MONDAY IS THANKSGIVING DAY AND PUBLIC HOLIDAY

Monday of next week, Oct. 10th, is Thanksgiving Day and a general public holiday. The stores and other business places will be closed for the occasion. The town council's regular day of meeting is on Monday next, but on account of the holiday the council meeting will be on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 11th, commencing at 4 p.m. Until last year there have been several recent years in which Thanksgiving Day and Armistice Day have been declared as a public holiday to fall on the Monday nearest to Armistice Day, Nov. 11th. Continued objection to this plan by returned soldiers and others who wished to have Armistice Day observed only on its actual anniversary date and who also failed to see any proper connection between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day resulted in the Government last year setting a date for Thanksgiving Day as separate from the other holiday. The same proper plan is being followed this year. Thanksgiving Day being proclaimed to be observed on Monday, Oct. 10th. Armistice Day will be observed on the proper date, Nov. 11th, this year falling on a Friday.

Gentleman Throws Kisses All Around

Suggests "Moonkist Moonshine" and Other Additions to the Kist Stuff of the Day. Timminskist Chit-chat Thinks in Kisses.

The following letter was received this week in due form for publication. It mentions nearly everything kissable, except money. To be complete it really should have referred to "Goodbye-Kist money." That is what the most of people think about these days.

Timmins, Ont., Oct. 3rd, 1932

To the Editor of The Advance, Timmins.

Dear Sir:—Considering the ever-increasing number of things, food products, etc., being advertised as "Kist" by something, one begins to wonder why everything or everybody could not be kissed by something or somebody.

We have Sunkist oranges, Beekist honey, Ovenkist bread and what-not. Why not have some of the following, just to get a little more into the kissing habit, especially these days when so many of us are in a more or less bad mood?

Milk bottle, for instance, could bear the stamp, "Cowkist milk." Then we might have "Bullkist beef," "Pork-kist sausages," "Henkist eggs," "Farmerkist chickens," "Druggistkist iodine" should find a ready sale as well as "Tailorkist overcoats," "Eskimokist furs."

And for ladies, why not a "Barberkist haircut," and a "Paintkist complexion?"

This list, of course, could be extended almost indefinitely, but then we must not embrace so many things (or people) at once.

As for the bootlegger (but is there such a thing in Timmins?) he could call his products, "Moonkist Moonshine" and "Blindpigkist Beer."

Yours very truly,
 "A Timminskist Citizen."

About the T. & N. O. Taking Over Part of the C.N.R.

Last week in connection with the discussion of the general railway problem as it applies to the North Land particularly, The Advance repeated the suggestion it made several months ago to the effect that instead of the Canadian National Railways taking over the T. & N. O., the provincial railway might take over a section of the C.N.R. line so that a part of the North now without good railway service might be better served. The Advance suggested that the thought might be worthy of consideration. An editorial in The North Bay Nugget this week touches on the subject, The Nugget article commencing:—

"Entering the discussion about the Canadian National Railways, the Porcupine Advance is out with the suggestion that at least piece of the C.N.R. should be turned over to the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. That is the section from Cochrane to Nakina, now being badly served by railway."

The Nugget then quotes from the editorial in The Advance last week and then continues:—

"The idea is not without its attractive side. The principal point is whether or not this line has enough local business to warrant the developing. A very careful survey would have to be made of that side of it before there could be any serious thought given to such a move as things are at present. If the C.N.R. could not give local service on that line profitably it is a question whether the T. & N. O. could or not. In connection with this idea of expanding the T. & N. O. is the suggestion made some time ago that the C.N.R. line from North Bay to Toronto be taken over by the government road. There is much to commend the idea if it is financially possible, for it would give the T. & N. O. an outlet on a more profitable basis than is now the case. Nothing has been heard of the notion for some time, but it is also "worthy of consideration," as our Northern scribe has it."

The Nugget is quite correct and fully reasonable in saying that a careful survey of the situation would be a first necessity. If the business would not warrant the plan then there would be

Evening Vocational Classes Open Oct. 10

Opportunity Again Given for Instruction in Many Subjects at Evening Vocational Classes at Timmins High and Vocational School

There is opportunity for improvement and advancement in the evening vocational classes that will open at the Timmins High and Vocational School on Monday evening of next week, Oct. 10th. The classes will continue until Easter. Anyone wishing any information in regard to these classes should apply to A. A. Rose, director of the Vocational School, or to H. C. Garner, secretary of the Timmins High and Vocational School board.

As noted in The Advance in recent issues, students wishing to take these classes may enrol at the principal's office in the Timmins High and Vocational school, from 7.30 to 9 p.m. Oct. 3rd to Oct. 7th.

Instruction will be offered in the following subjects:—Business courses (typewriting and stenography, and book-keeping and business practice); English for non-English speaking students; English for advanced students (second and third year students); French (conversational and business); arithmetic; cooking; sewing and dress-making; chemistry and assaying; machine shop practice; wood-working shop practice; practical and theoretical electricity.

In case there are not a sufficient number of applications for any one course of study noted above that subject may be cancelled, while instruction in any approved subject not included in the above list will be offered if a sufficient number of applications is received.

The classes will be in charge of fully qualified teachers, all holding certificates from the department. The school is fully equipped in every department for these evening vocational classes.

The classes are practically free. It is true that a charge of $3.00 is made for each subject taken, but this fee is returned at the end of the term to pupils attending seventy per cent. of the classes in any subject taken. Thus, it will be seen that the student who takes up any course in earnest way and follows it through during the term will not be out of pocket for the fee concerned.

In past years the evening vocational classes have proven of great advantage to those wishing to improve their opportunities and advance themselves. The classes held have been unusually successful, and this year's classes will no doubt be even more largely attended than usual.

Temagami Timber Company Plan to Rebuild Their Mill

Fire lately destroyed the sawmill of the Temagami Timber Co., Ltd., at Goward, some 80 miles north of North Bay, Ont., on the T. & N. O. railway. The mill, which had just closed down after the season's operations, was completely wiped out, only the boilers and the blacksmith shop being saved. The loss is $85,000 which is covered by insurance. There was over 2,000,000 feet of recently cut white and red pine lumber piled in the yard but this escaped owing to the intervening distance of some 400 feet from the plant.

The sawmill was modern in every respect, being equipped with double cutting band and circular gate saws, together with a lath and picket department. The cutting capacity was from 50,000 to 60,000 a day. The size of the mill was about 40 x 130 feet and, at a meeting of directors of the company, it was decided to rebuild at an early date.

On July 1st last a conflagration visited the yard of the Temagami Timber Co., destroying some 11,000,000 feet of lumber. On that occasion the mill caught fire twice and was saved with considerable difficulty, only to be wiped out two months later. It is learned the Temagami Timber Co. will put in some camps this fall in order to have logs for next season's sawing.—Canada Lumberman.
