The Canadian Legion in the Porcupine

By One Interested in their Welfare

Helping Along

In a recent review in this column reference was made to the fact that the Canadian Legion was going to try for more employment for the returned soldiers. They are also seeking some way of providing work or a measure of relief for the "unemployables," as they are termed. Progress has been made in the matter of placing more of the unemployed returned soldiers at work. The following clipping from The Legionary gives the full details:—"At a conference held last month between the Hon. H. A. Stewart, K.C., Minister of Public Works, and officials of Dominion Headquarters, the Legion was informed that the following clause will be inserted in all contracts entered into by the Dominion Government for the purpose of carrying out the new public works scheme, approved at the recent session at parliament:—"In the execution of the work to be performed, the contractor shall employ reasonable quotas of returned soldiers and local workmen where such are available and competent." It will be remembered that, among many other proposals designed to improve the position of unemployed ex-service men, a recommendation along these lines was unanimously adopted at the Dominion Convention in Ottawa. Since that time, the Dominion president has on repeated occasions advanced the present proposal to the Federal Government. That the Legion's recommendations were effectively presented is clearly demonstrated by the information now received from the Minister of Public Works. In a circular to the Provincial Commands, J. R. Bowler, General Secretary of the Canadian Legion, points out that the special clause quoted above will be inserted, not only in the great construction development commonly known as the "Forty Million Dollar Scheme" but also in all other contracts of a similar nature entered into by the Department of Public Works."

The Vimy Pilgrimage

In a recent issue of The Advance, under this heading reference was made to the Vimy Pilgrimage. The event will be held, it is anticipated, on July 1st, 1936. Those who contemplate taking in this trip, to renew the scenes of 23 years ago, are reminded to save their nickels and dimes. The Canadian Legion is to have sole charge of the Pilgrimage and a strong committee is at present being organized. The first to be appointed was Comrade Ben Allen, of Ottawa, as organizing secretary. His task is no easy job, but he is one who can be relied upon to do the vast amount of work, proof of which is found in his record as an officer of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Legion. In a recent letter to your correspondent, Comrade Ben Allen says in part:—"We are waiting for the most favourable terms from transportation companies and the moment that is accepted, printed matter will be sent to all interested, outlining the whole scheme. I note the good work you are doing in the paper at Timmins and agree that your column helps a lot in keeping the troops informed." Thanks for the bouquet, Ben.

We Start Winter Term

"Oh to be happy now spring is here," takes on a different form as far as the Legion members go. "It's mighty glad we are that winter is here." Yes, we open again on Monday, September 10th with a rip-roaring smoking concert, at the Oddfellows' hall. The entertainment committee are busy now securing talent and it is expected that this grand opening will be a big affair. In any event after such a long rest during the summer months all should feel in the pink of condition, and able to sing their heads off. A rumor circulated last week, stated that several of those at the Re-Union would be on hand to relate their vivid experiences. It is to be hoped that those who stole Jimmie's beverage, and hung his pyjamas on the door, don't let this out. In any case as a suggestion this feature would make a big hit and cause quite a lot of merriment. All members are therefore reminded to be on hand, Monday, September 10th, at the Oddfellows' hall. On Sept. 17th the first general meeting of the Timmins branch of the Canadian Legion will be held. This will be a meeting long to be remembered. There is said to be over 28 applications for membership. The work of the executive committee during the summer months will be reviewed. President Austin Neame will in all probability give a short account of the Provincial Convention. The progress made for the branch club house by the committee in charge will all make for a successful meeting. After the meeting refreshments will be served and a short social period. As a reminder, to its members it has been urged upon all to make a very special effort to attend this opening meeting.

Club Rooms Popular

The temporary club rooms at the corner of First and Balsam street is becoming a popular rendezvous of the Legion members. On Saturday last permission was received from the government to sell beverages on the premises and this of course is an added attraction. During the past week members have made much use of the club, which is very gratifying to the officers, the response proving that life returned soldiers of the camp desire a building for its members and for other social activities. In this regard it is hoped that the building committee will see to it that adequate space is obtained,—a hall, card room, billiard room, kitchen, refreshment rooms, etc. The hall should if possible be the full size of the property. There is of course the question of finances to carry all this through. Plans at present in course of tendering call for various styles of buildings, but the committee should if at all possible erect a building a credit to the Canadian Legion and the Porcupine Camp. In any event the tenders call for the building to be completed by Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, 1934. Jules Ferry, president of the Provincial Command has signified his intention of being present at the opening. With increased patronage of the temporary club quarters by the members, all can be assured that the new premises will be erected to suit the desires of the Legion members.

Planning Clean Coal for the Canadian Consumer

On September 13th to 15th the mining men of Western Canada, along with a number of those from the east, will gather in Calgary for the Annual Western Meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining & Metallurgy. As coal is the principal mineral resource of Alberta, and as the mining men of Alberta are mostly interested in coal, along with many from Saskatchewan and British Columbia, the programme of this meeting is concerned largely with coal.

During recent years several public authorities, notably the Dominion Fuel Board, have attempted to inform the public about the differences in coal, and how they can get the most for their money when buying coal. One of the principal means of preparing good coal is to clean it at the mine by one or more of the various methods available. A discussion of this problem at the Calgary meeting will be introduced by a paper, "Notes on Coal Cleaning," by Harry Wilton-Clark, engineer for one of the mines in the famous Crow's Nest Pass coalfield.

This paper is published in the September Bulletin of the Canadian Institute of Mining & Metallurgy, where it is made conveniently available both to those interested in the Calgary meeting and to those concerned with the technical problems of the world's most important mineral—coal.

Kapuskasing Farm Weekly News Letter

Letter No. 40 Deals with Topics, "Seed the Stump Land for Good Pasture" and "When to Cut Alaska."

The following is No. 40 of the weekly letters from the Dominion Experimental Farm at Kapuskasing:—

Seed the Stump Land for Good Pasture

The seeding of stump land pasture in Northern Ontario and Quebec cannot be stressed too strongly, for two reasons. First when the virgin timber is removed there will be no vegetation of any kind found due to the dense growth of timber that has covered this country for many years; it is therefore important that pasture areas should be burned over before seeding is attempted. Secondly, once the clover becomes established it will store nitrogen in the soil and when the land is ready to stump after a period of four or five years of pasturing, the soil will then produce a good crop of grain which will not be the case if the land is broken directly after the timber is removed.

A very small quantity of seed is required to get a good stand of excellent pasture and, as red clover and alsike reseed themselves in this country, the space of time required to obtain luxuriant pasture is indeed short.

In the sections where the land is wet and mossy, alsike and timothy seed only should be used; about three pounds of alsike and three of timothy to the acre will insure a good stand for pasture. Alsike clover will grow on acid soil and do well.

In sections where the land has been burned over and there is a good covering of ashes, red clover four pounds, alsike two pounds and timothy two pounds will be found an excellent mixture. The best time to seed is before the snow goes in the spring and the soil is in a honeycombed condition which when it settles covers the seed and insures a good stand. It is advisable not to pasture the land the first year as it will be found that by allowing the first crop to decay, the grass and clover will get better established and will insure pasture for a number of years.

When to Cut Alaska

The settlers who have sown Alaska this year are reasonably sure of harvesting a good well-matured crop of oats. The best time for harvesting oats to obtain good grain for seed or feed has been often discussed. It is generally admitted and followed in the general practice that in order to obtain good seed grain, the oats should be well matured, but that they can be cut a little on the green side.

The Alaska oats is shelling very easily when too matured, hence should be cut before it starts to shatter. However, it should not be cut too early as the germination of seed would be affected. From observations made at the Kapuskasing Experimental Station, it has been found best to cut the oats when the top kernels are in the late firm dough. The grain will continue to fill up in stocks and there will be the minimum amount of shattering.

High-grade Fertilizers By-products Metal Mining

"If farmers are to prosper, they must farm a smaller acreage of better lands more intensively, and secure lower unit production costs." This statement, adopted from the leaders in agriculture of this and other countries, forms the concluding sentence of a notable paper published in the September Bulletin of the Canadian Institute of Mining & Metallurgy. This is entitled "The Trail Heavy-Chemical Plants," by R. W. Diamond, who is in charge of them for Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company.

Compelled to dispose of the sulphur from their huge smelter at Trail, Consolidated are using the acid thus made as the starting point for the manufacture of high-grade fertilizers. The acid is used to treat phosphate rock at present imported from Montana but soon, it is hoped, to be obtained from deposits in British Columbia. Hydrogen obtained from water and nitrogen from the air are combined to make ammonia and this, combined in suitable ways with the phosphate, gives high-grade fertilizers.

At present the market in Alberta for these fertilizers is limited and the bulk of the output is exported. But gradually, as Mr. Diamond points out, the farmers in Alberta, as in the other provinces, will be compelled by the force of circumstances to use artificial fertilizers, and they will find an abundant supply available from Trail. Thus are metal mining and farming bound together in a rather unusual way in Canadian West, the fertilizers made as by-products of the metal mining constituting a material of increasing importance to the private farmers.

Death of Mrs. G. Bradette Pioneer Cochrane District

The following is from The Northland Post last week:—"There passed away on Tuesday, August 28th, one of the earliest pioneers of the Cochrane District in the person of Mrs. Gedeon Bradette (nee Annie Cousineau) following a prolonged illness. The funeral service was held in the Church of the Transfiguration on Thursday, August 30th, with Rev. Father LaRocque officiating, assisted by Father Turcotte of Kapuskasing and Father Doyon of Pauquier. The pallbearers were Joseph Fidele, Romeo and Armand Bradette, Wilfred O'Malley and Ovilla Racicot. Among those from out of town were J. A. Habel, M.L.A., John Rowlandson, M.L.A., Dr. Dupont, J. M. Labrosse, W. Johnson and A. Bezie. A large number of local friends and neighbours were present to pay their last respects. The late Mrs. Bradette is survived by two sons, Romeo and Armand, and a daughter, Mrs. Wilfrid O'Malley. There are also two sons of the late Mr. Bradette's first marriage, Jos. A. and Fidele, and two daughters, Mrs. Racicot and Mrs. Sebastien. Mrs. Bradette was predeceased by her husband eleven years ago."
