Do Canadians Fully Appreciate Canada?

Some Note About Canada's History and the Story of Some of Canada's Helpful Sons and Their Work.

On a number of occasions The Advance has taken occasion to refer to facts and figures about Canada and Canadians in regard to their value in world affairs.

Here is the article from The Journal-Argus:—"Do we Canadians appreciate Canada as we should? Do we realize that Canada only needs to be known, in order to be great?"

"To be properly appreciated abroad, a people should be familiar with its own past, proud of its own history, filled with confidence in its own resources and strength, and conscious of its own national and material development.

"The questions connected with the history of Canada, are indeed at the very root of the annals and present position of the British Empire.

"To the young people of Canada, a knowledge of its history and progress is not only desirable but necessary. To understand the business situation of to-day, information concerning the financial and commercial development of the Dominion is exceedingly useful.

"There can be no impairment of our vast and varied natural resources, developed and undeveloped. Canada is solvent in every respect and is honorably and courageously meeting every obligation.

"Canada is richly endowed with water-power resources and ranks high among the nations of the world in total development and per capita utilization of hydro-electricity.

"Canada's contribution to world progress has not been small for Canada built and sent across the Atlantic the first steam boat. She built and demonstrated the first compound steam engine in the history of the world.

"Canada originated the idea of the all-electric radio. Canada originated Marquis and other recent grades of wheat which have built up the commerce of the West both in Canada and the United States.

"So to show your patriotism to Canada in your purchases give first preference to Canadian products; second preference to those from other parts of the Empire, and third preference to those foreign countries which trade with us.

"This is sound economy and sound patriotism, for remember that Canadian products are the equal of any and superior to most."

Son of Mayor of Sudbury Dies in Hunting Mishap

Victim of an accidental shooting, John Fenton, 18, died in hospital early on Monday at Sudbury.

Fenton, youngest son of Mayor Peter Fenton, of Sudbury, was accidentally shot through the body by his hunting companion, Stirling Johnston, Saturday afternoon they were hunting rabbits.

An hour of so after he had called for his chum to accompany him on the expedition to which they had looked forward for two weeks, Fenton was in the hospital. The bullet pierced his lungs just below the heart.

Improved Grade of Ore Reported by the Vipond

Vipond Consolidated Mines Ltd., for the quarter ended Dec. 31 last, reports production of 135,512 from 24,935 tons of ore treated.

The above figures compare with production of 155,656 from 25,715 tons of ore milled in the quarter immediately preceding, and 195,000 from 28,829 tons of ore in the corresponding three months of 1930. These totals do not include premium on U.S. funds.

In the quarter under review recovery was slightly better than $5.43 per ton, whereas in the preceding quarter recovery was approximately $4.88 per ton, and in the corresponding three months of 1930 recovery was at the rate of about $6.76 per ton.

Vipond is carrying out an extensive programme of underground work in its search for new ore bodies. While results to date have not been altogether satisfactory, some indications of new ore have been revealed. A large amount of additional work will be necessary, however, to fully determine the possibilities of the property. Figures for the last quarter indicate that Vipond is running into slightly better grade ore.

Another Pleasing Literary Meeting

Two High School Third Forms Present Programme at Fourth Meeting of Timmins High and Vocational School Library.

The two high school third forms presented the programme for the fourth literary meeting, under the direction of Miss Quinn and Miss MacNamara.

The programme opened with Herman Falter's piano solo. Though a comparatively young artist he gives great promise as a pianist and should be an excellent start for a school orchestra.

This was followed by a dialogue by the 36 girls—"It's a Daw-gonne Shame." Connie Harris and Nellie Stachow, dressed as male characters, left the 'school' in good humour by their comical act.

The next number, a step dance by two girls—Margaret Easton and Ethel Brown, who were dressed as sailors—proved very popular and they received a rousing encore.

A short true-to-life skit with the scene in a school-room was also favourably received. Bob Hogarth, the lanky Icabod-Crane-like teacher had his hands full with a class of noisy barefoot school boys (many of the teachers were all pity for the worried teacher). It was well worked out and amusing while it lasted.

Nellie Stachow and Harry Bakkie, who danced in their quaint Ukrainian dress, provided an entertaining change and were readily enjoyed.

One of the big hits of the programme was the music by the 3A orchestra, when guitars, banjos, and violins harmonized in some of the old-time pieces.

As usual a play featured the programme. This time it was "The Man in the Bowler Hat." The scene was laid in the living room of John and Mary Brown (Gerald Scully and Doris Cooke). Their peaceful evening is interrupted by the arrival of a young man and his sweetheart (George Babcock and Teresa DeMille), whom they do not know and who act in an exceedingly strange manner. They are followed by a bandit (Allan Longmore) and later by the "Bad Man" (David Sky). The situation has become very complicated when the "Man in the Bowler Hat" (Jack Gauthier), announces "that there will be another rehearsal tomorrow at eleven o'clock."

Some forms excel in elocution, others in athletics but the third forms seem to excel in music and dancing. This number was the rendering of a piano selection by Arnold Purdin, followed by a sword dance by 3A boys. The agility and gracefulness of these boys deserve much praise. The following took part: Harry Bakkie, Mike Zauriski, Geo. Andruchuk, Bill Zurby.

The last number was also a musical selection, when Cliff Lafrenier with his guitar and Ed. Sheculski with his violin kept the audience spellbound and proved an excellent conclusion to an excellent programme. With the singing of "God Save the King" the meeting adjourned.
