

OFF COLOUR? HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

Wake up your Liver Bile
—Without Calomel
Your liver's a very small organ, but it certainly can put your digestive and eliminative organs out of order, by refusing to pour out its daily two pounds of liquid into your bowels. You won't completely correct such a condition by taking salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or kaffeeine. When they've moved your bowels they're through—and you need a liver stimulant.

BROKE HIS LEG IN KICKING AT A LOG THAT WAS IN HIS WAY

The Northern News last week says: "A peculiar accident occurred to E. D. Ryckman, formerly of Guthrie, Ont., and now an employee of the Beattie mine. On Tuesday of this week, the unfortunate Mr. Ryckman was engaged in his usual occupation of fireman, and attempted to get a log out of his path. He drew back his leg and aimed a heavy kick at the impediment. His foot (now comes the word we need) "ricochetted" off an intruding stone and the resulting torsion, caused a broken leg. The victim of the accident was brought to Youville hospital by Pilot Merrill of General Airways, and is progressing nicely."

Emphatic Warning to Alien Agitators

Will Not be Tolerated in Canada, Says
Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, in Address at Kirkland Lake Last Week.

Reference is made elsewhere in this issue to the address made by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, Minister of Mines and Minister of Labour, in the Dominion Government, when speaking at the annual convention of the Temiskaming Firemen's Association. One feature of the able address of Hon. Mr. Gordon is worthy of special notice. He touched on the efforts of the people of foreign origin to become good citizens of Canada, and he had a special word for the alien agitators. He made it plain that the lazy and mischief-making spy for a foreign country would be dealt with in effective way. What Hon. Mr. Gordon said in this respect should be widely published, not only for the advantage of the decent, loyal citizens of foreign origin, but also for the benefit of the alien mischief-makers themselves. It the latter heed the words of Hon. Mr. Gordon they will save themselves much trouble and disadvantage.

Reference was made by Hon. Mr. Gordon to the many fine people of foreign origin who tried to do the right thing by their adopted country. "This Dominion of ours," said the minister, "can absorb these wholesome, honest, and outstanding people, and when I recently read in the news that the Polish citizens of Kirkland Lake had met with success in the opening of a new hall here it gave me a great satisfaction to know that they were so cordially received in the land of their adoption."

"It is a source of gratification that these people, and those of other countries, are anxious to have their children educated at our schools, and anxious to live good Canadian lives."

"And it fortifies me in the task that lies before me—to see that these people, from other lands, may make their homes here, and may develop themselves into the type of citizen that Canada needs. I say that the efforts of these people are not going to be hampered by the few radicals and agitators who come here from other lands to stir up trouble. I say that these alien agitators shall be condemned in this country for no other reason that they impede the honest, decent efforts of their compatriots to become true citizens of the Dominion."

Continuing Hon. Mr. Gordon said it was a great source of gratification to see people coming to the country and striving to be decent, loyal and progressive citizens and refusing to be influenced by the evil and offensive propaganda put out by some disaffected foreigners. He made it plain that the right kind of people from other lands would be treated as generously as was possible, but that the alien trouble-maker would receive short shrift.

"Canada will not tolerate the interference of radical agitators and I propose to do all in my power to assist in wiping out this menace," said Hon. Mr. Gordon.

"This country can absorb a certain number of hard-working industrious people from other lands," continued Mr. Gordon, "but the slothful trouble-makers who come over here, refuse to work and devote all their time to stirring up strife among those of their countrymen who are quite content to labour and become respectable citizens, should be weeded out. The sooner they are shown the door the better it will be for the country as a whole. It is against this class that I have been directing my energies and will continue to do so until the menace is removed."

Correct Again!
When one begins to study the returned soldier question in all its various phases he will find points of much interest, not only to a returned soldier, but also to the general public. One such point came to light at the recent provincial convention of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion. From the early posting of resolutions it was seen that a movement was being put into action to have the Legion enter politics. The resolution that asked for this directly, was not placed upon the table but was vetoed by the past-president in his opening address. (This was referred to in last week's column). However, the matter did not rest there, and as suggested, that there was some motive behind it all, it came to light in the dying moments of the convention. It is a well-known fact that a great many returned soldiers like their glass of beer. Perhaps the tot of rum they got in Belgium or France is responsible for this fact. It is also known that if branches of veteran organizations had a free hand the first thing likely to be installed in any club house would be the ever-popular wet canteen. The Moderation League of Ontario knowing the weakness for the "Jolly Nut-Brown Ale" worked fast. About 12 weeks ago one of their prominent workers joined the Legion in Toronto. Then they got 22 branches in Toronto and district to endorse their resolution, which in effect asked the Legion to give the Moderation League its support in its campaign for "beer by the glass." Hence we come to the motive of recent propaganda in the daily press. The resolution was turned down because of its political nature. A very heated debate occurred with some uncomplimentary remarks passed. One reverend gentleman asked that this part of the proceedings be kept from the public. The writer of this column some weeks ago said that whatever was behind this political move would eventually come to light and he also suggested that some organization was trying to use the Legion membership to meet its own ends. By reviewing the happenings of the convention we find now what it was all about, and the little black fellow removed from the Legion at least for a time. But he'll come back again if we don't watch out.

Doesn't Want Interference with Provincial Railway

In discussing the railway question an editorial last week in The Halleyburian is well worth reading. The Halleyburian says:—
"Since the published summaries of the report of the Royal Commission which investigated the Canadian railway situation, there have been some interesting opinions expressed in the press and some ingenious suggestions made towards a solution of the whole problem. Among these we note two which appeared in newspapers in the North Country last week, and which are given as a partial solution as it affects this section of the country. But—they are diametrically opposed to each other!
On the one hand, the Porcupine Advance recommends that the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway take over the Canadian National line from Cochrane to Nakina, extending its service to include that section and thus ensuring that the towns and settlements along the line would be given a reasonable service, something which it is held they are not receiving at present. On the other hand, we have the Cochrane Northland Post gravely suggesting that it might be an opportune time for the Canadian National Railways to absorb the T. & N. O. and asserting that, if it were assured that the same good service would be given in the lines of the latter road, it would support the project.
"Both these newspapers are more intimately acquainted with the section of the C. N. R. where it is claimed that the service has been very inadequate since the re-routing of the Continental Limited last year than we are in this part of the North Country, and they should be more competent to judge what would be the best remedy, yet we venture to say that the project suggested by The Advance will meet with the most favour in any section of the territory served by the T. & N. O. We would all much rather see the railway which we have come to look upon as our own, branching out, than to listen to any project for its absorption by the larger transportation system, even if both are publicly owned. We surely don't want to have Ontario's own railway, the only one in the country which has held its own during the depression, saddled with the enormous debt of the National system, although we may have every confidence in Geo. Ze's ability to shoulder the burden. We'll back the Porcupine Advance in his, even if the Northland Post is situated at the very junction of the two railways. We don't know much about alroading, but we do know something about the people of the North Country"

Northerner as President

The Legion members in Northern Ontario should now get a better break in official treatment of any problems they may have to send to the Ontario Command headquarters. The election of a North Land man as president was received here with keen pleasure, Capt. Jules J. Kerry, of Sudbury, being given the position by acclamation. Other officers are:— First vice-president, Ven. Archdeacon A. C. Mackintosh, Dundas; second vice-president, I. Cameron, St. Thomas; chairman, Harry Bray, Toronto; vice-chairman, Rev. Ralph Adye Whitby; honorary treasurer, Colonel F. Picking; Imperial representative, P. Dashwood, Toronto; disabled veterans representative, C. Gregory, Toronto; T. V. S. representative, Rev. J. Kelman Toronto. The naval veterans will submit their nominations to the incoming provincial executive.

The North is also ably represented on the executive of the provincial command by J. W. Gadsby, New Liskeard Zone 20; Austin Neame, Timmins, Zone 21; and W. H. Birks, Sault, Zone 22. Austin Neame has given generously of his time and talent to the work of the Legion in his zone and holds the respect of all. In his position as president of Timmins Branch, which he has held for a number of years, the local veterans have found him always willing to assist and his genial and efficient manner of occupying the office has won for him the esteem of all in Timmins and district. With these men among the officers of the provincial command, the Legion in Northern Ontario should grow by leaps and bounds.

The Information Booth

Acting upon a suggestion put forward by a good member of the Timmins branch of the Canadian Legion, the committee put up an information booth at the skating rink, during its

Week of Wonders. The scheme did not bear the results that were estimated it would do. It did one very important thing, however; it brought before the public eye the reasons for the Legion's formation. Large signs displayed the expenditure on relief work. Others were of a memorial order. One enquirer stated "that the fine white wooden cross would look good on the concrete slab at the station." Several during the week came seeking information and this was gladly given. An ex-Imperial wanted to know how to go about trying to have his pension regained and also getting immediate hospital treatment for a wound which was giving him trouble. He was put on the right road and is now getting the treatment. About fifty enquired regarding membership but no official returns are in from this effort as yet. Taking the result all round it can be said that the booth was an attraction which did a little good and the originator of the happy thought sponsoring the idea, has the satisfaction of knowing that quite a bit of real comradeship was the outcome. —W. Mining Activity in the Bourkes Area

Lakeland Gold Making Very Satisfactory Progress. Other Properties in the Bourkes District Show Promise.

During the past summer there has been general activity in the Bourkes section and there is promise of material development in the area. There has been work on a number of properties in the area. One of the chief properties in the Bourkes area on which work is being done is the Lakeland Gold. A statement made recently by the president of the Lakeland, P. A. Pollard, should be of general interest. In this statement Mr. Pollard says:—
"Since our previous report we have opened up on the 450 ft. level and while crosscutting to intersect the Nos. 1, 7 and 8 veins which opened up so well on the 150 ft. level, No. 9 and 10 veins were encountered and at the intersection of the crosscut on these veins, widths of three to four feet were shown and values were $4.40 to $6.00. These veins are fifty feet and eighty feet from the shaft running north and south and dipping eastward. No. 9 vein has been drilled on both north and south of the crosscut for approximately 100 feet either way. Widths have increased up to six feet and values $10 to $12 and $34 encountered, showing an average width of approximately five feet and well over $7 in average value for the entire 200 ft. No. 10 vein is opening up equally as well and from every indication will be equally as wide and value as well.
"Diamond drilling to the 600 ft. level is in progress from the 450 ft. to intersect these veins at that depth. To date ten known veins have been explored and surface diamond drilling has revealed much over a quarter of a mile south of where present drifting is taking place on the 450 ft. level. In this diamond drill work, values from $3 to $18 have been encountered and some 18 holes have been completed to a depth of approximately 250 ft., therefore, the south portion of the property has been well explored on the main central ore body and in the northern section equally as good results in diamond drilling have been encountered.
"Following such good results the management are preparing to open up a three-compartment shaft to the 600 ft. level in the vicinity where a mill will be located. To this end a very definite programme is under way and the future of our property looks extremely good."

Renfrew Mercury:—John Ellis of England, the world's best known hangman, has committed suicide. He had lived eight years in retirement and was beginning to brood. Yet his conscience had nothing more on it than that of judges and juries, and certainly not a tenth part of that on the conscience of the murderers. If capital punishment is to be abandoned why not let the murderers set the example? In all places where the gallows and guillotine and lethal chamber and electric chair are abolished human life is cheapened. Murders increase.

ALL SORTS OF REASONS ARE URGED TO SECURE POSITIONS

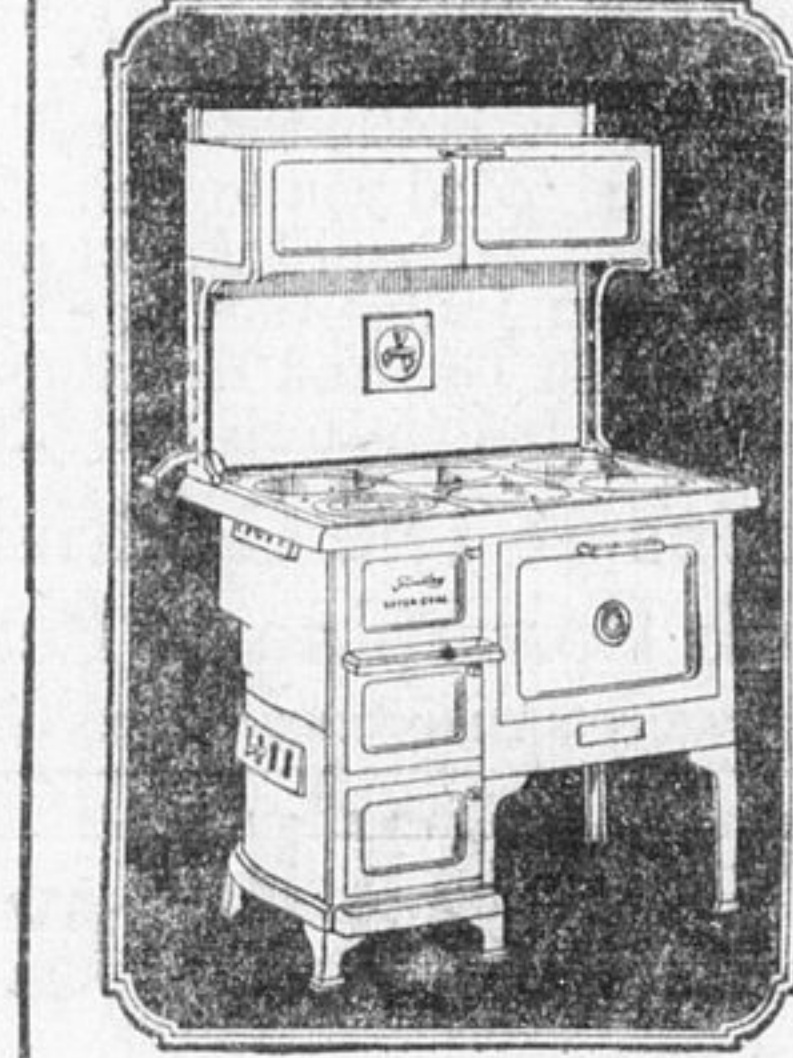

That happy column, "Grab Samples" in The Northern Miner last week had the following:—
"In this column of late there have been printed examples of weird geological reports and other communications of a bizarre nature. Publication has suggested to several readers the sending in of letter which bordered on the humorous. Some of these are really good but are a little too personal in some of their implications. However, here is one which appears as revealing a complete lack of knowledge of conditions in a remote mining camp. A mine manager, operating a gold property well back in the hinterland, received an application for work, couched in these terms:
"Dear Sir: I have a four-piece orchestra, a pianist, violinist, banjo player and drummer. We can supply up-to-date and old-time music. We have been together four years and have played at various places where only a four-piece orchestra is required. We are all local boys and are accustomed to almost any kind of labour. We were employed in a road camp last winter and we provided entertainment all winter long. Could you supply us with work of any kind and give us permission to take in our instruments and also if there is no piano there we could arrange to ship one in, with your permission to place it in one of the camps."

"The piano was evidently the sticker, as the mine manager petitioned in this case had as one of his real problems the transportation of food and supplies from the railway. So the boys did not get the work, although their musical efforts no doubt would have been duly appreciated, even if there was not a dancing partner for the miners within many miles."
