Sudbury Man to Succeed Col. Cole in Regiment

The Sudbury Star last week had the following reference to impending changes in the Algonquin Regiment, of which Col. Geo. Cole, formerly of Timmins, is the Officer Commanding:—

"Major Frank Rothery, M.M., E.D., of Sudbury, is slated to be raised to the rank of Lieut.-Colonel in command of the Algonquin Regiment, 22nd Infantry Brigade, it was learned here today. He will succeed Lieut.-Colonel George E. Cole, D.S.O., who has commanded the Algonquins for the past three years and who will retire shortly. Major Rothery is Sudbury's sanitary inspector.

"The Algonquin Regiment is Northern Ontario's own unit, with companies in Sudbury, Timmins and points along the T. & N. O. Railway. Largely due to Major Rothery's initiative, 'A' Company, Sudbury, has been the most active, and aside from Major Rothery's outstanding qualifications for the post of commanding officer, his appointment will be also a tribute to the Sudbury militia unit. He has been second in command for three years.

"Colonel Cole stopped off in Sudbury from Friday morning until Sunday on regimental business, while returning to Winnipeg; from brigade training camp at Owen Sound. Formerly a prominent mining man in Northern Ontario, Colonel Cole is now chief mining inspector for Manitoba, and found his western duties interfered with the efficient conduct of an Ontario militia unit.

"The Algonquin regiment did very well in the training camp, Major Rothery reports. It is not yet known whether or not they won the brigade cup as the results of various competitions have not yet been decided. 'A' company, from Sudbury, won the regimental attendance cup and the company efficiency cup. These trophies will be presented to the company offi-

BURIED AT ENGLEHART ON TUESDAY OF LAST WEEK

The Englehart correspondent of The New Liskeard Speaker last week had the following:—

"The remains of Walter Joseph Brand of Timmins arrived on the evening train on Monday for interment here. Deceased was a former Marter township boy having gone to Timmins some four or five years ago. He was employed underground at the Hollinger Mine there. His mother and two brothers are also of the immediate family left to mourn his passing. Mr. Wm. Brand (his father) was interred in Englehart cemetery in 1926 and Walter was laid alongside him on Tuesday afternoon. Services were held in the United Church here, Rev. Mr. Cox officiating. The six pallbearers were all former friends from Marter township. The sympathy of all goes out to the mother and family."

Dionne Quintuplets to Live in Some Style

Only Children to be in House Being Built by Red Cross. Maid, Male Orderly, Caretaker, Nurses to be on Staff.

Contractor Dan Barker, of North Bay, was given instructions last week to have the new home for the Dionne quintuplets ready by Sept. 1st. The instructions came from W. H. Alderson, one of the executive of the Red Cross.

Excavation is now nearly complete, but Mr. Barker says that the work will have to be rushed to have everything in readiness in the short time specified.

According to despatches from North Bay the quintuplets are to live in style. Not only are they to have a house to themselves, but they are also to have a regular staff to wait on them.

Plans call for a spacious front verandah, but the front door will not be in use. Entrance will be made, in all cases, through a side door, which opens into the office. The entire front portion will be used as a ward for the five famed daughters.

There will be an office, three bedrooms with clothes closets, a bathroom, linen closet, large pantry, storeroom and kitchen, all on one floor.

A short distance from the building a well will be dug and through a force pump water will be supplied to the house. There will be hot water heating, and all modern plumbing conveniences.

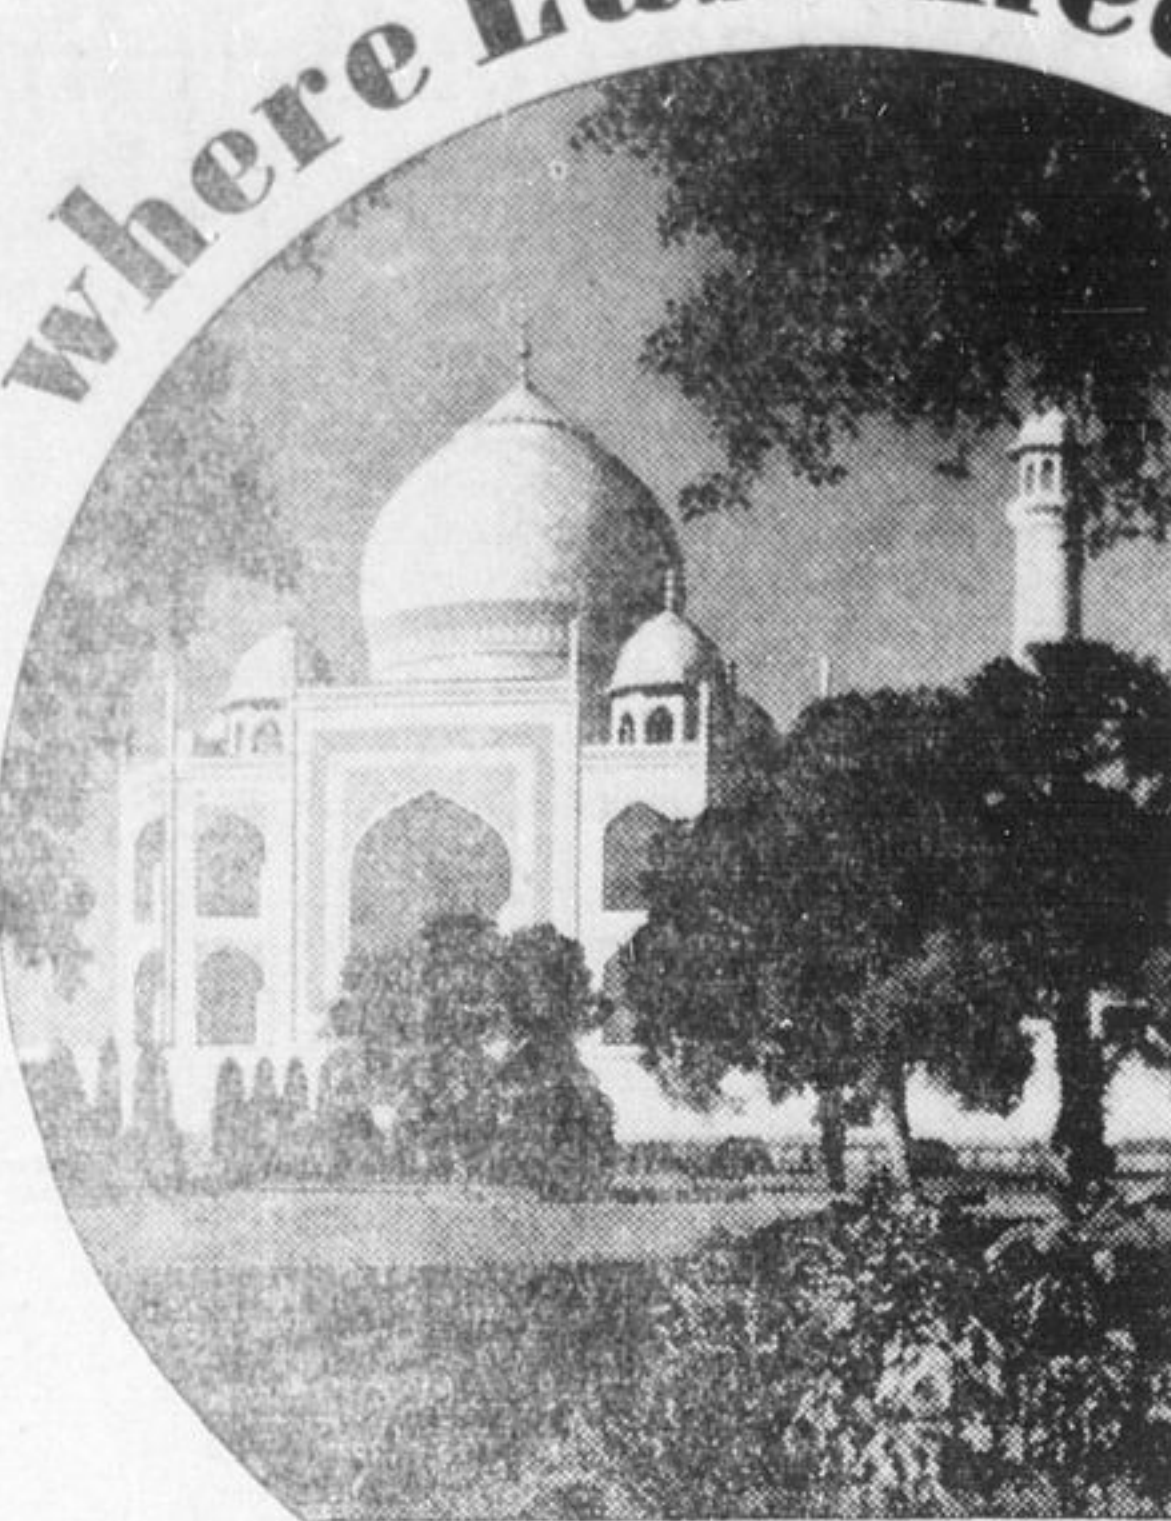

Mr. Alderson has hopes of persuading the Hydro to put a line out to the new home to supply light and power, but failing this a lighting system will be installed on the premises.

It is understood that the family other than the babes will not be allowed to live in the new house. It will be used by the staff in charge of the infants. Besides the maid and a male orderly, a caretaker will be added to the staff. The nurses will live in the new dwelling, their present quarters being dis-banded.

Blairmore Enterprise:—An exchange remark: If the Doukhobors are to be dis-franchised for not wearing clothes, it is only fair that a lot of young ladies on the beaches should be permitted to vote only once every four elections.

where East meets West!

The peoples of near lands and far lands foregather in friendly rivalry... in commerce and in sport, in the arts, the sciences, music and industry... at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Merchants are attracted from the bazaars and market places of distant Calcutta... from the potteries of Stoke-on-Trent... from the plantations of Ceylon and Sierra Leone. In an atmosphere of carnival gaiety and romance the enterprising strangers from abroad transact business and join their Canadian brethren in whole-hearted appreciation of the world's largest annual Exhibition.

From over the seven seas, from the Antipodes and the United States come athletes who strive mightily with Canada's best for world championships on land and water.

East meets west on common ground at the "Show Window of the Nations" where Toronto once again becomes "a place of meeting". This is the big year at your Exhibition.

What You Should Know About Houses

A Weekly Feature Service Supplied to The Advance by Home Builders' Service Bureau, 177 Jarvis Street, Toronto 2

The following is another of the series of articles on homes and home building supplied for readers of The Advance by the Home Builders' Service Bureau:—

ROOFING

There are two important divisions of roofing materials, i.e. inflammable and fire-resisting. Fire-resisting roofing materials are sometimes used for the frame house, but not consistently.

If the fire hazard is a matter of real concern, there are many types of composition shingles such as asbestos, asphalt, etc., light enough in weight to conform with light frame construction and where the side walls are sheathed with clapboard or shingles.

Decorative Effects with Shingles

The leading types of asphalt shingles now on the market have permanent and quite beautifully blended colours that will not fade and are weather-proof as well as fire resisting, and, if properly selected, bring beauty and individuality to the home.

When a shingle is compounded of asbestos and other materials, it should be of such character that it will have not only colour but texture as well. This requirement has been well met by various makes of composite shingles in which colour, texture and form have been skillfully combined.

Asbestos roofing felts are made by cementing together asbestos fibres with high melting point asphalt. Such felts do not have the tensile strength of asphalt rag felts, but neither do they deteriorate to any extent from exposure to elements.

PLUMBING

In justice to the beauty and value of the completed home, the home builder will find it well worth his time to study carefully the wide variety of durable and attractive plumbing fixtures that are being displayed on showroom floors and in catalogues.

Upon the adequacy of plumbing conveniences depends largely the satisfaction and pride of the owner, and a little foresight in the anticipation of likely future requirements is among the wisest of investments.

Plumbing Puts Personality in the Home

Upon the quality and arrangements of plumbing conveniences depends much of the personality of the home. No longer is the bathroom regarded as a necessary evil to be located in an inconspicuous corner with the least possible expense and attention. It has taken its place among the most important rooms of the home and manufacturers have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars developing handsomely designed fixtures in white and a wide variety of colour tones.

The artist and interior decorator have invaded the bathroom. Therefore, the possibilities in effect and efficiency justify some thought, because the bathroom, unlike a heating plant, is a personal service.

Added Facilities Pay Dividends

For many years, except in very large homes, one bathroom was considered sufficient. Fortunately, that period, with its inconveniences and irritations, has passed and to-day families in moderately priced homes demand the services that were formerly beyond their reach.

Where two or three bathrooms are required, it is possible and generally advisable to select two or three different grades of fixtures. For the main or "master" bathroom, a vitreous china pedestal lavatory is popular, harmonizing in colour with a built-in type bath and a quietly operating toilet, of which there are some styles available in Canada. And, of course, no bathroom is considered complete to-day without a shower. This may be installed separately in a glass cabinet, subject to floor space, or in connection with the bath, with a curtain either plain or in colour to harmonize with the individual colour scheme.

For the second bathroom the fixtures need not be so elaborate. A lower priced type of pedestal lavatory of a conventional wall type would prove satisfactory, as would also a cast iron enameled bath, of which there are several attractive models on the market.

It will invariably be found that a toilet located in the basement, at a surprisingly low additional cost, is one of the most appreciated conveniences in the home.

Some Thoughts on Bathroom Furnishings

Among insurance statistics the bath is rated as an important cause of accidents through slipping. That is why one Canadian manufacturer of bathroom fixtures has introduced a splendid-looking built-in model with handles—placed conveniently on either side in little recesses which can be used as soap trays.

That's a thought worth remembering—and then there is the selection of colour and the harmony with the floor and wall tile. There are many types of tile from which to choose, including the beautiful ceramic and various water-proof compositions.

The advantages of brass and copper pipe for water services, particularly where they are laid beneath tiled flooring, should be considered. True, there is an additional cost, but the comparative permanence of brass and copper pipe more than compensate for that.

For the shower there is a choice of control and mixing valves. A few years ago the intrepid bather "a la shower" took his chances with a freezing blast of cold water or with scalding steam. Today he can temper the water in safety and enjoy the exhilaration of one of the finest of plumbing conveniences.

A shut-off valve installed in the supply line to each fixture in the bathroom is a wise and inexpensive precaution. It permits the periodic renewal of washers and other minor repairs without having to shut off the main house supply.

Be Advised by Specialists

Your architect and plumbing contractor are familiar with the latest improvements in plumbing fixtures, materials and methods of installation. Consult them freely and be influenced by their advice, subject to your own desires, since very often the satisfaction of the family with the completed home will be affected by the presence or absence of the smallest conveniences.

SAYS THAT LESS THAN THREE PER CENT. CREDIT IS BAD

Likely some business men in Timmins will be anxious to know how Harry Davis, of Kirkland Lake, works the credit business, so that he can claim it gives him no worry whatever.

According to an interview by The Northern News last week Mr. Davis has a large amount of credit on the books of his firm, but it does not cause him any anxiety. He asserts that he is perfectly satisfied with the present situation and does not consider that he is being imposed on by the citizens. "I regard them as my friends," he said, "and feel that, in extending credit to them when needed, they will treat me fairly in return." It would appear that his faith is justified, as, according to his estimate, less than three per cent. of his credit customers fail to live up to their obligations and make it necessary for legal pressure to be applied to force payment.

Almonte Gazette:—If Ontario publishers have to do without revenue from liquor advertising why don't the temperance forces make it up to them by running a series of advertisements advocating temperance principles? Why should the publishers be the only ones asked to make this sacrifice, especially when they don't believe that it is justified?

Sinks have taken on new forms and colours. The cast iron enameled sink has made its appearance in attractive green and other shades. From the great nickel mines at Sudbury has come the Canadian metal for the monel sink, featuring permanent attractiveness and beauty of design that explain their wide popularity.

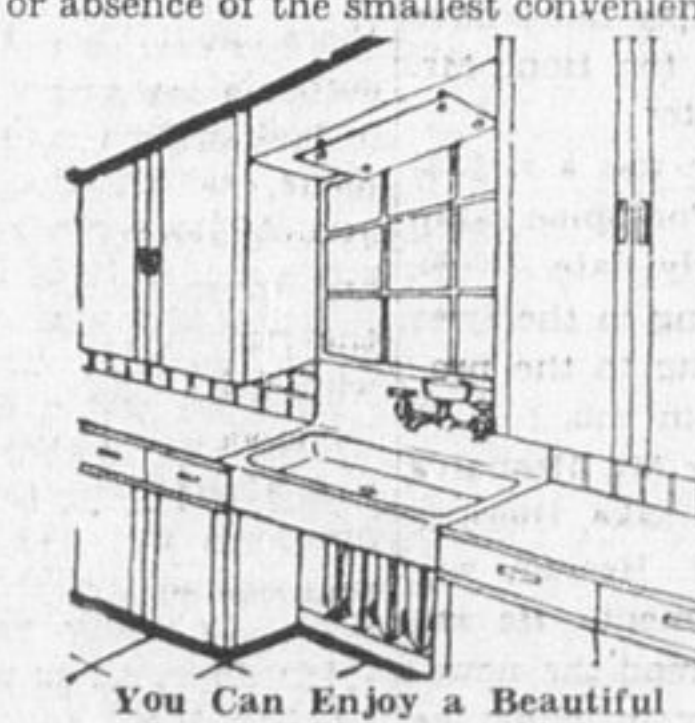

Another new sink bids fair to become a favourite. Made from a single piece of steel, it is triply coated with a highly durable and resistant enamel. Of great structural strength, its comparatively light weight simplifies installation and, another nice feature, the grooves on the drain boards are placed just close enough together to eliminate the danger of fragile glassware falling between them.

Why the Cook Has No Appetite

Generally, the person who prepares the meal is the least likely to enjoy eating it.

And all because she—and often the entire house—has been saturated beforehand with the fumes from the cooking.

That needn't be tolerated any longer. There are compact little electric fans that can be placed in an outside wall near the stove. When not in operation, they are completely enclosed inside and out by metal doors but, when a conveniently placed handle is pulled, these doors open and the fan automatically carries out all cooking odors. During summer months, too, the fan draws off excessive heat and simplifies the problem of summer meals.

The kitchen, the "workshop of the home," has not been overlooked in the field of new and improved appliances and fixtures.

Swing-spout faucets, with and without shower attachments, are practically standard equipment in the modern
