Continued complaints from those using the tourist camp at Gillies Lake are made in regard to dogs allowed there, especially large dogs that terrorize women and children. The dogs not only alarm the women and children, but they also disturb picnic parties by attempts to steal foodstuffs, as well as making the water of the lake more objectionable than need be. Lack of consideration for the rights and comfort of the people in general is shown by those who persist in taking the dogs to this popular bathing place.
