

For COLDS

"I always use BABY'S OWN TABLETS to break up my baby's colds," writes Mrs. Wilbert Colquhoun, Sturgeon Falls, Ont.

"When I see a cold coming on, it is to BABY'S OWN TABLETS that I turn," writes Mrs. Robert Greenhorn, Phillipsville, Ont.

Mothers everywhere report in like vein of the safe, sure results that follow the use of BABY'S OWN TABLETS in treating children's colds, teething troubles, simple fevers, disordered stomach, colic, constipation, 25 cents.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

"HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN

We quote from her voluntary letter:

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN, 4 months ago."—Mrs. Doris Eyré King (address furnished upon request).

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Certainly this is more natural than taking pills and drugs—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Ask Road to Connect Sudbury — Timmins

Feature of Value in the Way of Avoiding Direct Relief Touched on. Sudbury Sees Value of Connecting Road.

There was a time when The Advance was advocating a roadway from Sudbury to Timmins passing through several very promising mining fields. At that time Sudbury did not seem to be fully aware of the value of such a road to the North Land. A couple of years ago, however, Sudbury board of trade began to urge this roadway and since then Sudbury has been a strong supporter of the idea, visioning the general advantage of the work. At present to the value of the work as a development factor and an added attraction to tourists, there has been added the thought that such a road would relieve the necessity for considerable relief expenditures as there would be enough men employed on the construction work to be a valuable factor in relieving unemployment. In recent months Sudbury has been active in advocating the completion of the Sudbury-Porcupine highway and many opportunities have been taken to further the campaign to induce the government to take up the matter. Last week The Advance printed a reprint from Hansard of the address by J. A. Bradette, M.P. for North Temiskaming, on the unemployment question. In his address to the House of Commons it will be remembered that Mr. Bradette touched on the necessity for a road between Sudbury and Timmins and serving mining camps like Sudbury, Shiningtree, Gowanda, Elk Lake, Matachewan, McArthur and Porcupine. The remarks by Mr. Bradette are made the occasion for an editorial by The Sudbury Star. In referring to Mr. Bradette's speech The Sudbury Star says:—

"The proposed plan to connect Sudbury with the Porcupine gold camp by highway gained support from an unexpected quarter this week when J. A. Bradette, of Cochrane, Liberal member for North Temiskaming, urged upon the Bennett government the necessity of co-operating with the provincial government, among other things, in financing the construction of the highway. Approximately, the discussion occurred during a debate on the question of unemployment. Mr. Bradette criticized the system of direct relief on the grounds that by providing work, not only was a necessary service rendered, but the moral effect was greater than by doling out actual charity. The two recommendations which he urged on the government particularly were the construction of a highway east of Cochrane, connecting the Ferguson highway with the Quebec boundary, and the construction of a road between Sudbury and Timmins.

"There is much to be said for Mr. Bradette's argument against direct relief. While expenditure on such public works as roads is naturally more costly, the fact is that a few years hence the country will be crying for just such a road as the one he is advocating. The work of building the road will be done sooner or later, and there seems to be no reason why the surplus labor now available should not be utilized for the purpose.

"While Mr. Bradette was urging extension of roads in Northern Ontario, it is interesting to note that the same matter was the subject of discussion at a meeting of the Ryan Ward Ratepayers' Association, where objection was taken to the principle of shipping men from Sudbury to Kenora at considerable expense to the government and the municipality, when the same men might be usefully employed on road construction at points where the cost of transportation would be negligible.

"Resolutions have been flooding the government, of late, urging continued work on the trans-Canada highway as a means of unemployment relief. Last year's experience should have been enough to convince administration authorities of the impracticability of this plan except on a contract basis. There are many more important and useful roads to be built than the trans-Canada highway and these should not be overlooked in any plan the government may have under consideration for alleviating distress through indirect relief this winter."

Says Robbed Bank to Get Money for Girl

Man Charged with Robbing North Bay Bank has Flowery Story for the Newspapers. Said to Threaten Police

Sam Ayoub, who is held at North Bay on a charge of robbing the branch of the bank of Montreal at that city on Nov. 26th, and who is under treatment for gun wounds received in a battle with police who attempted to arrest him, last week gave a rather flowery interview to the press in reference to the robbery.

All the money stolen from the bank was recovered by the police, and Ayoub was under arrest a few hours after he had gotten away with the hold-up.

"It must have been the devil that prompted me. I don't know why I did it," is one of the expressions quoted as being said by Ayoub when a reporter interviewed him at the hospital at North Bay. Ayoub, who is 26 years old, formerly lived at Sudbury, and when interviewed in the hospital Ayoub told a Sudbury reporter many details about his life and actions. The Sudbury Star reporter was informed that the wounded prisoner robbed the bank to get money for a girl he is said to have brought from Kirkland Lake to Sudbury a week before the robbery. The girl was left at Sudbury while Ayoub went back to North Bay.

"Were you so hard up that you had to rob a bank?" Ayoub was asked. "I wasn't hard up, I was foolish," he replied.

"I'll get you if I ever get out," he is said to have threatened Constable Joseph Belanger, one of the constables who arrested him, and who was himself wounded twice. Police say he also threatened to "get" Austin Lariviere, of Miller's sawmill, at Yellek, who advised police that Ayoub was in the vicinity.

Ayoub faces two charges; bank robbery while armed, and wounding a police officer in the execution of his duty. The loot was all recovered.

His escape was delayed several hours when he became lost in the bush outside North Bay, Ayoub said. "I just walked out the door and down the street. I was not in a hurry. I took my time. Then I went down behind the telegraph offices and over behind the old Pacific Hotel (now The Nugget Building.)

"I crossed the tracks and walked on until I got out of the city into the bush. When I got in the bush I sat down to rest. I lost my way when I tried to go on. I must have walked about 13 miles in that d—d bush. I didn't get out until about 6.30 or 7 o'clock. I was right at a lumber camp so I went in and bought my supper. It was this stop at the Lumber camp that gave the police their first clue to the robber's whereabouts. About 6 o'clock they received the tip from Lariviere. Every constable was mobilized and converged on Yellek from North Bay and Sturgeon Falls, but by the time they reached the camp Ayoub had gone.

Fat Girls Out of Fashion

Women of All Nations Slimming

All over the world Kruschen Salts is appealing to girls and women who are striving for an attractive free-from-fat figure.

Here is the method they are following to banish fat and bring into blossom all the natural attractiveness that they possess; every morning they take a half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of warm water before breakfast.

"They do this every morning—without missing one—for 'it's the daily dose that takes off the fat.' When Kruschen is taken daily, every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system. At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve, and fibre of the body, and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity, and a charming figure.

Constables Joseph Belanger and John Pilgrim, of the North Bay force went to a point about three miles east of Sturgeon Falls with instructions to walk back towards North Bay along the railway track. They had gone between three and four miles, when three miles west of Meadowside they encountered a man in the darkness. The law and the fugitive were within a few feet of each other before either knew it.

The man turned out to pass the police when Constable Belanger grabbed him. "Just a minute, what is your name?" he asked.

Ayoub, police claim, answered by shooting twice, one bullet piercing Constable Belanger's side and the other grazing his forearm. Then his gun jammed. Constable Belanger clinched with him. Officer and man were so closely intertwined that Constable Pilgrim feared to shoot. For an instant they parted, and Constable Pilgrim shot, the bullet grazing Ayoub's right side. His second shot pierced Ayoub's left hand, the bullet entering his hip bone.

A third shot, aimed at his head, struck the back of his neck at the left side and passed out through the cheek. Despite his wounds he again attempted to escape and Constable Belanger grappled with him again. Suddenly Ayoub collapsed in the constable's arms, and the two men rolled down the embankment into the ditch. Searching him, officers say they found two revolvers and an automatic. One of the revolvers belonged to the bank.

"You have me dead, and I have all the money," Ayoub said, according to the police.

Ayoub remained conscious and defiant while being transported to North Bay police station. At first he refused to tell name or address.

"You've got me and you've got the money; what more do you want?" he asked.

He did not complain of pain. Only once he said his hand hurt.

"I'm shot but I've got my man," was the way Constable Belanger reported the capture to Chief William Clarke.

"Boys, I congratulate you," said the prisoner defiantly.

"Why did you pick out the Bank of Montreal?" he was asked as he lay on his hospital cot. "I don't know. No special reason. I just went in there and thought I'd hold it up."

"Did you know the city very well?" "Too well," he replied. That's the trouble, I knew this town too well. I know every town in the north country. I had four stores: one at Ansonville, one at Iroquois Falls, one at Kirkland Lake and another at Sudbury at one time."

"Where did you go between 12.15 and 7 o'clock when you came out at the lumber camp for your supper?" "That's the guy that squealed," Ayoub flared. "Somebody will get him pretty soon."

"The police knew your name before you even thought of having supper," the reporter reminded him. "Yeah, I suppose so," he answered, some of his anger subsiding. "Everybody knows me, even the chickens in the backyards know me. That's the trouble."

In addition to the two charges at North Bay it is understood that Ayoub will be required to face another robbery charge at Kirkland Lake. The Kirkland Lake police are of the opinion that Ayoub is one of the two men who held up and robbed the Sylvester Bros. store at Kirkland Lake on Oct. 25th, and escaped with over $600.00 in cash and cheques. Ayoub was questioned after the Kirkland Lake robbery and when the police were looking for him again for further questioning it was found that Ayoub had left town. At the time Ayoub was questioned his friend, Fred Lauzon was placed under arrest. The police were not able to establish a case against Lauzon in connection with the robbery but they were able to show that he was a vagrant, and on the latter charge he was sentenced to three months. Chief of Police Shane at Kirkland Lake is quoted as saying that a charge of robbery while armed is now to be laid against Ayoub in connection with the Sylvester store robbery. In that robbery two men wearing masks entered the store and while one covered the clerk with a gun, the other scooped up all the cash he could get his hands on in the cash register. Chief Shane says Ayoub travelled under several aliases, including the name of Secord, Essa and Fraser. He was a frequenter of pool-rooms, according to the Kirkland Lake chief, and had not been working for a considerable time.

Ottawa Journal:—The reason that Niagara Falls is so popular with honeymoon couples, so we are told, is that in the Iroquois language it means "Place of the neck."

Say! Talk About Howlers! How About These Ones?

On a number of occasions The Advance has published lists of "howlers," as they are called, usually supposed to be the work of schoolboys at examinations. There is always interest in these and a demand for more. Indeed, the demand for new ones seems to exceed the supply. However, a reader sends in the following with the query, "You talk about howlers? What about these?"

"These are as follows:— In making a cake the person should beat the white of an egg until stiff. A widower is a man who has a dead wife.

The Duke of Clarence, according to his usual custom, was killed in battle. Thomas Cranmer was a college student who translated the Old Testament into the New Testament.

Abraham Lincoln was born in a little log cabin which he helped his father to build.

Robert Louis Stevenson got married and went on his honeymoon. It was then he wrote "Travels With a Donkey."

Identify "Dido." Dido means the same, and is usually represented by Dido marks.

An incinerator is a person who hints bad things instead of coming right out and telling you.

A metaphor is to keep cows in. Strategy is when you don't let the enemy know that you are out of ammunition but keep right on firing.

What would you do in the case of a man bleeding profusely from a wound in the head? I would put a tourniquet around his neck.

For fractures. To see if the limb is broken, wiggle it gently back and forth.

A mugwump is a bird that sits on a fence with its mug on one side and its wump on the other.

Sudbury Star:—The town of Timmins though scarcely out of its teens, presents an example of modern ratepayers' dream. Not only has the municipality paid its way through the depression so far, but the debenture debt has been reduced by $300,000 in the last four years. In 10 or 12 years more, if this record is maintained, the entire debenture debt of the town will be wiped out.

CANADA PAID ITS OWN WAY FOR THE WAR AND SUPPLIES

In a recent issue The Northern Miner quotes Sir Thomas White, who was Minister of Finance for Canada during the war, as saying:—

"One thing the people of Canada should thank God for and that is that Canada financed her part in the war from her own resources and that at the end of the war the government of Canada owed not one dollar to the government of the United States or that of any other nation. It would be particularly humiliating if Canada as next-door neighbor, were obliged to go hat in hand to Washington to ask for reimbursement of a war debt, pending reconsideration of its terms, and suffer a rebuff. This is at least a mercy for which we should be duly thankful."

To this The Northern Miner adds the comment:—

"Canada, it could be added, paid its own way in the Great War, paid its own soldiers, paid for their ammunition and supplies. It loaned large sums to the allies, and has long since written off some of the debts and forgotten them."

DESCENDING UNDERTAKERS' PLACE AT KIRKLAND LAKE

The Northern News last week says:—"Undertaking is a serious profession, but there are times when even the undertaker gets a smile out of life. In a town not so far away from Kirkland Lake the following incident is vouched for. A woman, eyeing the doorways on a certain street, was apparently in search of a certain address. She was having difficulty finding it, but it was apparent that she was looking for the funeral parlor because she was carrying a parcel in her hand—a parcel that obviously contained a floral wreath. She eventually came to the undertakers and knocked on the door. When it was opened she timidly asked, "Is this where the dead people live?"
