To Ask Mounties About Haileybury Prospector

A despatch this week from Haileybury says that with no further word available regarding the whereabouts of James Daley, Haileybury prospector, of whom nothing has been heard for more than four months, it was learned at Haileybury on Saturday evening last that local friends propose to ask the mounted police for official information in the case. The request will be made to the post at Amos, it is indicated. While it is conceded that the absence of news is somewhat ominous, his friends state that Daley has been away on solitary trips before for periods of time longer than that covered by the present expedition, and they have not given up hope entirely.

Suspended Sentence in Fraud Cases at Sturgeon

A despatch this week from North Bay says:—Convicted of jointly conspiring to obtain money by false pretences from the Department of Northern Development, Wednesday afternoon, by Judge H. D. Leask, sentence was deferred on Edward Paquette, William Dunbar, Henry and John Lewis, of Sturgeon Falls, until Monday, October 31, at 10 a.m. to allow T. E. McKee, crown attorney, time to receive power from the attorney-general's department to consent to sentence being suspended on the men.

In the meantime the quartette will be allowed their liberty on their personal bond.

Judge Leask termed their act "more foolish than criminal." As they had no bad records or previous offences against them, he said he would suspend sentence on them with the crown's consent.

The crown attorney, declined, however, until he had communicated with the department.

The prosecution arose from the issuance of a cheque for $47.50 to Paquette for repairing an automobile, under construction of John Lewis, paymaster. Henry Lewis, was employer as labour supervisor and Dunbar as a timekeeper in Springer Township by the Northern Development Branch. Paquette is a garage mechanic then employed at Sturgeon Falls.

The cheque to Paquette was put through for work by horses when actually it covered repairs to a car used by John Lewis. Paquette was not entitled to receive payments from the department because he was not an employee.

R. Eddy was called to California, U.S.A., this week owing to the death of his sister there.

The Talk of the Town Pleases Big Crowds

Full House at Goldfields Theatre Thursday Night and Event Repeated at Church of the Nativity Hall Friday by Special Request.

There was a full house at the Goldfields theatre on Thursday evening for the comedy, "The Talk of the Town," and the extravaganza, "The Toy Shop," presented by the Altar Society of the Church of the Nativity, under the very able direction of Mrs. Rosalind Barrett. So general was the appreciation of the event that effort was made to secure the theatre for a repetition after the show Friday evening and this falling the popular demand for another presentation was met by having it in the parish hall of the Church of the Nativity where a large crowd again enjoyed the very interesting and amusing comedy, "The Talk of the Town," so well presented by the talented local cast under the gifted direction of Mrs. Barrett, who added to her high reputation as a director by the success achieved after so short a time for preparation.

The event Friday evening opened with "The Toy Shop," a pleasing number in which forty clever youngsters took effective part. The extravaganza represented the doll maker, (P. Larmer) in the shop with his wonderful collection of beautiful toys. The act opens with the doll maker singing in fine voice to the group of charming Tin Soldiers, Chocolate Soldiers, China Dolls and other dolls and toys. In dances Bright-Eyes the Fairy (Mrs. H. Burt) and after a pleasing dance the dolls and toys are turned by the magic wand into real boys and girls, who sing and dance and play in most attractive way. In addition to those already noted the chief characters were: "Big Beauty," Mary MacLean; "Jack-in-the-Box," Billie McKee; "Dutch Doll," Claire O'Gorman; "French Doll," Mary Sutherland; "First Doll," Phyllis McCoy; "Second Doll," Luella Kendall; "Captain Fritz," Noble McCoy. The military dance by the Soldiers, the dance of the French Dolls, the Wooden Soldiers and the China Dolls, and the Minuet of the Dolls were all specially well presented numbers. Costumes and staging added to the effectiveness of the numbers. The Soldiers were particularly good, while Miss Maisie Newton was particularly popular in her numbers. Throughout all the youngsters did especially well and the number was a decided credit to them and to the skill of Mrs. Barrett. The orchestra added to the effectiveness of the extravaganza as well as furnishing pleasing music throughout the evening.

The comedy, "The Talk of the Town," was a very amusing one and was given in able way. The cast was as follows:—"Annie, the maid," Miss Violet Smith; "Mrs. Simmons," Mrs. S. R. McCoy; "Taxi driver," Wm. Sutherland; "Henry Simmons," Frank Rodgers; "Ethel Simmons," Mrs. D. Campbell; "Roger Shields," Gerald Charlebois; "Lila Wilson," Miss Marjory Carriere; "Chester Binney," Gerald Gordon; "Sally Otis," Miss Norma Taylor; "Donald Smith," A. J. Shragge; "Letty Lythe," Rosalind Barrett; and "Sadie Bloom," Mrs. M. Ryan. Each and every one of these took his or her part in very talented and understanding way, and the result was a very happy evening for the audience. The play itself is a wholesome and happily humorous one and it must be said that the cast made the most of it. The stage settings and costumes are worthy of special note, and showed the talent of the director, as did also the clever allotment of parts to those in the cast, as each one played the character assigned with so much success. There was not a weak spot in the play throughout, and for an amateur event it was remarkably smooth and well handled. The enjoyment of the audience, however was perhaps the best recommendation of the event. Frank Rodgers was a striking success in his part. It would take a good professional to have made more of the part. A. J. Shragge was another outstanding actor of the evening and won very hearty approval on merit. Mrs. S. R. McCoy took her part in most effective way. "The maid" was very well portrayed by Miss Smith. So was the sophisticated gentleman by Gerald Charlebois. Gerald Gordon also deserves special note. And so do all the others in the cast. Throughout it was a very creditable and pleasing presentation and all present felt that they had received their money's worth in full.

SMALL SPIDER SAID TO HAVE BORED HOLE THROUGH CUP

A despatch from Kirkland Lake tells this one:—A tiny black spider that bored a hole right through a china cup was found this week by Morris Lattanze of the Teck Hughes Mine. He shows the cup with a hole through it about the size of a pin head.

"A little black spider did it," he claims. "My wife saw the spider in the cup. I guess she's a little superstitious about spiders, because she didn't kill it, but left it in the cup and put the cup away on the shelf. I took the cup down 15 days later, and sure enough, there was the spider boring away. It had chewed right through the cup." Lattanze who isn't superstitious dumped the tiny black chiseller out on the snow.

And the despatch isn't signed "Ripley," either.
