted jointly by Rev. Mr. Jones and Mr. R. H. Holmes, Anglican lay reader, Mr. Jones doing the preaching and the priestly offices for both communions. The Anglican branch of the congregation is organized under a committee of management composed of three representatives, two of whom are admitted to the United Church board.

Montreal Gazette:—So many men on a jury panel expressed prejudice against a man charged with the murder of a policeman that only three jurors were secured after several days effort in court: at Mineola, Nassau county, N. Y., and the trial had to be adjourned pending the calling of 100 additional veniremen. The facts may seem remarkable from a Canadian viewpoint, for here a jury can be selected in an hour or two, but there may be comfort for the Nassau authorities in the thought that the citizens apparently hold murder in detestation.
