Permits Needed for Electrical Wiring

Disregard of Regulations Proves Costly. Other Cases at Police Court Here This Week. Some Liquor Cases.

B. S. McDevitt, Hydro-Electric Inspector for this district, had A. B. Elles in police court this week on a charge of making or having made electric installation on a display fixture without securing the necessary permit. A fine of $10.00 and costs was imposed by the magistrate. It would be well for all others to note that no electrical wiring of this sort is permitted without a permit first being secured from the inspector. This regulation is in force for the general safety and protection of the public. Merchants and others concerned should make a note of this case and secure the necessary permit before having any wiring done. This latter plan would prove the safest and the cheapest by long odds.

There were not as many cases as usual actively before the court, a number of remands being on the docket. Last week the charges against Jos. Cocchini and Russell Hecky under the Liquor Control Act were remanded to March 6th, on account of the expected absence of counsel, A. C. Brown, who was called to Toronto. These cases will come up next week.

The case of John P. Boissennault is also remanded to next week. A remand to next week was made in an assault case that had been remanded from last week, one of the parties not being ready to proceed.

The charge of obtaining cash by fraud as preferred against Leo Cousineau some weeks ago was withdrawn in the meantime.

A charge of reckless driving cost a South Porcupine man $10.00 and costs. A man charged with speeding paid a similar amount.

Twin visits paid to 97 Rae street by the town police resulted in two cases at court. As the result of one visit Victor Riell was charged with having violated liquor laws, and he will spend the next three months at Haliburton. The next day the police visited the same Rae street address and as a result Donald Talbot on the same charge was given the same sentence.

Three ordinary unadorned drunks were fined $10.00 and costs or thirty days. One of them preferred the time. Two not so common drunks were also in court. They were being a good time, but somewhat noisy when the police haled them up on street as they were having a private fight with each other. Unfortunately one of them was carrying a bottle with him and he was assessed $10.00 and costs on Tuesday. The other was fined the usual $10.00 and costs.

Audrey Beauchamp the young man who took a fur coat, fur cap, suit of clothes, etc. from a room in a Balsam street house last week and who was traced and caught with the goods by Constables Paul and Gilligan, faced a light charge at court on Tuesday. He was sent to Haliburton for two months.

The owner of some illicit liquor charged under the Excise Act by Constable Allen, R.C.M.P., was remanded for a week.

A remand was granted for a week in the case of a man on Sixth avenue charged with having liquor in other than his private residence.

There were three charges preferred by Chief Rich against local people under the gaming laws section of the code, the charge arising from having electrical crane machines on their premises and allowing them to be operated. Chief Rich holds these electrical crane machines are gambling devices, while these keeping them contend that operating these machines is simply a game in which skill is the determining factor. The cases were remanded for a week.

Mr. L. Reid, of Hagersville, was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Leng over the week-end, having been called to the hospital at South Porcupine where his brother, A. Reid, was seriously ill.

Mrs. W. K. Wylie spent Sunday visiting her parents at Brantford.

The marriage of Rene Proulx, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Proulx, 109 Fourth Avenue, to Miss Stella Pion, R.N., of Englehart, took place on Saturday afternoon at Englehart, Father Laforest officiating at the ceremony. The bride wore a becoming gown of monet blue crepe made on long lines with rose velvet trimmings, blue velvet turban, shoes, hose and gloves to match. Mr. and Mrs. Proulx will reside in Schumacher. The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's hospital in Timmins.

A delightful miscellaneous shower was given on Saturday evening by Mrs. Mervin Corrigan in honour of Mrs. Clement Corrigan, formerly Miss D. Flynn. The living room was prettily decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells, and with a pink and white decorated umbrella, with streamers attached to the numerous gifts. The bride made fitting reply. Mrs. Corrigan served a dainty lunch to the guests.

Miss Elsie Corrigan, of Rouyn, was a visitor to town last week.

Born—Tuesday, February, 27th, 1934, to Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Cameron, 128 Second Avenue. —a daughter.

Renfrew Mercury:—Down in Susquehanna, Pennsylvania, a newspaper publisher and 500 other ratepayers are refusing to pay water rates. The newspaper publisher is permitting his paper to be put up for sale rather than pay a private company $21.70 for water rates for the year. Aren't we all funny people? Rates higher than these are charged by the public ownership plan and we pay them, always kidding ourselves with the belief that a private company of responsible citizens owning the water power would charge more.

Former Police Ask For Square Deal

(Continued from Page One) department. He wanted to know when such an investigation had been made. He wanted Mr. Channen, the assessor, questioned as to the matter.

Mr. Channen coming to the front, Councillor Bartleman asked the mayor to question him, but Mayor Richardson refused to do so, calling instead on Councillor Chateauvert to explain the situation. Councillor Chateauvert said the council as a whole had made the investigation and decided to replace Mr. Channen. Councillor Bartleman said this was simply an effort to sidetrack the question. Mayor Richardson asked Mr. Channen in regard to his letter of resignation. Mr. Channen said he had written it at Mr. Chateauvert's suggestion and he understood he would be transferred to another department. Councillor Chateauvert said that he had agreed to try and have Mr. Channen transferred to another position and he had a resolution to that effect written out and ready to present to council later. He could not, of course, give Mr. Channen a direct promise that he would be transferred, but he had acted in good faith and was still ready to help make the transfer. He had talked over the matter with Mr. Channen, reference being made to his health, and also to the fact that the council felt he was not filling the position properly.

Councillor Bartleman thought Mr. Chateauvert's statement of the case much different to Mr. Channen's. Mr. Channen had not resigned but asked for a transfer. There had not been an investigation.

Councillor Laprairie:—“Why didn't you make an investigation?”

Councillor Bartleman:—“I'd have to do it alone.”

Councillor Laprairie:—“Did you know that the assessment is $400,000.00 short of the previous year, although there have been nearly $250,000.00 of new construction, and that buildings in the main section of the town are $50,000.00 short on their assessment for this year?”

Mayor Richardson referred to the purchase of oil for the streets for the coming summer. There was a probability of the price going up later. Town Engineer MacLean explained the testing of samples last year, the oil from the Imperial Oil Co. being found to be the best. Councillor Maltais said last year's oil was satisfactory and the price was right. Councillor Bartleman thought the various companies should be asked for prices.

A motion was presented by Councillors Chateauvert and Paquette to transfer H. B. Channen, former assessor, to the place left vacant by the transfer of A. Shaw to the assessment department. The motion was lost on the vote.

The case of the lady needing an operation on her hip was turned over to the chairman of the relief committee, Councillor Paquette. Councillor Maltais had secured a report on the case from one doctor. Mayor Richardson said another doctor had reported this patient as unwell while in the hospital before.

It was decided to use a ledger system in place of a card system for relief data, the ledger plan being considered the best for permanent record.

Councillor Belec brought up the matter of the dismissal of the five members of the police force and asked why they had been discharged. He pointed out that it was understood that there was to be a new deal and all were to have a fair chance. “We are here to give fair play,” said Councillor Belec, who added that he did not think it should be a one-man council.

Chief Rich was called forward and said that he had been given the right to root out all who did not fit into his plans for a re-organized force. He had intended to keep on all the old men. “I did not act in a hurry,” he said, “because I have been trained to take time to weigh all considerations.” He referred to his plan of getting the resignations of all the men. He had explained to them that they would carry on if loyal. He ignored the stories he heard and investigated cases for himself and found in some cases his confidence had been betrayed. He was not finding fault with the morals or character of the men, but they did not fit in to his plans. “Morals and character are not all that is required for a police officer,” he said. Some just put on a uniform and walked around the block and thought that was being a policeman, he said. He did not think they fitted in.

Sergeant Moore said that he felt that they were entitled to know where or how they had failed. They had played fair and done their work.

Sergeant Craik resented the chief's reference to putting on a uniform and walking around the block. “Sergeant Moore and I have been doing all the chief's work for the past three weeks,” he said, “making out warrants, summonses, etc. as he did not understand the work.”

Constable Gauthier said he had had three years' experience on the force and liked the work. They had all been anxious to co-operate with the new chief and they all worked hard. “They say I am a lates man,” said Constable Gauthier, “but I would ask you to look up the record. I am the only man to arrest a woman for soliciting on street in Timmins, and I have arrested more women than any other constable.” He thought the police were entitled to fair play, as they had put confidence in the chief.

Constable Lavolette said they had tried to do their duty, and he instanced the case of a recent Sunday when he had carried on alone for six hours.

Sergeant Craik said that on the appointment of the new chief and after the conference with him, the men had redoubled their efforts and he felt they were entitled to know in what way it was considered they did not “fit in.”
