Mr. Covey is taking Mr. Orr's place as ticket agent at the station here, Mr. Orr having been transferred to Widdfield, near North Bay. Mr. Covey was transferred from Porcupine Junction to South Porcupine.
 Born—On February 27th at Welland, Ontario, to Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Simpson—a son. This is the fifth child, the family now being three boys and two girls. Mr. Simpson was formerly a popular clerk in the South End Pharmacy here and brought Mrs. Simpson to this place from Englehart as a bride.

 Born—At the Porcupine Presbyterian hospital on Thursday, March 3rd, to Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Riddick of the Dome Extension—a son (Michael David). This small plane is to be used for local transportation and passenger service. A large plane will be brought in for the heavy freight work when the lake is open for landing. Since arrival, whenever the weather has permitted the small machine has been quite busy. This company are again operating their office at the foot of Golden avenue on the lake shore where arrangements are being made for various trips, etc., as soon as the season gets properly under way. Mr. Ahr is distributor for the new Fleet Aircraft company for this part of the North.

 Born—On Wednesday, March 2nd, at the Porcupine Presbyterian hospital to Mr. and Mrs. E. D. MacDonald—a son. The infant has since died and the sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved parents.
 In honour of St. David's Day the programme at the meeting of the Young People's Society on Wednesday of last week took the form of a Welsh night in charge of Messrs B. Saunders and R. Jones. An enlightening talk on St. David was given by Mr. Saunders. St. David was born some 1500 years ago in the Welsh town of Mynyw, later re-named St. David's (Dewi Sant) in honour of the saint. He was of royal birth belonging to a line of kings and was educated at Carmarthen College of which the poet, Paulinus, was principal. Later St. David became principal of Carleion College, South Wales. He is the first man known to have translated the English Bible into Welsh. Some 1500 bibles were translated by him. He is reputed as being the most eloquent preacher Wales has ever had and his last sermon preached on the Sunday before his death was one of his finest, quotations from which are still cherished in the heart of many a Welshman. March first is called St. David's Day because it was on that day the saint was called to the ministry. After this talk "Wales," a medley of Welsh airs was given as a piano solo by Mr. Ron Jones. Then the whole gathering sang "All Through the Night," (Ar hyd y Nos). "David of the White Rock" (Daff ydd y Garrey wen) an appealing refrain, the story of a man of Wales calling for his harp on his death bed, was sung with pleasing interpretation by Ron Jones, after which B. Saunders read an amusing sketch in the form of a Welshman's love letter and sang "Mentra Given," a Welsh love song. "Men of Harlech" by the whole group closed an evening's programme that was very heartily enjoyed by those present.
 "Yrdd Eresenoldeb dedwydd
 Gwyg dy oleuni mad,
 Mae Cymru'n disgwyl tynd yn wir,
 I godin hanwyl wiad."
 On Monday evening the usual number of hockey contests were played off

"A Married Worker" Did Not Forward Her Name
 The Advance this week received a letter signed "A Married Worker," which will be published if the writer of the letter will forward her name to this office. The name will not be published or given out in any way, and is only required to comply with the established rule of all newspapers that correspondents must give their names not necessarily for publication but as an evidence of good faith. The average newspaper receives so many anonymous letters that it is impossible to consider any of them and for the protection of the press the rule has to be strictly enforced that only communications the source of which is known can be given consideration. The letter from "A Married Worker" is in the form of a reply to the letter published in The Advance last week from "A Single Girl." The letter from "A Single Girl" objected to married women who had husbands to support them taking the positions that would otherwise go to single girls whose parents had struggled to give them an education to fit them for work to support themselves. "A Single Girl" followed the rule and gave her name to The Advance. This name was not published and will not be given out. "A Married Worker" must follow the same rule or her letter will be consigned to the waste paper basket where all other anonymous letters must finally rest. It is always a matter for wonder to The Advance that people who pretend to read the paper should persist in sending in letters unaccompanied by their names when the rule in the matter has been emphasized so often and has never been broken on any occasion. Anyone who will not observe the simple rule requested by all reputable newspapers can scarcely expect to find any newspaper willing to accept their offerings for publication. Once more The Advance would say—"All letters for publication positively must be accompanied by the name of the writer, though this name may be reserved from publication and a nom plume used instead."
