Joseph Moore, the well known Indian, tells you what he knows about the herb Never Die. The principal herb that enters into the tonic Never Die.

I am now 78 years of age. The most of my life was spent in the woods. I had a good opportunity to study animal life. I have travelled hundreds of miles through forests years before there was a white man to be seen. We Indians as well as the animals depended entirely upon nature to supply us with medicine. I noticed that all animals when sick would go to a marshy place and eat the herb Never Die. Since my childhood days I have myself taken the same herb, and to-day I am never without it in my camp. Every Indian knows about this wonderful herb Never Die and they use it for every ailment. I could tell you of some wonderful cures due entirely to Never Die herb. I would like the whole world to know about it, because I believe if they used it there would be less sickness. We Indians keep well on the herb Never Die. I don't know of any Indians having a cancer, perhaps it was because they took Never Die herb.

The Great Indian Herb Tonic is working wonders on those who have taken it. Why Not You. This great tonic is prepared in liquid form. Besides containing the herb Never Die it contains other valuable herbs and bark.

Ankerite Planning to Re-open the Mill

Preparations Now Under Way at Property to Resume Mill Operations in April.

It is understood that active plans are now under way for the resumption of the operation of the Ankerite mill and the re-opening of the property for work on a good scale. The Ankerite was taken over last fall by a syndicate of Buffalo men and from reports current it would seem that they are planning to make a real mine of the Ankerite. The mine has been dewatered and repairs and alterations are under way to put the plant in shape for re-opening. The Ankerite has been closed down for several years.

In speaking of the reported re-opening of the Ankerite, The Northern Miner says:—"After an examination of ore possibilities it was decided that it would be feasible to start up the mill some time in April. An official of the syndicate was at the property last week making final plans in this connection. These, it is understood, call for the starting of mine work about the end of the month. There remains a tonnage of broken ore in stopes and this will probably be used as back log during the first few weeks of mill operation, until development work opens up sections of the mine believed to contain good chances of making ore quickly. Some of the shareholders of March Gold Mines, which property adjoins Ankerite to the west, are also interested in Ankerite, and this fact gave rise to rumours of a merger of the two properties. Nothing definite has developed in regard to these proposals. The Northern Miner understands. The manager of March Gold, Oscar Knutson, will be in charge of Ankerite. The Ankerite mine was first developed by Coniagas and when the old Cobalt company's contract was allowed to lapse New York, and later English, people took the proposition over. The English interests carried on for some time but finally sold out to the present owners, after producing approximately $880,000. The most promising ore possibilities are in a section of No. 5 vein, believed to contain something like 25,000 tons of fair grade material above the 600-ft. level."

Train No. 46 for Toronto on Friday last carried a large crowd of passengers, seats in the Pullman being at a premium. The number of teachers going south for the holidays added to the business for the railway while there was also much general travelling apparatus.

Jack Pine Limb Found on Spruce Tree in North

An oddity in the way of a growth on a spruce tree was recently discovered near Swastika. It was a jack pine limb growing on a spruce tree. The story is told by The Halleyburian last week as follows:—

"Believe it or not! Even the trees in the North Country are sometimes inclined to do unheard of things. Last week Ernest McCool, who has spent a part of the winter in Storms and Ferguson's timber camp out of Swastika, came to Halleybury with a section of a spruce tree out of which extended a jack pine limb. There is no mistake about it. Mr. McCool has the evidence to convince the skeptical and has shown it to several people who are familiar with the various species of trees to be found in the North. Examining the freak of nature, it is only possible to assume that the two trees grew close together and that a limb of the pine extended across the trunk of the spruce. In the course of time the spruce grew right around the limb of its neighbour, actually joining up with the alien wood and leaving the pine limb projecting out of the spruce. It is easy to distinguish between the two species of wood and there is no mistake about the two being actually grown together in the section of tree that Mr. McCool brought out."

Object to Proposed Increase in Taxes

New Taxation Proposed Will Mean Injury to Whole Industry. Excuse for Wage Cut.

There is very strong protest being voiced against proposed increase of taxation said to be carried in the new Dominion budget and that will have a serious consequence on the mining industry. The Northern Miner referring to the proposed taxation says:—"According to advance information on taxation proposals, Canadian mines are due for a 50% jump in their Dominion taxes. Simultaneously, Ontario announces a substantial increase in its taxation."

"It is feared in mining circles that the tax increases will force the reduction of wages in the gold mining industry and may also imperil dividend disbursements of some of the mines, particularly those which have generously been paying to shareholders practically all their current earnings. There are over 7,000 workers in Ontario gold mines who may be affected. Workers in the Ontario base metal mines have for some time been working either at reduced wages or on part time. There are 75,000 shareholders of the 15 producing gold mines in Ontario, and of these 55,000 receive dividends. No dividends are now being paid by Ontario base metal or silver mines. Shareholders of Canadian mines affected by the federal proposals number 250,000.

"Direct taxes on the mines will range from 25% to 35% of profits, after allowing for the usual depletion for wasting of ore, if the proposals go through. This is a far higher rate of taxation than imposed upon any other industry in Canada, and mining men insist that it is a greater burden than the industry can bear. It will seriously curtail the opening up of new mines by frightening away capital, and will convert into waste rock tremendous tonnages of low grade ore. This latter result will reduce production, and also reduce the number of jobs available in mining and the amount of business flowing to factories and wholesalers.

"Ontario has already had a very serious decline in the number of gold mining operations. In 1929 there were 139 gold mining firms paying assessments to the Compensation Board. In 1930 their number dropped to 105, and in 1932 there is an even larger decline. The action of the Ontario government in imposing further taxation last year upon the mining industry is believed to have accelerated the decline.

Dollar a Ton Taxes
"For some of the mines the total of direct Dominion, provincial and municipal taxes will run to more than $1 a ton. If the various increase proposals are put into effect, One Ontario mine will pay in taxes $1.45 out of every ton treated. If these taxes could be eliminated millions of dollars' worth of additional ore could be treated and nearly all of these same millions would be spent on wages and supplies.

"While the large sums made by a very few big mines excite the attention of tax gatherers, it must not be forgotten that there are a lot of small mines that are just getting by, although they pay out large sums in wages and supplies. There is one Porcupine gold producer, Vipond, which has in its 20 years of life paid out practically as much in taxes as in dividends. The showing of the big mines, it is pointed out, makes it possible for the little ones to proceed and for developers to raise money to operate new properties.

Driving Capital Away
"It is also pointed out that high taxes are having the effect of driving mining money out of the country. The action of Dome Mines investing over $1,000,000 in South Africa mines is brought up; the government there has guaranteed a maximum rate for the life of the mine, in comparison with the steadily rising and unsure rates ruling here.

"In Ontario a new corporate tax is being imposed and it is expected it will be 1% of net income. At Ottawa it is reported that the federal tax will be raised from 10% to 12%; at the same time the federal depletion allowance will be reduced from 50% of profits to only 40%.

"It is generally agreed that as a mine's only asset, its ore, is wasted with every ton drawn out a certain proportion of profits should be set aside as an allowance for depletion. This is true all over the world. For many years this has stood at 50% for our gold mines; now the finance department proposes to reduce it to 40%. On Monday representatives of the Ontario gold mining industry waited upon Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Mines, who spoke against the departmental proposal, as did G. C. Bateman, secretary of the Ontario Mining Association. Mr. Rhodes promised careful consideration of the representations.

"Dividend-receiving shareholders will also find their income tax payments expanded unless Mr. Rhodes views the situation sympathetically. They are now allowed to deduct 50% of their gold mining dividends as return of capital.

Formidable List
"The list of taxes that must be paid by the mines is formidable, especially so as a mine cannot pass its taxes on as can the manufacturer selling to the public. The miner must sell his products in the world market at fixed prices. The list of taxes imposed on the mines is:

Direct taxes:
Federal income tax.
Provincial profit tax.
Municipal profit tax.
Municipal income tax.
Municipal property tax.
Provincial capital tax.
Provincial corporate tax.

Indirect taxes:
Sales tax.
Custom duties.
Excise tax.
Transfer tax.
Stamp tax.
Provincial acreage tax.
Filing fees.
Stampage tax.
Gasoline tax.
License fees.

"Many of these have been or will be increased.

"As has been pointed out, the direct taxes will range from 25% to 35% of profits, after allowing for return of capital. Adding on the indirect taxes the shareholder sees one-third to one-half of his company's real profits gobbled up by taxes. And then on top of all this many of the shareholders have to pay income taxes on profits that have already been heavily taxed at their source.

"While the mines are prepared to pay a fair proportion of the cost of running the country and are able to endure, with a measure of equanimity, the imposition of taxes that are imposed upon other lines of business, they do naturally object to paying extraordinary sums. It is the addition of taxes one by one that makes mining the most heavily taxed industry in the country."

Mining Romance of Northern Ontario

A very interesting picture of Northern Ontario Mining development will be shown at the Empire Theatre on March 31, April 1st and 2nd. This moving picture film contains extremely interesting scenes picturing the discovery and development of Canadian Pandora Gold Mines. We have seen the film and pronounce it very interesting indeed; we are certain our clients will appreciate it and urge them to see it.
