Two Deaths Result from Mine Accident

Robert Capps and E. Parent Lose Their Lives Through Mishap at the McIntyre Last Week. Three Others Escape Serious Injury

One of those unfortunate accidents that seem to occur despite the most careful thought and attention by mines and men occurred on Friday last about 8 a.m. at the McIntyre Mine. Five men were in the accident, two of them losing their lives as a result. The men had just come on shift and were working at an ore chute at the end of one of the stopes. The chute had been pulled the night before. It was examined before the men went to work and had below it the "crater" effect that usually signifies that the chute is working smoothly. The other indications, also seemed to suggest that all was well. However, later events seem to prove that there was a "hang-up" in the chute. When the men went to work Friday morning it is likely that their weight loosened the ore thus hung-up. In any event the rock fell dragging the five men in and partly burying them. R. Capps was smothered in the ore and was likely killed instantly. E. Parent, aged 28, single, and living in Schumacher was rescued after 8 hours of excavation. He was injured internally and died in the hospital on Monday morning. A. Blake was dug out of the ore in seven hours. He suffered from bruises and shock but was able to leave the hospital this week. J. Jackson was caught to about the knees. He was dug out in about an hour. He was able to go home himself little while for the terrible experience. G. Parkovich, the fifth man in the group, was only caught by the feet and was able to get out himself and give the alarm that set every man that could be used in the space to the work of rescuing the men caught in the fallen ore.

As in the case of all mining accidents where a death occurs, an inquest will be held. The inquest on the two men dying as a result of the accident will likely be held on Friday of this week at Schumacher with Coroner F. C. Evans presiding.

UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES WHAT ELSE COULD SHE SAY?

Husband—"Who is that man?"
Wife—"I don't know."
"But I heard you call him 'darling.'"
"I called him 'darling' because I do not know his name."—Il Travaso (Rome).

Winnipeg Tribune—Dr. Allen Sinclair Will Head of the Department of Journalism at Rutgers University, finds cause for congratulations in the English now being used in the newspapers of this continent.

"All but impeccable," is the way he expresses it. "The English used at the present time in the best newspapers," Dr. Will adds, "is not inferior to that which may be seen in current literature finding acceptance from a large body of discriminating readers. Newspapers do not use or wish to use Victorian English. Their preference is for the vigorous speech current among cultivated people."

Several Serious Cases at South Porcupine Court

South Porcupine, Ont., Sept. 13th, 1933. Special to The Advance.

Tuesday morning at police court was a prolonged one. Three drunks paid fines. Nick Parick was charged with being drunk while in charge of a motor vehicle. When pleading not guilty he was told the magistrate, "The Chief knows all about it." The chief was the next witness and it was fairly evident Nick was so drunk that he didn't know much about it himself. He got 10 days George Gozak, of Schumacher, was charged with assaulting a woman at a hotel there. He claimed he pushed her gently away from him, but as the doctor specified for the bruises from which she suffered the Magistrate decided Gozak was not such a gentle creature and prescribed three months of a taming process at Halesbury jail. Two reckless drivers paid $25.00 and costs. In one case the Magistrate utterly discredited what appeared to be a fixed story. A dispute over a boundary line in the neighbourhood of Hoyle had resulted in a charge of assault, but was dismissed, and a wages case was sent to Division Court as a contract.
