Over Hundred and Fifty Feet of High-Grade Ore Said to be in Sight at 500-ft. Level of Matachewan Mine

What has happened to the Matachewan camp? asked a reader of 'The Advance' recently. "Has it gone the way of Red Lake?" was another of his queries. In reply it may be said that the boom of these days and everything is going well except that the times are such as make for booms such as happened some other camps along for a time. At present there are no booms, except the big "boom" still echoing in everything seemed to fall down and go boom, to use the slang expression popular a little time ago when it was, taboored by public taste that had even "boom" in a song.

As for Red Lake, there is little doubt that the far north camp will yet be heard from. There has been one good one developed there—the Howey— and that means almost beyond question that there will be other gold mines in the Red Lake area. It is only a question of faith and hope and waiting. All mining camps, including Coit and Porcupine, were roundly condemned at one time in their history, but time has a way of proving up the judgment and the foresight of the prospector. The prospectors still have faith in Red Lake. They point to the Howey Mine as evidence of the fact that there is gold in "them thar hills." Matachewan has been more fortunate in Red Lake in many ways. It was not so much overboomed for a time and left with less than the notice it served. Interest has continued in the Matachewan area and a large number of promising gold finds have been made. There are some prospectors who are still hanging on to their Red Lake claims but they are not

Sudbury Tightens Relief Measures

Citizens Must Work or They will not Receive Relief. Public Asked to Co-operate to Prevent Abuses.

Sudbury has decided to tighten up considerably in regard to its relief measures. Like nearly every place else Sudbury finds relief expenditures a very serious matter and one that is very difficult to meet in these days of depression. Because of these facts the town of Sudbury is taking measures to relieve the municipality from some of the troubles encountered through the policy of direct relief.

As a matter of fact the case of Sudbury furnishes another proof that direct relief is a wasteful and impractical plan. All of Sudbury's relief plans seem to show that Sudbury does not favour direct relief at all, but that it believes in work for the unemployed. Just why the provincial government should be so determined to force direct relief on the country is a difficult matter to understand, unless there is some profit these days for somebody in the racket of direct relief. Last week Sudbury city council passed resolutions providing about as follows:—

All persons receiving relief from the city must work for the municipality before assistance is granted, not after, as previously has been the case.

The case of every person in Sudbury receiving relief will be investigated. Three investigators will be employed by the relief department if necessary.

The public will be invited to examine the list of those on relief as a check. It was also decided to refuse patronage to any store which does not carry out the instructions of the relief department.

$8 Maximum Opposed.

These regulations will be given to Relief Inspector Frank Rothery in writing, and will be carried out without any interference from any person except the chairman of the relief department and his committee as a whole. The examination of every person on relief will include his record for the past three years, and proof must be furnished if required. Any person with an automobile or telephone will be cut off relief.

A tenth suggestion that the maximum value of any voucher should be $8, was turned down when Alderman D. W. Jessup told the council he did not think the city would save much by the restriction, and it would cause considerable opposition. Aldermen Noel de Tilly, Savard and Boivin also opposed making the maximum $8.

"We will have to make hard and fast rules that cannot be broken and treat every person the same and according to those rules," Alderman McInnes said. "I can't interview every person who comes to me. They will have to go to the relief department and interview the relief inspector. I was kept busy tonight from five o'clock until 10 minutes to eight, when I left to come here. There were three people inside the house, three on the front verandah, two at the back steps and the telephone was ringing. Those people should go to the relief inspector, and if their cases are deserving he will grant them relief, and if they are not deserving he will refuse relief."

A suggestion that the list of all on relief be published in the press was rejected.

"People will just see a list of 1,000 names and will not read them," Mayor Fenton thought. "I don't think it fair to publish the names, anyway. Some people are on relief who feel it very keenly."

The list in the relief inspector's office will be open to the public, however, and a request will be published asking the public to scan it and to co-operate in tracing people not entitled to relief. Alderman Brodie thought the city should not permit a man on relief to keep his car. "Make him sell it and live on the money," he suggested.

"He can't sell his car now," Mayor Fenton objected. "As long as he keeps it jacked up and does not use it there is no objection."

Operation of a municipal store was not favourably received. "Some stores are kept up by relief vouchers, and if a municipal store is opened, they will go out of business," Alderman Boivin declared. Replying to criticisms from the council that many stores were not giving voucher holders groceries approved by the relief department, and that some of them were giving cash in return for vouchers, Alderman Boivin insisted that as long as a man is living within the amount he is entitled to by his voucher, there should be no objection.

The total cost of relief in Sudbury for the first six months of this year, including the city's share and the government's allotment, was $192,324.43. Of this, $129,791.91 was in direct relief for which the government pays two-thirds less certain administration costs. Indirect relief, that is relief labour, cost $62,532.51. The government pays 50 per cent. of the relief labour, but not of materials and tools used.

At the end of June 863 families, representing 4,084 persons, were in receipt of relief in Sudbury, the records of the relief department show. In addition 23,340 free meals were served at the soup kitchen.

During June $21,250 was spent on vouchers for direct relief, of which $16,580 was for food and $1,000 for milk. In addition, more than $9,600 was spent on other forms of relief including doctors' bills, hospital care, etc. From January 14 to June 30, $115,443.29 was spent for food. According to statements from Mayor J. W. Richardson, of North Bay, furnished Alderman J. D. McInnes, the total cost to the city of relief in North Bay during June was $17,628.33 divided as follows: Labour, $15,647.48; garden seed, $578.69; charity, $274.50 and special relief, $1,127.66.

NORTH BAY POLICEMAN DID NOT KNOW SON FROM DAUGHTER

This one is from the Women's Page in 'The North Bay Nugget' last week:—When girls affect slick prompadours, mannish-looking garments and dash around in automobiles with one hand on the steering wheel... well anybody is liable to make a mistake! A North Bay policeman halted an auto the other evening, warning the driver to be a little more careful and slacken speed. He enquired the name and then queried "Are you Mr. D.——'s son?" "No," came back the reply, "but I'm his daughter." And the flabbergasted policeman weakly responded, "Go ahead, but be careful!"

North Bay Nugget:—The old saying that it's the woman who pays no longer holds true. Now she always has it charged.

Increased Earnings by Power Company

Year Ending May 31st, 1932, Shows Substantial Increase Over Earnings for Previous Year, Says Statement by Company.

Accompanying the dividend cheques to shareholders last week, the Canada Northern Power Corporation, Limited, sent a letter to the company's shareholders, the letter reading in part as follows:—

"As will be seen by the following comparative statement, the earnings of the company during the past twelve months show a substantial increase over those earned during the corresponding period ended a year ago.

For 12 months ending:—

	May 31, 1932	May 31, 1931
Gros Earnings	$3,392,910.97	$3,222,077.14
Operating and Maintenance	1,022,910.73	1,035,965.39
Net Earnings	2,370,000.15	2,186,111.75

"While this gratifying result has been largely due to the growth in demand for power by the gold mines in the Kirkland Lake, Porcupine and Matachewan districts, a considerable portion of the improved earnings is accounted for by the increase in the demand for electricity for domestic and commercial purposes.

"Good progress is being made on the construction of a second 110,000 volt transmission line from Boischatel, Quebec, to Kirkland Lake. This line when completed will add an additional safeguard to the increased power load in the Kirkland Lake camp.

"A new mill has been completed at the Hayden Mine in the Porcupine district which is now in operation.

"In the Noranda-Rouyn area in the Province of Quebec, a new hoist has been installed at the Noranda Mines, and construction of a number of duplex residences has been commenced in the new subdivision at the town of Noranda.

"Operations being carried on by Min-
