Afternoon Tea and Some Good Recipes

Banana Bran Nut Bread, Date Crumb Cookies, Corn Flake Kisses, Bran Ginger Snaps, Crumbs, Etc.

The following article and recipes are supplied by Barbara B. Brooks, the well-known culinary expert for readers of The Advance.

A Canadian hostess said to her American guests, "Shall we go to the bank for tea?" To their delight, the "bank" turned out to be, not an impressive stone building, but a grassy terrace overlooking a river where tea was served in a delightful summer house.

Tea time is observed all over the world and is probably the part of the day most enjoyed by friends who get together for a social hour.

This recipe for Banana Bran Bread is good because the loaf will keep moist for days and can be sliced and buttered as needed.

Women Buried in Fruit When Truck Overturns

The Northern News last week says:—"To feel the truck in which they sat in a four-foot space behind the load under a tied-down tarpaulin, sliding back down hill was the terrifying experience of Mrs. S. Groom, Mileage 104 and Mona Groom, North Cobalt, as the produce-laden truck in which they were coming to Saturday's farmers' market here left the road near Round Lake. Mrs. Groom sustained a broken leg which necessitated her removal to the hospital here and her sister-in-law had a badly wrenched back. Both of them were buried for 15 minutes under a ton and a half of garden stuff when the truck turned on its side after backing 150 feet into the ditch. Harry Groom, owner of the truck, told The Northern News Wes Colley of Chatham was driving at the time the mishap occurred on the hill just before the road reaches the new bridge at Round Lake. The truck stalled as the change into low gear was being made at the heaviest part of the "drag," and started to roll back down the hill. Because the window at the back of the cab was blocked by the load the driver could only steer by guess work and it was Harry Groom who jumped from the truck and ran beside the vehicle directing Colley and saving the truck from the worst ditch of the two. It finally brought up on its side right at the river's edge and the two injured women were in about a foot and a half of water, covered with vegetables. "It took us 20 minutes to dig them out," said Mr. Groom. Members of the road gang at the bridge helped right the truck and a call was put into Kirkland Lake for a truck to bring what was not damaged on to the market. The truck was badly damaged and two-thirds of the vegetables were a total loss."

In this district there is special interest in the Canada Northern Power Corporation and its affiliated companies serving this part of the North. Of the Canada Northern Power Corporation the report says:—"Canada Northern Power Corporation, Limited—Through its subsidiaries Northern Ontario Power Co., Limited and Northern Quebec Power Co. Limited, serves the important mining areas 100 miles in width on each side of the inter-provincial boundary between Northern Ontario and Quebec. These include the gold producing regions of Porcupine, Timmins, Kirkland Lake, Roly-Noranda, Cadillac, Malartic, Dubuisson, Bourlomaque, Matachewan and the silver camps of Cobalt and Gowganda. During the past year the producing area has been extended easterly in Quebec a distance of upwards of sixty miles, and a transmission line to supply this district has been constructed. The total kilowatt hours generated during the year 1933 was 474,553,410, an increase of $33,403,120 over the previous year."

The report of the president of Power Corporation of Canada, Limited, to the shareholders has much of general interest, among the paragraphs of special importance being the following:—"In view of the improvement in conditions the demand for hydro-electric power has shown a steady increase during the current year, and it is fully expected that as business and economic conditions continue to improve, the demand for power will increase. As your Company has large interests in hydro-electricity

Accuse Timmins Men of Kirkland Hold-up

Prospector Struggles Four Miles to Police After Heavy Blow with Car Crank. Timmins Police Make Arrests for Kirkland

The Advance last week noted the arrest here of two men charged among other things with the holding-up of a man near Kirkland Lake, the victim of the road robbery being slugged over the head with a car crank. Particulars were given of the arrest here while The Northern News gives particulars in its issue last week of the hold-up, which took place on the Noranda road about four miles from Kirkland Lake. The Northern News says:—"When George Zines, 31-year-old Lithuanian prospector from Red Lake, staggered into Teek Township police station here Monday night with his head cut to the bone and a story of being beaten with a crank and robbed on the Noranda road about four miles from here, provincial police who took over the case had little to work on. Zines' description of the two men who attacked him and the fact that a right rear window in their car was broken were their only clues. All Monday night and Tuesday they worked, knitting what they had into a case. They claimed to have traced the car to Timmins and Tuesday night Joe Norkum and John Ivanhoff were arrested in Timmins by the provincial police there and returned here to face charges in to-day's police court. With the Zines' assault a second case is added to the highway robbery list in the North, for it was just a little over a month ago—on August 2—that Thomas Gordon, McGill Frontenac oil truck driver, was slugged and robbed in the daytime of $600 near Kenogami Lake, the first case, provincially, of robbery with violence on the roads of this section. Monday's brutal attack netted Zines' sluggers only seven dollars for that's all he was carrying at the time. He told The Northern News he came into Kirkland Lake about a week ago from the Red Lake field and after a short stay here decided to walk into Noranda on the chance of getting employment. He left here between three and four o'clock Monday afternoon and had been walking about an hour when a car passed him and stopped. Then, Zines says, a man got out and demanded his money. He refused and was struck three times on the head by a crank the other man had been, till then, shielding behind his back. Zines must have been unconscious in the ditch where he was thrown for the better part of two hours for he didn't make it back into town till eight o'clock. His wound required four clamps to close and he appeared in court with his head heavily bandaged. The great strength of Zines which enabled him to make his way on foot to Kirkland Lake and give a clear description of his assailants to police although suffering from the brutal attack, was an important factor in getting the police on the case while it was still "hot."

"Talking Book" Invention May be Boon for Blind (From Mail and Empire) A new invention, "the talking book," which will enable blind persons to enjoy a variety of reading without having to know Braille is science's latest contribution to an afflicted section of the human race. The book machines, which are to be distributed by the American Foundation for the Blind, are constructed like an ordinary gramophone, but revolve at a much slower speed. They will be sold in three models, two electrical, and including radio sets, and one hand-wound type, without the advantage of radio. Both the talking book and the records that it uses will be obtainable at relatively moderate cost, and will be distributed by library centres in much the same way as an ordinary circulating library distributes books. A small but imposing list of books has already been prepared in form suitable for talking book use. From the Bible the four Gospels and the Psalms are available. In the field of fiction there are: "The Diary of a Provincial Lady," by E. M. Delafield; "Bird of Dawning," by John Masfield; Carroll's "As the Good Earth Turns"; "Very Good, Jeeves," by P. G. Wodehouse; and "The Brushwood Boy," by Rudyard Kipling. In addition, the Foundation has prepared three Shakespeare plays:

Results June Examinations Toronto Conservatory Music

The latest issue of The Toronto Conservatory of Music Review gives a list of the pupils successful at the summer examinations held in Timmins for the Toronto Conservatory of Music. The number of pupils successful this year at Timmins centre was not as large as in previous years, the tests being reported as specially difficult. In view of this latter fact the success of Albert Keates, pupil of Mrs. R. Vary, in taking first-class honours in his examinations is worthy of special note. This lad only commenced study last fall and his success after so short a period is specially creditable. The Review gives the list of successful pupils at the June examinations (held this year in July) as follows:—

- Piano Primary
Honours:—Grace Ramsay, Jean Gordon.
Pass:—Patricia Bowie.
- Elementary
Honours:—Jean Cowan.
Pass:—Phyllis McCoy, Elaine Kuntson, Kenneth Mason.
- Introductory
First-class honours—Albert Keates.

Different Things Annoy in Different Countries

(Manchester Guardian) The case recently reported in which a Prague ballet-mistress was summoned for calling members of the male ballet "a set of handlegged, bespectacled, paunchy clothoppers" may cause surprise in a land where such language would hardly be actionable by itself.

But most countries have their individual peculiarities in the matter of sensitiveness to invective. We all know that there is nothing worse you can call a German than a "swine" and that in Italy the epithet "stupid" is regarded so much as insult that the sarcastic use of the word "intelligent" to an official is punishable by law.

Many a Spaniard would stick a knife into anyone who called him "scabby" a Portuguese resents nothing more than being called a "peasant," and there is no better way of rousing the modern Greek than by addressing him as "old man." Can Greek sensitiveness in this last respect be traced back to the days when the elders of Keos were quietly put out of the way with hemlock?
