Tisdale Again to Enforce the Township Dog By-law

In recent years the township of Tisdale has sought to enforce the by-law regarding the licensing and control of dogs in the township. In doing this the authorities of the township have also endeavoured to play fair with the owners of dogs and give them every opportunity to secure licenses and otherwise carry out the provisions of the by-law. Elsewhere in this issue of The Advance will be found a notice under the signature of the chief of police of Tisdale pointing out that all dog licenses must be purchased on or before April 29th. Dogs not properly tagged will be picked up and dealt with according to the by-law after the date specified. For the convenience of dog owners the license tags may be secured at either the office of the chief of police at South Porcupine or at the police office in Schumacher from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and from 12 noon to 2 p.m. every day, and from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. on pay days.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. O'Callaghan were called to Cornwall, Ont., last week owing to the serious illness of Mr. O'Callaghan's father who passed away later in the week. Reference to the death of Mr. O'Callaghan's father will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Claims Back-to-Land Plan Proves Success

Wm. Magladeroy in Charge of Colonization Gives Facts and Figures to the Colonization Committee of the Ontario Legislature.

"A prominent Toronto financier, whose name I may not mention, told me recently, if all the factories in Canada opened to-morrow, 25 per cent. of the unemployed would still be unemployed," declared William Magladeroy, in charge of colonization for the Department of Northern Development, when the colonization committee of the Ontario Legislature held its first meeting of the present session.

Never was there a time when such need existed for the back-to-the-land movement, he said. "What can we do with these men?" he asked the committee, in appealing for close study and support in the problem. "If they are out of work permanently, they can only go on direct relief and the problem is becoming very oppressive for the taxpayers."

The matter, he said, was being studied in all parts of the world. Italy was during her Tontine marshes; Holland was trying to push back the Zuyder Zee; Great Britain was trying to colonize on any bits of waste land available, and Germany and the United States were making extensive efforts along the same line. "The nations of the world apparently have decided, if possible, to put the unemployed back on the land," he said.

Under Hon. Paul Polson, minister without portfolio, the committee listened intently as Mr. Magladeroy told the story of the back-to-the-land movement; the efforts of Ontario to place her unemployed in self-supporting positions in the north and his prophecy in five years most of the families now there would be paying taxes.

The back-to-the-land movement on February 28, he said, had cost $15,490 for administration, which Ontario would pay entirely. The amount charged to the settlers and to be borne by Ontario was $18,621; the municipalities and federal government would pay the same amount or a total of $55,865 for this purpose.

At present the province had sent 210 families, or 1,085 people back to the land. They had taken over 16,340 acres and very few had failed. Each day, said Mr. Magladeroy, he received 25 or 30 applications, some of them most pitiful, from people who wished to return to the country.

In reply to a question from William

Newman (Lib., North Victoria), he declared it would cost too much to settle the back-to-landers on Old Ontario farms, for there the taxes were high and the government might need as much as $10,000. In the north the total cost was only $600 and the plan was working excellently.

"It isn't the expenditure," he declared. "The most important thing is to salvage the women and children. If you could see those children with ruddy faces; those men and women with renewed hopes; you would be all for this plan." Even adults were taking the correspondence courses sent out by the government, he said, and many foreigners had started with the A.B.C. grades and were now making good pupils.

Minister from North Scores Past Policy

Hon. W. A. Gordon Says That Heavy Immigration in Past Years Helped Nobody but the Railway Companies.

A despatch from Ottawa this week suggests that on Monday Hon. W. A. Gordon, "Minister from the North," made them all sit up and take notice. "Not in many sessions" says one despatch, "has the House of Commons listened to so vigorous a denunciation as Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Labour, vented Monday night on the authors of past immigration policies, the pre-war political leaders who built two transcontinental railways to pour more migrants into the West."

"Why did we start to project two or three transcontinental railways in this country with their ancillary branch lines and the rest?" Mr. Gordon demanded.

For years back, the Minister told A. W. Neil, a British Columbia Independent who asked details of the Government's present land settlement scheme, successive administrations had "gone to all lengths to take anybody from anywhere who would come to Canada in order to provide revenue to pay for those railways."

Successful immigrants had his sympathy for they were classed with the failures. For the 11 years prior to 1930 the government spent, he said, 33,000,000 dollars on immigration and brought in almost 100,000 people. Up to the very day of the fall of the King government in 1930, three trainloads of immigrants a week had been going out the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway to the West. In the four months prior to July 28, 1930, 59,000 people had been brought in.

"These people were not settled on the land," Mr. Gordon declared. "We are feeding them to-day. I will hazard the opinion that we are feeding nine-tenths of them. That is the situation. And in the years before that, the immigrants being brought in were not absorbed into agriculture. They were intended to go on the land but did they?" A volley of Conservative applause answered this rhetorical question.

To this unlimited immigration Mr. Gordon traced Canada's "disproportionate" population of to-day, a population crowded in cities.

Mr. Gordon said he would subscribe to a state-aided colonization policy only as a last resort. "It may be that we will have to do that," he said, "in order to fill up our vacant places and get our people into some sort of security which will be founded on a return to normalcy in price levels," though not unmindful of that possibility, the government would pursue a policy unfavourable to large-scale immigration.

Leopold Macaulay, at present Minister of Highways, will be the new provincial treasurer. Hon. Mr. Macaulay has won an enviable name for himself since his appointment to the provincial cabinet. Hon. Mr. Macaulay is a lawyer by profession. He has been a member of the Legislature since 1926 and has been in the cabinet since September, 1930.

Killer of Chicago's Mayor Executed in Record Time

Giuseppe Zangari, who killed Anton J. Cermak, mayor of Chicago, and wounded four others on Feb. 15th in an attempt to assassinate President Roosevelt at Miami, Florida, "The death penalty was exacted after a swift operation of justice. Zangari was first tried on charges of attempted murder and was sentenced on these counts to eighty years' imprisonment. After Mayor Cermak died he was tried for this murder and within 33 days of the crime he had paid the penalty in the electric chair. This shows that on occasion United States justice can be swift as well as sure. In this particular case the whole people were against the murderer. There may be a suggestion in this for the people of the United States. If they are determined that justice be done and speedily they may be surprised how promptly and effectively their legal machinery may work. Zangari was one of those poor deluded fellows who had been led astray by the silly vapors of the communist tribe. That is one of the serious troubles with this communist rot,—there are always ignorant and unbalanced fellows to take it up literally and then there are murders and other crimes. Zangari was found to be sane in legal and medical opinion, but he was the victim of unprincipled and ignorant agitators like many other poor dupees have been. Indications of the silly fellow's cast of mind is given by the reports of the election. When Zangari found that no pictures were to be taken of the final scenes and no publicity given him he cried out in anger, "The lousy capitalists! No pictures! The lousy capitalists!"

Allan Orr, of Cobalt, nephew of W. W. Orr, of town, was the winner recently of The Toronto Star oratory trophy in the district contest at North Bay. Allan won at North Bay, just as he did in this North some weeks ago when the competition was held, as noted by The Advance some weeks ago.
