

Expect 1933 to be a Big Year for North

In an interview last week at Ottawa, Lt.-Col. E. T. Martin, vice-chairman of the T. & N. O. Railway Commission, spoke with enthusiasm and optimism of the mining progress in the North this year. Lt.-Col. Martin has spent a large part of his life in the North in railway and lumbering operations and he knows the North thoroughly. Indeed, he may fairly be claimed as a North Land man from his long and active connection with this country, even before the T. & N. O. Railway was built.

The Ottawa Journal last week interviewed Lt.-Col. Martin on matters in connection with the T. & N. O. Railway and the North and the results of this interview will be found in the following article. The Journal says:—

"Indications were that 1932 would be the biggest year in the mining history of Northern Ontario, stated Lieut.-Col. E. T. Martin, D.S.O., vice-chairman of the T. & N. O. Railway who has just returned from the autumn inspection of the 440 mile line which penetrates the rich mining area from North Bay to Moosonee.

"Lieut.-Col. Martin in an interview with The Journal last night pointed out that the inspecting party included George W. Lee, chairman, and Col. John I. McLaren, and was accompanied by Hon. E. A. Dunlop, provincial treasurer; H. D. Burns, assistant general manager, Bank of Nova Scotia, and Duncan McLaren, all of Toronto.

Provincial Treasurer Pleased
"The provincial treasurer was well pleased with the general outlook and prevalent conditions and seemed more impressed with the importance of the mining development in Northern Ontario than ever, Lieut.-Col. Martin stated.

"The vice-chairman, stated that the party visited all the important centres in the area including Noranda where the mine and smelter were inspected; Timmins where the McIntyre mine and mill were visited and Iroquois Falls where the pulp and paper mill of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company operates. "General satisfaction is felt in Northern Ontario that the hydro electric development at the Canyon which was recently taken over by the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission is being proceeded with," he said.

"The terminal at Elk Lake was also visited and general satisfaction was expressed with gold mining activities in the Matachewan district.

"At Moosonee, the township, terminal facilities of the James Bay Inn were minutely inspected and the officials were impressed with the good season reported. Lieut.-Col. Martin stated that the hotel had been a success to American tourists who appreciated enjoying the amenities of civilization after taking advantage of the excellent goose and duck hunting the richly stocked area afforded.

Visit Moose Factory
"The party visited the historic Hudson Bay Company's post at Moose Factory and carried out a most enjoyable canoe trip through the estuary to James Bay proper.

"Lieut.-Col. Martin remarked that the Commission was satisfied with the year's outcome and though the gross business had been somewhat reduced this was expected owing to prevalent conditions. He also expressed pleasure at finding the roadbed and general equipment in such excellent condition. In general he pointed out that conditions in Northern Ontario were most satisfactory with relatively little unemployment. He thought that a most encouraging factor was that the gold production for the first nine months of 1932 was 10.7 per cent. higher than that of the same period last year and that generally speaking the outlook for the future left little to be desired."

NOT A GOOD WAY TO TRAVEL TO FINLAND THIS WINTER

Writing last week in The Northern News, the "Roving Reporter" says:—"A quaintly worded plea for aid reached the Teek Township Council some nights ago in the form of a letter from a Finlander here. The applicant seems, was a voluntary deportee, and was awaiting final word from authorities in his native land before he departed from Kirkland Lake and from Canada. But his chief worry was that his clothing was in rags, and he beseeched the township fathers to help him. "I am all naked and am unable to travel," he told them in his letter. The request for apparel was turned over to the unemployment committee, and, judging by all accounts, the impoverished citizen will find his wish realized."

Some Foolish Ideas on Penitentiaries

Nothing but Ill Results will Come from Pandering to the "Tough Guys." Men in Prison Should not be Pampered.

Many who have been disappointed in the editorial attitude taken by The Ottawa Journal recently on some questions of the day will have their faith renewed in the Ottawa newspaper by its common-sense attitude on the recent riots in some of the penitentiaries of Canada. There is a danger that a foolish so-called sentimentalism may work serious harm to the country in reference to the inmates of the prison. The Ottawa Journal is certainly on solid ground when it asks first for the punishment of those responsible for the disorders in the penitentiaries. First of all, says The Journal, the inmates of the prisons must be taught that they can not get away with any riots or disorders in Canadian penitentiaries. That is the first thing—the assurance of law and order and the full control of the law-breakers. Talk about preferred prisoners or about any little inconveniences that may be suffered by those in prison is a very secondary consideration. The prison riots have given certain people a chance to air their views on what they term prison reform. There is reason to believe that the only prison reform needed in Canada is along lines exactly opposite to those held by some sentimentalists. As a matter of fact there are grounds for thinking that too much leniency and privilege led to the recent troubles. Indeed, it appears impossible to conceive of the troubles arising had any measure of severe discipline obtained. In other words, it was not hardship that forced the prisoners to revolt, but it was lack of stern measures that left them in position that they were able to do as they did.

Surely, it is absurd to demand that the prisoners be used better than their law-observing friends outside. That is what the prisoners "demand." It is what their supporters outside also suggest. The present moment seems inopportune for such demands. With thousands of fine people, law-observing, honest, industrious, hard run to find food and shelter for themselves and families, it is surely evil as well as silly to listen to demands that the inmates of the prisons should have cigarettes, radio, and all the comforts of hotel life at the country's expense. The suggestion that the prisoners should be supplied with work and allowed to send their earnings to their families is especially irritating at the moment. It is surely a wrong time to howl about the families of law-breakers having to live on charity when thousands of good people have to endure direct relief. A little thought will show the startling implication of this policy: nothing more nor less than putting a premium on serious crime. The criminal would be able to assure comfort for himself and a living for his family just by virtue of being in prison. It is a nice suggestion surely!

The whole question is so vital in its general importance that a recent editorial from The Ottawa Journal is given herewith in full:—

The recent penitentiary riots have opened up a marvelous opportunity for well-meaning men and women bent on doing something for the prison population. Penitentiary administration, prison methods, are news at the moment, and all the people and organizations with views on these subjects are getting on the front pages of the newspapers.

As, for instance the Social Service Council of Canada, which sends on from Toronto a series of recommendations to the Minister of Justice. Briefly, this is what they want:—Greater facilities to prisoners for improvement of their minds, through employment of educationalists of university standing with experience in recreational activities; Improved lighting for cells; Food of prisoners should be put under the care of trained dieticians; Physical punishment should be inflicted only in the most serious cases; Families of prisoners should receive pay; Work provided for prisoners should be of a character economically profitable and not merely punitive; Prison facilities should be enlarged as soon as possible; The utmost care should be taken in the appointment of wardens and guards.

To some of these recommendations nobody will take objection. Obviously prison officials should be competent. Obviously prison facilities should be such as to accommodate every man in his own cell. Over-crowding, dormitories in the corridors, have their share of responsibility for troubles in Canadian and American penitentiaries. Additional quarters ought to be provided where they are needed, and the work should be done by the prisoners—as at Portsmouth. Obviously it would be better if all the prisoners could do work "economically profitable" but the Social Service Council takes no account of the practical difficulties in the way of this aim. But for the most part the recommendations are impracticable, visionary, without regard to realities.

Expressions of sentimental ideas on prison management by people who combine the best intentions with a complete lack of knowledge on the subject and an emotional inability to look hard facts in the face do nothing but complicate the problems of the authorities. A proper concern for the welfare of prisoners can, and often does, degenerate into a foolish weakness. It is folly to suppose we can put down crime, reform hardened criminals, by turning penal institutions into high-class boarding schools with educationists, dieticians, curtains on the windows and cut flowers on every table. It is the height of folly, in fact, to proceed on the assumption that reformation of the criminal is possible in all cases, or even in many penitentiary cases.

It is the fact, although the amiable reformers refuse to see it, that the majority of prisoners in the penitentiaries are confirmed crooks, hardened criminals who laugh at efforts to reform them and look upon a prison term as an occupational hazard. They are the men who lead riots over cigarette papers or any other petty grievance, who stir up disaffection and unrest, who can be controlled by stern measures but whose outlook on life is as unchangeable as the leopard's spots. Killers, burglars, gun-toters, forgers, embezzlers, violators of women, robbers—these are the men who comprise the majority of the penitentiary population and it is needless to waste very much sympathy on them.

Unquestionably some men come out of prison with their feet re-set on the paths of honesty and straight living. These men are never found in the forefront of revolt. They learn their lesson, pay without whining the penalty of law-breaking. It's the "tough guys" who cause the trouble, who like to awaken the sympathy of the unthinking, who profit most and benefit least from the namby-pamby sentimentalism which concerns itself not at all with disagreeable facts.

Annual Appeal for Children's Hospital

Hospital for Sick Children at Toronto Asking the Public for Donations. to Carry on Noble Work.

The Hospital for Sick Children, at Toronto, founded and so generously helped by the late John Ross Robertson founder of The Toronto Telegram, is one of the most helpful institutions in the country. Its service to the sick and crippled children of Ontario may be described as a noble sample of the finest form of helpfulness. To the skill and care of the Hospital for Sick Children, to the nurses and doctors of that institution, literally thousands of children owe health and strength and life itself. Next to the local hospital every man in every town should feel that the Hospital for Sick Children has the special call upon his generosity. The demands upon the Hospital for Sick Children, due to the prolonged depression places the institution to-day in the most critical position of its history. For that reason a special appeal is being made at this time for support. The hospital authorities have addressed the following letter to the newspapers of Ontario:—

Dear Mr. Editor: The prolonged period of hard times has created a most difficult problem for Ontario's world-famous Hospital for Sick Children, which only the benevolent public can solve. Here it is, in a nutshell:—

The hospital has nursed in its cots this year, 7,694 small sufferers, an increase of 687 over the total of the previous year. In addition 84,202 treatments were given in the great outpatient department, an increase of 16,094. On one day 520 treatments were recorded. In the previous year there was a similar growth in the demand for the merciful ministrations of the hospital. While all this has been going on the amounts of the donations from the kind-hearted have decreased by many thousands of dollars, creating the situation of far more to be done and far less to do it with.

The statutory grants obtained by the hospital fall much short of being sufficient to pay for the actual cost of maintenance of the little patients and each additional patient means an added deficit. The task of bridging the gap between the cost of operation and operating income has usually been accomplished by contributions from the benevolent. While the hospital has retained the majority of its friends who kindly donate to its work yearly, and is continually adding new ones, donations diminished to a somewhat alarming extent in the response to last year's appeal for funds and there has been little improvement in that respect throughout the year. It is unthinkable that any child needing the humane service provided by the hospital should be refused. The trustees are anxious and can only hope that the kindhearted people of the province will see them through the difficulty by a most generous response to the present appeal.

Public benevolence has built the Hospital for Sick Children to the proud eminence of being the finest institution of its kind in the world. Its country branch at Thistleton is a recognized model and persons interested in child welfare come from all parts of the globe to inspect it. Any child in the province of Ontario, deformed or diseased, is eligible for admittance to this wonderful institution, where the very finest treatment known to medical and surgical science is at once available. There is no class or creed distinction. The very best that any hospital can give is placed within easy reach of the poorest child.

Now, more urgently than ever before, is the hospital in need of contributions and no amount would be considered too small. Please ask the benevolent in your community to help. Tell them that the story of the hospital covering 57 years, is not that of merely adding cot to cot and ward to ward. It is the story of a battle constantly waged against disease and deformity, with all the advancing resources of the medical and surgical sciences. It is a story of demands which have ever exceeded the financial resources, but which have always been met by generous response to appeals for aid. But for this generosity the hospital would many times have been bankrupt. Ask your readers, please, to prevent it from becoming so now.

Faithfully yours,
DOUGLAS S. PETERSON,
Trustee

Hamilton Spectator:—Every body knows that in England Marjoribanks is pronounced Marchbanks, and Cholmondeley, Chumley. So the other day we got idly curious about an English village called St. Oystin, and asked some one who ought to know whether it was pronounced O-sythe or Ossich. The gentleman in question replied quietly that personally he had never heard it called anything but Toosey. The only running mate to this one we have had the pleasure of learning comes also from England; there is a street called Tooley street in one British city; it was named after St. Clave, but something happened in between.

FREIGHTING CONTRACT BY THE HOWEY GOLD MINES

The freighting contract for Howey Gold Mines, Limited has been let to the Patricia Transportation Co. Ltd. of Hudson, Ont. for a period of three years. This is one of the important haulage contracts in the north, probably the largest one. The Patricia Company, which has engaged in freighting in Northern Ontario for over 22 years, is unique in several respects. It builds its own boats, fabricating steel frames and doing all necessary construction work, erects and dismantles mining machinery. The boats are in the main equipped with Diesel engines.

Summer haulage is only part of the company's work. Equipment for winter transportation is also provided and any desired tonnage can be handled in either season.

Miss Jessie Marie De Both makes her delicious

Apple Dumplings with Magic Baking Powder

"When a young housewife asks me what baking powder she should use," says Miss De Both, director of the famous De Both Home Makers' Cooking Schools, "this is my advice: Use the best—one that is pure, uniform and invariably dependable. You can't use second-rate baking powder and expect first-rate results."

"My experience with Magic has been particularly happy. I find that it never varies—that it is consistently reliable. And I know it is pure, and free from harmful ingredients."

Statements by other well-known cookery authorities give wholehearted support to Miss De Both's judgment.

In fact, the majority of dietitians and cookery teachers throughout Canada use and recommend Magic exclusively.

Apple Dumplings
1 quart flour 1½ cups milk
2 teaspoons Magic Sugar
Baking Powder Cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt Apples
2 tablespoons butter
Sift into a bowl flour, baking powder and salt. Rub in the butter. Add cold milk to make soft dough. Turn out on to a floured board and roll into a sheet. Cut in squares. Peel and core the apples. Place an apple on each square of dough. Fill the core with a small piece of butter, sugar and a little cinnamon. Fold the dough over, taking care that there are no openings, as the steam inside dumplings cooks the apple while dough is baking. Brush dumplings with a little cream, and place in greased pan. Bake in moderate oven at 400° F. about 40 minutes. Serve with cream or hard sauce.
