

Enquiry Seems to be Near to Completion

Not Likely any More Evidence on Stand at T. & N. O. Enquiry. Enquiry to be Resumed End of This Week.

In addition to the sessions covered elsewhere in this issue in regard to the enquiry into T. & N. O. affairs as being conducted by Commissioner Armand Racine for the new Government...

Commissioner Racine announced that his auditors would examine the contract with H. P. McLean Co. Ltd. under which a considerable part of the extension to Moosonee was constructed.

Chief Engineer S. B. Clements was instructed to report on the possibility of the use of a gas-electric car at intervals on the James Bay route from Fraserdale to Moosonee.

stated that the Hudson's Bay Company had contemplated abandonment of the boat service to Charlton Island, which would mean an additional tonnage of freight for the railway...

Unfavourable weather prevented the commissioner conducting an aerial survey of the country north of Cochrane as he had intended to do during the week-end...

It looks as if the enquiry were nearing its close. In any case it is said that there is not likely to be much further evidence on the stand.

Sale of lots at the Moosonee townsite, conducted by A. Burville Odium, assistant secretary-treasurer of the T. & N. O. has yet to be dealt with by the commissioner.

Number of office and operating employees of the railway will also be investigated with a view to reduction, Commissioner Racine is quoted as saying.

Skeet SHOOTING 1. WHAT IT IS THERE is only one essential difference between Skeet shooting and real bird shooting: Skeet birds have no feathers. Otherwise, they provide the same thrills and exhilarations, their flight is swift, varied and unexpected—in other words, true to nature conditions. As a matter of fact, Skeet is a modern development of the old trap-shooting game, but what an improvement! There is no limit to the variety of shots offered, for the angle at which the target is thrown, and the speed at which it travels, may both be altered to suit the shooters who are waiting to blaze away at them. Straightaways, slowly climbing up for the novices, can be changed in a moment into whizzing "outdrops" that dive and duck and would tax the skill of the most experienced hunter. "Incomers" may be sent to the guns that rival the speed of the teal duck in full flight. Skeet—it is an old Scandinavian word meaning "shoot"—instantly appeals to everyone, as it is generally conceded to be by far the nearest to field conditions of any form of clay-bird shooting. Men and women who never go into the field play it regularly and find it a game entirely sufficient unto itself. Experienced upland shooters, died-in-the-wool straight trap shooters, novices of all degrees, young and old, flock to the semi-lunar stances to show their skill. Besides, it is invaluable from the point of view both of novices and old hands. It is a safe and effective way to train youngsters to shoot straight, and it keeps the hands and eyes of older sportsmen in training during the off-seasons. For Skeet is essentially a year-round sport. Once shot, Skeet is always followed through. It has been called "a high exasperating form of clay-bird shooting." The truth is, it is one of those games that is not only somewhat exasperating, but also arouses a determination in all who play it to conquer it and learn to shoot it well. Psychologists tell us that there is no sport in the world quite as valuable as good shooting. It is not without significance that the term "straight-shooter" has come to mean a man who can be trusted in all things. Anyone can shoot Skeet, but, of course, weeks and months of regular shooting must be done before anyone can shoot Skeet well. Luckily, the expense of equipping a field—a couple of vacant lots will provide ample room—is very low, and any gun, the favourite gun, will do. Indeed, there is a necessity for accurate pointing in Skeet, and any gun that the sportsman shoots well in this game will certainly provide ideal for any form of upland game shooting. It has been said, "The gun proven right for Skeet is the ideal field gun—but Skeet is the test." Skeet is becoming extremely popular in Canada. It has already made its mark in the United States, where there are today something like six hundred organized clubs, not to mention many traps installed on private estates. Business men find in it a sure tonic for roughened nerves, and many for whom golf has no particular appeal are proving fanatical over Skeet. Indeed, it is an ideal game for the whole family. This is No. 1 of a series of 14 articles on Skeet Shooting. Cut it out. When all have been clipped, you will have a complete write-up of this sportsman's sport which is rapidly becoming the vogue across Canada.
