Restoration Fund of the Anglican Church

Pamphlet Explains Causes for the Need of the Restoration Fund of Church of England in Canada and Plan of Campaign, Diocese of Moosonee Much Interested.

Reasons for the appeal of the Restoration Fund Committee authorized by the Executive Council of the Church of England in Canada...

In view of the widespread interest in the disclosures made at Winnipeg early last autumn regarding the dissipation of church funds...

Canon Gould at the outset reviews the early missionary enterprise of the Church of England in the middle west from the time of the arrival of Rev. John West at the Red River Settlement in 1820...

From this early beginning the church's activities were extended, almost entirely through the generosity of church people in the Mother Country...

The remainder of the amount which is intended to replace includes the Clergy Widows' and Orphans' Fund amounting to $85,504; Clergy Superannuation Fund, $34,000 and various endowments of St. John's College, Winnipeg, aggregating $148,146.

Bishops of the various dioceses became on consecration members of the boards or bodies of trustees holding and managing the capital funds of their dioceses.

In this connection the following excerpt of a statement submitted by the representatives of the province of Rupert's Land at a meeting of the Executive Council of the General Synod is quoted by Canon Gould:

"So far as these corporations and trusts are concerned, the system seems to have grown up of allowing Mr. Machray, as agent or bursar, or as an individual, to handle the funds and properties, and it has been stated in evidence before the Commission that some of these funds were invested in his own name.

Answering the question—"How could these things be?"—Canon Gould refers to the general confidence in the integrity and honesty of Machray and quotes the evidence of a witness before the Royal Commission investigating the defalcations as they affected the University of Manitoba.

Uno Park Man Got Lost and So Found Team of Horses

To have been able to save the lives of two horses from perishing in the bush by pure accident or coincidence was the unusual experience of E. Connors and A. W. Ward, Uno Park farmers...

Continuing on their way the farmers became lost for a time, having made a wrong turn. Meeting with a resident of that part of the country, however, they were advised as to how they could take a short cut across through a summer trail to pick up the right road to the lakes without doubling back.

Unable to get the fallen horse to his feet without shovels, some hay was fed to it by the farmers, while other animal was led back to the nearest inhabitants' shanty. Here they were fortunate in finding the owner who had dropped in for lunch during his search and who heard the rescuers story with amazement and chagrin.

Kirkland Lake Has Fall of Snow-Sand

People at Kirkland Lake Think They have Something Unusual but Meteorological Gents at Toronto Say it's Not Unusual.

Kirkland Lake people thought they had something odd and unusual and worthy of space in the despatches when snow and sand fell intermingled giving the landscape a brownish tinge.

The meteorological fellows at Toronto, however, said "Pooh! Pooh!" The scientific gentlemen said it was not unusual at all, so if anyone sees a fall of snow and fine sand hereafter at Kirkland Lake they can take it as a matter of course.

Residents of Kirkland Lake and Swastika are said to have been amazed on waking on Thursday morning last to find a light covering of fine powdery sand over everything in sight.

Of course, the whole affair got into the press despatches and that led to the spilling of the whole situation at Toronto were asked about this fall of snow and sand.

GOOD PROGRESS BEING MADE WITH NORTHERN AIRPORT

A personnel of 50 men is making good progress in the construction of the emergency airport at Gillies Depot, four miles south of Cobalt, one of a string of airports being built across the Dominion under the supervision of the Department of National Defence.

These days there are so many references to the "good old days" that people are liable to believe there was something special in the times of long ago.

These days there are so many references to the "good old days" that people are liable to believe there was something special in the times of long ago.

What Now are Called, "The Good Old Days"

What's all the crepe-banging about? Depression—say, these are prosperous times compared to what is laughingly called "the gay nineties."

Comparing those days with the present era is not going to make the poor get rich and the rich get children, but it does give one a lot of satisfaction to know that he ever so humble, there was no times at which luxury could be bought so cheaply.

When you are sitting playing contract with the latest music floating in on the air waves, and, in between asking what's trump and telling your partner what she should have played, you start the great indoor pastime of discussing and cussing the depression, just consider what you would have to put up with if you had to depend on music from a four-piece German band or a hurdy-gurdy, or listen to the girl friend play "Over the Waves" on the organ.

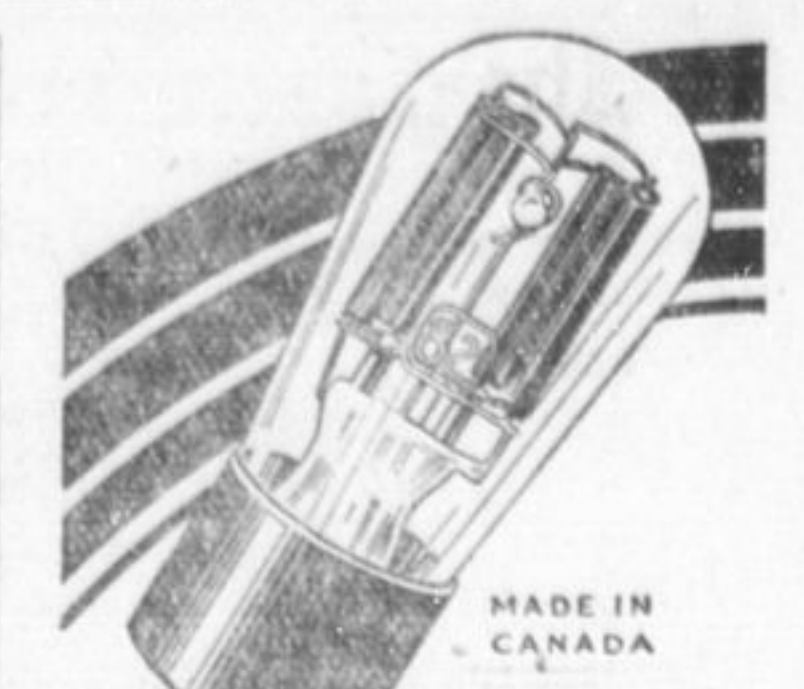

You would be parked on a sofa upholstered with horse-hair of the most penetrating quality. If it were cold you would be huddled around a base-burner and your bedroom would be heated by a stovepipe running through it, if at all.

The boys in those days didn't speed up to the girl's houses and honk their horn and go for a drive at 60 per, and cover a couple of hundred miles in a day.

Sanitation was in the same category as airplanes. They didn't know anything about it. Typhoid fever was rampant where water was impure, and the only thing that one could do was get up and get better or give up and die.

Here in Amherstburg you had to pay 10 cents a barrel for water that was hauled from the river, and you had to blow the green scum away before you drank it.
