Weekly Scotsman Gives More News than Headlines

Were newspapers of the early 19th century generally minute, or did the Scots practise thrift in the matter of newsprint? People wondered when they saw a copy of the Scots' Courant, dated May 9 to 11, 1711, which was recently presented to the New Brunswick Museum. Printed on both sides in two columns the single sheet edition measures five inches by ten. But Scotland has more to say now- Procopio, Kenneth Thomas. adays and more room in which to say it. The Weekly Scotsman, published in Edinburgh, is a fine big newspaper both for news and for covering shelves.

Asks Northern Members to Co-operate for the North

In an editorial discussing the report that Hon. Peter Heenan would be selected as the new Minister of Lands and Forests and Minister of Mines in the new Hepburn cabinet, The Northern Tribune says, in part:-

"Mr. Heenan, as a trade unionist and ex-minister of labour, has learned the importance of "the common touch" and undoubtedly will be at pains to further cultivate the goodwill of those who are the builders of the North. Therefore we believe his choice will be well received throughout the North. Beyond a doubt one of his first acts will be to review the whole trans-Canada highway proposition. He will discover that the Kenora, Lakehead and Soo districts have all obtained heavy public expenditures for national highway work within the past two years, while this section has only been jollied along and then bluffed with a poor sort of compromise, and no actual work done on it at all. We have four members to join in asking a better deal than that from Mr. Hepburn. A fifth Northern member, Mr. Lapierre of Sudbury, might be won over from a comparatively neutral position on the highway routing if he were convinced that Sudbury would stand to gain far more in the long run from getting a umn cuts (nicely printed so that you | main road built not only to Timmins can tell who the people are in them) but on to Smooth Rock Falls, there and so that they can be centred in to feed into the national highway for the page, type is laid in seven columns a shorter, safer and cheaper transcontinent routing.
