IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day. Without that bile, trouble starts. Poor digestion. Slow elimination. Poisons in the body. General wretchedness.

How can you expect to clear up a situation like this completely with mere bowel-moving salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They don't wake up your liver.

You need Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists. 54

TAMARACK COMING BACK TO KIRKLAND LAKE AREA

The "Roving Reporter," writing last week in The Northern News, says:—"Bushmen in the Kirkland Lake area and in other districts in the North say that the tamarack, one of the hottest-burning woods there is in the North, is coming back after being virtually wiped out by a plague many years ago. You can see a lot of these young tamarack trees here and there in the bush; and just at this time of the year the trees take on a slightly yellowish hue, a colouring that distingushes them from other species of pine and fir. Thirty years ago or more the tamarack was killed off by a parasite of some kind, and about all that remained of the parent trees at that time were bald poles, towering high above the neighbouring foliage."

10,000 GEESE IN ONE FLIGHT SEEN BY DEPUTY MINISTER

The Toronto Globe on Saturday last says:—"Tom Sutherland, Deputy Minister of Mines for Ontario, has just returned from a trip to the far North, where his special observations of the flights of birds revealed to him surprising plenitude of geese and wild ducks. In one flight of geese he thought there must have been 10,000 birds. And he claims to have witnessed a duck flight two miles in length by about a quarter of a mile in width. Mr. Sutherland went hunting one day for traces of some game birds he had stolen from him, and, seeing two suspicious looking characters on Shipsand Island he stalked them and found Coulter McLean and Thomas Bell, two of Toronto's Conservative members of the Legislature, on a hunting trip."

Advantages of Travel by Train over Motor Riding

In his column "Let me Tell You" in The New Liskeard Speaker last week Zalek Vertlieb continues his description of a trip south. In last week's article he touches on some of the advantages of travelling by train rather than by car, saying:—

"After leaving North Bay, it was too dark to see anything outside, and I had already seen everybody inside. I began thinking about railways and automobiles—how at one time there were no cars, and everyone and everything had to travel by railroad. Now-a-days, many have cars, and much hauling is done by trucks and large transports running day and night. But after all, trucks or buses cannot compete with the railways on long distance hauling. They might on short trips, but they could not do so on trans-Canada trips, or even a distance of five hundred miles. If the railways could arrange to run excursions, and try to lower short haulway freight, they would soon put the motor car out of business. But the railways have to keep gangs of men looking after the roadbed all the time, while the Government, or in other words, the taxpayer, repairs the roads for the big trucks. The railway is the safest thing to travel on in the world today, that is, comparing the number of fatal accidents in trains, cars and airplanes. When you travel in a train you don't have to worry about a flat tire, a bum spark plug, or a road hog travelling at sixty miles an hour, with one light, around a curve."

SHOT HIS NEIGHBOUR'S GEESE THINKING THEY WERE WILD

Last week everybody at Porquis Junction thought that even if winter had not actually arrived, at least the fall shooting season certainly had come. There was snow on the ground and ice was forming on lakes, river and ponds. Along with this there was the sight of the ducks and geese going south. One day last week seven or eight different flights of geese were noticed flying south over Porquis Junction. As usual in such flights some of the birds came down for a rest and settled on the ground for a longer or shorter time. Bob Montgomery was one of those who saw wild geese on the ground—or thought he did. He saw these wild geese (or at least he thought they were wild) feeding in one of the fields on his farm. He thought it would be too bad to let them get away with anything like that, so he got his gun and had a shot, or rather three shots, at those birds. He killed the three of them. Fred Rese, a neighbour, heard the shots and proceeded to investigate. He found that the geese were not wild but were simply the tame geese he himself (Rese) owned. When he discovered that the geese were his own, he objected to being questioned in the matter. However, he did think that he should be reimbursed for any trouble or cost occasioned. As a result Montgomery had to pay four dollars each for the geese shot.

Glad to Help Canada for Canada had Helped Him

(From The Calgary Albertan)

The following is from a report of the address by Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada, when he spoke at Caglary during his recent Western tour:—

"I am glad to see you," he commenced. "I confess at times I have been rather tired from the duties that have been mine and in times of work and worry my mind frequently goes back to my youth in Calgary. For I came here as a youth—a very thin and callow youth, I am afraid—36 years ago.

"The first rung of the ladder is always the most difficult," he continued, as he spoke of his early ambitions and aspirations, "and therefore my thoughts have often dwelt upon those who gave me that first assistance which enabled me to ascend to the first rung. It was 35 years ago that the people of Calgary gave me their confidence and elected me to the legislature.

"It was a strange little city in those days, with wooden sidewalks, muddy streets and beautiful women—as always—and there were a number of young men with much effrontery, plenty of hope and an abundance of confidence in themselves. I was one of them. Thirty-five years ago, I recall events of an election day upon which I did not expect that I would ever be standing here having seen so much of the world's events.

"We did not have very much politics in those days.

"I remember that the papers said a large and representative gathering of citizens had prevailed upon me to become a candidate in that election. As a matter of fact I decided I would like to be a candidate and the late Senator Lougheed thought it was good idea, so I became a candidate. Well, a great deal of water has flowed under the bridge since that day, and I am much older and many of you are no older. . . ." He was interrupted by general laughter, and when it has subsided, he continued:

"We have had our times of prosperity and depression. We have experienced the Great War with all its devastating effects. We have seen the collapse of empires and nations and markets. It was just my luck that I should fall heir to all this trouble.

"I came here with a few dollars, plenty of ambition and some books which were burned in a fire. I became Leader of opposition in 1927, and I must say that there is not much sympathy coming to me, because I went after trouble and got it.

"Many envy the Prime Minister of Canada. He raises his finger and it is done. He says to one 'Come' and he comes, and to another 'Go' and he goes—more particularly is the latter true—but the responsibilities of the office are great, and as it goes on day after day and month after month and year after year they become burdensome.

"But I do feel a measure of satisfaction combined with a sense of deep humility; I have experienced the tired mind and body with that satisfaction at being able to do something for a country which has done so much for me."

Canadian Gold May be Bought by U.S.A.

New Move of United States of Importance to Canada. United States May Bid for Gold Over the World. Some Puzzled over Policy.

Word from Washington on Sunday said that President Roosevelt had arranged to set up machinery for purchase by the Government of gold in foreign markets.

This action was taken at a conference with Government financial experts and was expected to result in immediate purchase of gold in other countries.

Important to Canada

The announcement was of first importance to Canada, because of her many gold mines and large production.

This is the second move of a new monetary programme outlined a week ago by the President. Foreign gold purchases will be made through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

At the conclusion of the conference, which lasted for almost three hours, the following statement was issued by Stephen Early, a secretary to the President.

Text of Statement

"At an informal meeting in the White House the following gentlemen conferred with the President: Dean Acheson, Under-Secretary of the Treasury; Eugene Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Board; Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the farm credit administration; George Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; Henry Bruere, of New York; J. E. Crane and Fred Kent, members of the New York Federal Reserve Bank; Professors George Warren and James H. Rogers.

"The subject under discussion was the immediate setting up of machinery under which the Government through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be enabled to buy gold in the foreign markets."

Side Issues Arising

The despatches from Washington indicate that many side issues are being brought into the discussion arising from the President's announcement of his new policy in regard to the purchase of gold.

In London, England, there seems to be equal interest and attention. Opinion in the business and financial sections of London seems to be along the line that there is a possibility that the Unted States may bid for gold in the world's market as it is now buying United States gold. In such an event the first offerings of gold, it is said at London, would come from Canada, for Canada needs dollars. Other centres, including London, Paris and South Africa, would be carried without selling gold for dollars so the reconstruction finance corporation would certainly have to buy elsewhere.

Such a move would directly influence foreign exchanges and have an indirect, if incalculable, effect on the internal price level in the United States.

Pointing out these possibilities the Economist, weekly financial journal, said that so long as the offical purchases are confined to gold of American origin it is not easy to see how they can affect the internal or external value of the dollar in any other way.

May Be Far-Reaching

If the action of the R.F.C. in forcing a continuous rise in the dollar price of gold is followed by a rise in the sterling price of gold, this would bring about a further depreciation of sterling against the gold franc. The ultimate consequence might conceivably be the break-up of the European gold bloc and general suspension of the gold standard.

All this is predicted upon the assumption the world will adopt a passive attitude towards the United States if and when she carries out this policy. It by no means follows, the Economist points out, that this will be the case. If it is so, fresh friction will arise.

Taken all in all, the consequences are vague and may be far-reaching. The city is by no means happy about the possibility of extension of the new American policy.

Situation in Regard to Russia

Very special connection is made in the general discussions of the new gold policy between the working of the plan and the proposed resumption of approval trade with Soviet Russia. Despatches from Washington, touching on this phase of the matter, say that diplomatic circles, as much puzzled as foreign exchanges by the Roosevelt gold policy, are buzzing with speculation over whether Russian gold will figure in the forthcoming Roosevelt-Litvinoff conversations.

The Soviet gold production is reported to be large, though the Moscow Government has not divulged the figures recently. The Lena river district, where former President Hoover once had holdings, and other Siberian fields have been modernized. They are believed to be producing far in excess of the pre-war output.

Soviet Gold Output

Recent unofficial estimates place Russia's annual gold output at $40,000,000, as compared with a 1913 rate of $26,507,000, and a United States production level of around $50,000,000.

These considerations, coupled with a desire on both sides to expand Russia-American trade, are prompting the diplomatic discussions. Certain factors are emphasized:

Russia is reported ready to place orders in the United States for $500,000,000 worth of commodities and machinery if normal relations are established and credits arranged.

Payments can be made only in Russian products, including gold and service. Credits might be influenced by exact Russian gold statistics.

Market in U.S.

Manganese ore and wood products have a ready market in the United States, but domestic producers strongly oppose their admission and have sought complete embargoes, charging production by forced labour.

Any trade relations will be influenced to a greater or less degree by the new Roosevelt policy of fixing prices on newly mined American gold.

Consequently, the diplomats are saying, gold may intrude itself when Presiden Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian commissar of foreign affairs, sit down together.

UNANSWERABLE ARGUMENT AGAINST TRAIN SERVICE

For criticism of the roads and an unanswerable argument against a three-day service on the railroad a paragraph from the Goldthorpe correspondent of The New Liskeard Speaker takes the bun, the cake, the whole meal indeed. This paragraph from Goldthorpe last week reads as follows:—

"We are sorry to report that all construcion work on our roads is shut down. Thousands of men working on other roads, but none on ours. There is one mile with no gravel or rock on it—beautiful black muck—make a fine garden, but as a road it is no good, and impassable. Citizens of this burg are tied up. We cannot take the train, as it only runs down one day and back the next, and nobody around here has enough money to stay away over night. What are we to do?"

Toronto Telegram:—It seems too bad that strikes should tie up furniture production in Ontario at a time when Cuba needs so much to replace tables and chairs destroyed in her revolutions.

ARM IN SLING WITH NEURITIS

A "token of gratification" this woman says she is giving when she writes of her relief from neuritis:—

"For twelve months I have had neuritis in my arm, and up till the last two weeks have had to carry it in a sling. Since then I have abandoned my sling, am able to sleep undisturbed, and can perform household duties that previously I would not have done. These benefits I have received from Kruschen Salts. This has all happened in two weeks, and I am optimistic enough to think that in another fortnight I shall have said good-bye to neuritis once and for all. Call this a testimonial if you choose—to me it is a token of gratification."—(Mrs.) N. E. L.

Neuritis is a result of impurities in the blood. And it is impure blood, circulating all over the system and setting up inflammation in the tissues that causes those excruciating pains. Kruschen Salts can be safely trusted to set the matter right. Because Kruschen contains just what Nature needs to persuade your internal organs back into a healthy, normal condition.
