

Death of John Moluchi, in Canada Twenty-one Years

John Moluchi, well-known in this section of Canada, died on April 29th, 1932, at his home at 262 Balsam street, north.

At the time of death the late Mr. Moluchi was thirty-eight years old. He was a native of Roumania but had been in Canada for twenty-one years and had wide circles of friends here.

He is survived by a widow and three children.

The funeral took place on Monday, May 1st to the Catholic church and cemetery.

Following an old custom in honour of the dead, the pallbearers and the other near friends among the mourners were invited to the house for supper after the funeral ceremony.

Among the flowers in tribute to the late Mr. Moluchi, wreaths were received from the following:—the Family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Young, Mr. and Mrs. Rusor, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Blahy, Mr. and Mrs. Beacon, Mr. and Mrs. Keasko, Mr. and Mrs. Bough, New Method Laundry.

Commercial League Hold Happy Banquet

Bowling Season Concluded by Enjoyable Event. May 6th Added to Bowling Calendar as Saint Saint's Day. Presentation of Handsome Trophy.

The final curtain was rung down on the Commercial bowling league last Saturday night for the season when the boys all gathered at Stevens' bowling alley.

The boys were mixed up on different teams and three games were played, after which they all adjourned to the residence of F. J. Hornby for the banquet. There were thirty in the gathering.

Before starting in, Captain Saint got his steam-mates together and in a few words complimenting the Power boys on winning the cup he presented the beautiful trophy to Mr. Aspin, captain of the Power team—and each cheered each other. Mr. Aspin replied and said he was glad the boys had won the cup and nothing pleased him more than the way his boys bowled. The silverware then went the rounds and things got under weigh.

J. W. Faithful gave a good speech on the sportsmanship of all the boys in keeping together all season and that through this the league was able to put on this banquet, buy the fine cup and also a prize to the lucky score. All that took some doing and nothing pleased him more than to see this accomplished. He was also glad his team had won the cup as this made things even. Gambles won the sweaters the first year, and the T. & N. O. this year, and then the cup went to the Power and he hoped The Advance would share in the prize next year. He also thanked Mr. and Mrs. Hornby for the use of their home. The boys showed their appreciation of Jack's sportsmanship and his fine speech by singing, "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The bowling pianist, W. Devine, then gave a comic song, followed by some stories.

The father of all the boys was then called on for a few words and after looking around for him he was finally located behind the radio. Mr. C. Alton then got up and spoke along the same lines as Mr. Faithful.

Murray Stewart then delighted the boys with a step dance. Then "Sunshine" noticed a piece of music and after singing it a couple of times Henry swears he will get it down pat for next year. He says he can get "du Haben" but the "Vas Villis" sticks him.

Mr. Allan got up and spoke about all the boys and wished to thank the press on behalf of the boys and thought the articles were very good and well got up and caused lots of fun among the boys.

Mr. Hornby replied for the press. He was glad to see the interest taken in the articles not only by the boys themselves but by outsiders also.

J. Gagnon spoke on behalf of Gamble's team in a few words, and he hoped to see all the boys together next season.

Good friend Saint showed his good humour in his speech.

Jokes and songs were the order during the evening, and again Mr. Hornster, the bowling jinxey man, tried "Vas Villis du Haben" but was drowned out by the piano, banjo, violin and drum.

Johnny Stevens spoke on behalf of his father for the good sportsmanship of the boys at the alleys and he was also glad to be amongst them now. Mr. Aspin then presented Mr. Devine with a fine pipe for the lucky score.

In the small or large hours of the morning the final scene was put on with a square dance to the music of Mr. Stewart, violin, B. McQuarrie, banjo, F. Hornby, mouthorgan and caller. Handkerchief armlets were used for ladies. This event went over big and the boys broke up instead of a breakdown.

There are a few miners who came off the three o'clock shift at the McIntyre wondering who the man was going some place with a silver mug under his arm. Well there is one thing—he could see where he was going; it was daylight.

The night will be in the minds of the boys when they meet again in the fall as they say it's the best night yet.

LAKE TEMISKAMING ONCE AGAIN IS CLEAR OF ALL ICE

Lake Temiskaming is clear of ice again, the north winds of the week-end having completed the process of breaking up, started a few days ago. The lake was frozen over more than two weeks longer this season than in the winter of 1931-32, the number of days being 149 against 132, according to official records. The time of the ice going is three days earlier than last spring, but the freeze-up took place 19 days earlier than in December, 1931.

Do Sea Fish Inhabit Waters of James and Hudson's Bay?

(From Toronto Mail and Empire)
In view of the extension of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway to Moosonee, and the opening of a hotel at that point, it is desirable to know about the fishing resources, if any, of James Bay and Hudson Bay. A survey or patrol carried on by the Dominion Government in 1930 and 1931 concluded that there is no sea fishing on a commercial scale in those waters. The report was not satisfactory to members of Parliament like Mr. Bradette, of Temiskaming North, Mr. Stitt, of Nelson, and Mr. Willis, of Souris, who are convinced from personal knowledge that sea fish actually do thrive in the great inland sea. Mr. Stitt provided some, caught shortly before, for Dr. Manion's dinner when as Minister of Railways he visited Churchill last summer.

The subject was brought to the attention of the House of Commons a few days ago by Mr. Bradette. He claimed that people in his section of the country are under the impression that there is some prejudice against developing James Bay and Hudson Bay fisheries because it might result in competition with established fisheries in Eastern and Western Canada. He said that he did not believe it himself, but that if the Government refused to have a more thorough investigation he would be led to suspect some truth in the assertion. The speaker expressed faith in the progressive spirit of the Minister who must realize what the development of those fisheries would mean to New Ontario. Hon. Mr. Durand, in reply, stated that his department is compelled to practice economy, but that if the Government decides it is necessary to make further inquiry the appropriation will be placed in the estimates next year. We seem to recall a Hudson's Bay Company report stating that the northern waters of Hudson Bay teem with fish while the shallow southern area of the bay does not.

Neglect of the Roads But "Fatal Economy"

Ontario Government Losing All Its Friends by This Malicious Economy. Storm of Protest at Proposition of Hon. W. A. Finlayson.

From all over the North there comes protest at the proposal that the roads of the North should be allowed to go to rack and ruin and that the procedure should be termed "economy."

As W. O. Langdon, the president of the Northern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade has pointed out, there is no possible economy in endangering the large capital expenditure made in this North for roads. Perhaps, Hon. Mr. Finlayson thinks that Mr. Langdon has used strong language in condemning the proposal, but others who have considered the matter are still more emphatic.

"It is a crime!" said one good citizen last week, and consideration of the question will show that the language is not too strong. With the millions of dollars invested in Northern Ontario roads necessary for the development of the country, it surely would be a sin, a crime—no term would be too harsh—to jeopardize the investment made and set the country back ten years. The evil is all the more apparent when it is remembered that the North Land has been the one bright spot in the province during the present depression. Such folly can not be understood by the ordinary man. It is senseless to talk about "economy" in such a connection. Shameless waste has nothing to do with economy, and "shameless waste" is a wild phrase to use for the jeopardizing of the millions invested in the roads in the North.

Every newspaper in the North has protested against the ill-considered proposal. Last week The Cochrane Northland Post dealt with the question. The Post in an editorial article headed "Fatal Economy" says:—

"Following the announcement that the Ontario Government did not intend to do any work on the roads in the North this summer, a veritable storm of protest has arisen. If the Government persists in the matter, it will do so at its own risk and flying in the face of public opinion. Not everyone in the North uses the roads, but there are few indeed who do not realize how important the roads are. Any measure of reasonable economy on the part of the Government, though it may cause considerable hardship, will have the support of public opinion. But when it is proposed to let the roads go to rack and ruin, as they must surely do unless given adequate maintenance, economy is being taken beyond the point of reason. The Porcupine Advance sums the matter up very neatly and clearly in the following editorial which appeared in its columns last week."

(The Post then quotes in full an editorial in the previous week's Advance, and continues:—"Aside altogether from the harm which would result to the roads, and the resultant loss to the capital expenditures which have been made on them, there is another important angle to the question. If the Government fails to give adequate maintenance to the roads in the North, there can be but one result: the roads will in a short time become practically impassable. With the roads impassable or nearly so, few motorists will care to venture on them, the Government will suffer a direct loss of revenue in gasoline tax, and many motorists will leave their cars in and not take out licenses. There is no means of ascertaining the amount of gasoline tax collected in the North, but it must amount to quite a large sum. Distances are great and going is just a little bit harder, with the result that more gasoline is used. But with the roads in poor condition, the tendency on the part of the motorists will be to stay at home. The Northern motorists are discriminated against as it is, with having to pay the full price for licenses, though unable to use their cars for the full twelve months, except within town limits. If it is the intention of the government to neglect entirely northern roads this year, then this move should be accompanied by the removal of the gasoline tax in the North, and a rebate on the annual car licenses. If the Northern motorists pay the shot as usual, they are entitled to fair service."

SUB-ARCTIC GAME BIRDS NESTING AT IROQUOIS FALLS

According to word this week from Iroquois Falls, pin-tail grouse, which invaded the Falls district last autumn from sub-arctic lands are now nesting in the vicinity of Iroquois Falls, according to observations and reports by the Iroquois Falls and District Rod and Gun Club. Doubt was expressed last year when the birds first made their appearance whether they would show any inclination to settle and nest as far South.
