

Weakened McIntyre Team Edges Out Timmins 3-2

Much of Interest in Junior Hockey Now

Sudbury Juniors Appear to be Unusually Strong. Have Defeated Senior Teams in Lively Games.

At a recent meeting of the N.O.H.A. executive it was decided to instruct all referees to be strict in the matter of suspensions. Any player who incurs two major penalties is automatically suspended.

The only junior entries received by the executive from the southern end of the group are Sudbury and North Bay. It was definitely announced last week that Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds would not be entered in the junior playdowns this year.

The way it looks now is that a winner will be chosen between Timmins, South Porcupine and Iroquois Falls in the junior groups and will play off with the winner of a Kirkland Lake, Rouyn and (New Liskeard, Haileybury, Cobalt, all star.) The winner of that will meet the North Bay Trappers and the winner of that will go on to meet the Sudbury Cub Wolves for the junior championship of the N.O.H.A.

The way the Cub-Wolves are going this year, it would appear that none of the T. & N. O. teams will be able to give them a scrap. They win rather consistently from the senior teams in the Nickel Belt League. For instance, they defeated Creighton Mine 13 to one and Froed, the strong team of the league, four to three.

But before the long trek to Sudbury, there should be some good junior hockey in this part of the north. The teams are pure "home-brew," and the boys really do fight to win their games. Neither Kirkland Lake nor Timmins were sure of having junior entries until late last month and since the same October 15 residence rule applies to them as it does to the senior, there has been no opportunity to bring up stars from down below.

HOLLINGER CURLERS WIN AT TORONTO FROM NORANDA

The "Grab Examples" column of The Northern Miner last week says:—"If The Northern Miner had a sport page it would no doubt report the epic clash between the Hollinger and Noranda mines curling teams, which met in Toronto this week. The Hollinger team was pure home brew the players being Leo, Jules and N. A. Timmins, with J. L. Rankin. The Noranda team consisted of J. Y. Murdoch, E. Hibbert, with two imports, Sam Gundy and W. D. Ross, former Lieutenant-Governor. Hollinger won, 13 to 5."

Trouble with Penalties in the Nickel Belt League

They have a lot of trouble with penalties in the Nickel Belt League; the Sudbury group that is no way connected with the N.O.H.A. except that some of the clubs hold memberships in both.

The players come from such varied points of the compass that they just don't quite know how the Sudbury officials call body checks and so on. Editorially, the Sudbury Star says:—"It is possible that the newcomers have been playing under a different interpretation—what is an accepted check in Port William, Hamilton, Windsor, Saskatoon, or any one of a dozen places doesn't meet with approval here. Hence from 10 to 20 penalties occur every time the squads trot out on the ice for a Nickel Belt affair."

Brother Acts Starting Again for New Sport Conquests

There are several brother acts in sport, and all are starting 1935 with bright hopes. The Dean brothers, Dizzy and Daffy, hope to repeat their fine pitching performances for the St. Louis Cardinals. Mortie Dutra is a rival of his brother, Olin, 1934 U.S. open champion, who will try to repeat. Buddy Baer, who has shown marked improvement, hopes to see the day when he will be a rival for the world heavyweight crown worn by his brother Max, who won it from Primo Camera.

Third Period Goal Wins for Macs on Friday Night

Timmins Team Played Steadier Hockey but Clarke Too Good in McIntyre Net. Vail and Masseur Out from Sickness, but Lemon and O'Neill Show up Well.

With two stars, Masseur and Vail, laid up with colds, McIntyre came to Timmins on Friday night to win their second game from the locals. Frankly, the Macs were the weaker team of the two but rallies at the opening of the second and third period saved their hides.

All the way through the first frame, it looked like a walkaway for Timmins, though only McCaffrey, Lortie and Langford were performing at anything like top form. Play was slow and rushes were almost always one man affairs.

The best hockey was played just after the bell rang when the puck was thrown in to start the second period. Timmins were set on increasing the one goal lead and Miller had given them and McIntyre were equally determined to even it up. Malloy for McIntyre held first honours when he tied the score. The cheering had hardly died away when Lortie went in and repeated Miller's play to put Timmins in the lead again. Godin evened it up.

Campbell scored the winning counter early in the third, after having played below par all through the game.

The smallest crowd to attend an N.O.H.A. fixture this season turned out, but the 400 odd that were there had plenty of thrills for their money. A Timmins-McIntyre game is always worth more than the price of admission, if only to see how the fans react to the officials' decisions and the cheers that follow scoring from either team. Friday night's crowd was well divided in support.

McIntyre took the puck from the first face-off but Arundel and Kennedy began the Timmins attack that ended after three minutes of play when Arundel made a perfect pass to Miller at the boards and Miller took it in to beat Clarke hands down. After tasting first blood the Gold Diggers pressed hard but failed to increase the tally.

McIntyre refused to be forced into a defensive position. Even when they were a man short after Colquhoun drew a penalty for tripping Lortie, who seemed to be well on the way to scoring, and shortly after that when Knetchel drew one for tripping Walsh, McIntyre played a wide open game that kept Clarke busy stopping pucks from the sticks of Lortie, Kennedy and Walsh. Auger had one of the first really dangerous McIntyre shots on Langford.

Near the close of the period Morel drew a penalty for tripping and the Macs went in for all they were worth. O'Neill, Polhill and Auger all had fair shots at Langford, but the former St. Pat's goalie was just a little too good for them. As the period ended Burns took the puck at the Timmins blue line, drew the Macs' defence aside and passed across where there should have been a wing player. No-one was there to pick it up and the bell rang before another play could be started.

The opening of the second looked as though it might be a repetition of the first but after a minute and a half of up the ice and down again play, Knetchel and Kennedy began pushing each other about. Kennedy got two minutes to cool off and Knetchel three. While the two were off, Malloy picked up a loose puck at centre ice and crashed down into the Timmins defence. The puck stopped on Lortie's pads and Malloy, after hitting the defence hard went on through still carrying the puck. He went in on top.

Just after the face-off at centre ice, Lortie took the puck from a team mate and went through much in the same manner as Malloy had, to put Timmins one up again. Not more than 15 seconds elapsed between the two goals. As Colquhoun went off for tripping Lortie, Timmins put on the power and sent in a new line but even so could not raise the score.

A few minutes later Knetchel went off for the same offence and Timmins put on a four man attack. Malloy and Colquhoun were effective in breaking it up and Colquhoun got away once leaving four Timmins men behind him. Miller, alone at defence, made a clean check and cleared. McCaffrey, who played one of his best games, was close to the net several times but Clarke outgassed him every time.

"The Macs really picked up about half way through the period and Godin put them back in the race when he took the puck right in behind the Timmins net. He was checked hard but stickhandled his way to the front and poked in the tying goal.

Some real hockey was played in the remainder of the period, but the greater part of it was at centre ice. Even when Miller went to the box for tripping Campbell the Macs could not muster the strength to take the lead.

The Macs looked like a different team when they came on the ice at the beginning of the third. Whether Coach Malloy gave them a pep talk or what, nobody knew, but certainly they recovered a lot of their lost co-operation. Knetchel was the first to break through but Langford cleared nicely to Burns who was waiting at the blue line. Polhill, Auger and Campbell went in together and after a scramble at the net, Campbell lifted the puck over the prostrate Langford.

With McIntyre one up, Timmins went in as hard and often as possible. Clarke in the Macs' net had an uneasy time of it but did great work in stopping shots from Burns, Lortie, Arundel and McCaffrey. The last part of the period forced McIntyre to play defensive hockey despite their slim lead. Time and time again, Timmins forwards had what looked to the crowd like sure shots but each time they were disappointed.

Even when Campbell went to the penalty box for tripping Burns, the Gold Diggers could not even it up.

Season's Schedule for Junior Hockey

First Game at Timmins to be on Tuesday (To-morrow) Evening with Iroquois Falls Juniors.

Timmins hockey fans will have their first chance to see the junior hockey team in action on Wednesday, January 16.

They were defeated at South Porcupine last week but, considering the practice they have had, they showed up well and when they meet Iroquois Falls for their first home game there should be a good crowd of supporters out to see them do their stuff.

There has been some difficulty in arranging a schedule that was satisfactory to all three clubs but the following one has been approved by Timmins, South Porcupine and the N.O.H.A.:

Tues., Jan. 8—Timmins at South Porcupine. (South Porcupine won 6 to 3).

Fri., Jan. 11—South Porcupine at Iroquois Falls.

Wed., Jan. 16—Iroquois Falls at Timmins.

Fri., Jan. 18—Timmins at Iroquois Falls.

Tues., Jan. 22—South Porcupine at Timmins.

Fri., Jan. 25—Iroquois Falls at South Porcupine.

Tues., Jan. 29—Timmins at Iroquois Falls.

Fri., Feb. 1—Timmins at South Porcupine.

Mon., Feb. 4—Iroquois Falls at Timmins.

Fri., Feb. 8—Iroquois Falls at South Porcupine.

Tues., Feb. 12—South Porcupine at Timmins.

Fri., Feb. 15—South Porcupine at Iroquois Falls.

It is understood that Iroquois Falls officials are not in favour of having Friday night games there and the above schedule contains three of them. They have a copy of the schedule and if no objection is made, it will be the one accepted for the season.

Frank Evans, of South Porcupine, representative on the N.O.H.A. executive, made the schedule and submitted copies of it to the secretaries of the three clubs. Cliff Thompson here accepted it for Timmins and now there is only Iroquois Falls to hear from.

succeeded to the managerial berth with this famous club after the death of Peter Hodge.

Lochhead started out on a career much less strenuous than first division football, but his ability on the field changed all that. He trained for a school-teaching position and then started to play football for Hearts. He was transferred to Manchester United and later went to Leicester. First he blossomed forth as a centre-forward, but concluded his active playing career as an inside left last season. With his long experience on the field and an excellent record behind him, he should make a fine manager for Leicester City.

McCaffrey Forced to Quit Game for While

Clever Wing Man on the Timmins Team has to Drop Hockey for a Time on Doctor's Orders.

When Timmins meets McIntyre to-night for the fourth time this season, Bob McCaffrey will be missing from the line up.

McCaffrey turned in a first rate game on Friday night but he has been playing all season against doctor's orders. Heart trouble is his weakness and after Friday's night's game in which he played as fast and tricky a bit of hockey as any fan would want to see, he had to call it quits. Game to the last, he refused to give in to his ailment and there were probably not 10 out of the 400 fans who saw the last McIntyre-Timmins tussle that could have known he was a sick man.

Bob was one of the players released to Timmins by South Porcupine early in the season. He works at McIntyre but lives at South End.

A smooth, fast skater and a clean close checker, his hockey days are over for a while at least. He, Kennedy and Arundel were Timmins' best line and they were shaping up as nicely as anything in the group.

His team-mates and the officials of the club as well as hundreds of fans will be sorry to see him forced from the game.

Jeffries Made Corbett Hang Up Gloves

After his knockout at the hands of Bob Fitzsimmons in 1897 Jim Corbett might well have quit the ring. But Jim like other fighters, was hard to convince he was through. Jim Jeffries was the man who finally persuaded him to retire by knocking him out twice.

Corbett's first fight with Jeff was in 1900 at Coney Island. For 22 rounds Corbett was ahead on points but in the twenty-third Jeff landed with a hay-maker and Gentleman Jim took the count.

"An accident," Corbett told his friends, "it never could happen again." Corbett challenged Jeffries to a return fight after the big hay-maker had pounded all the first-rate contenders out of the picture. Though 38 years old, Corbett still was a great boxer, as he had demonstrated at Coney Island. Promoter Jim Coffroth finally matched the two men at San Francisco Aug. 14, 1903.

Jeffries in his usual way rushed across the ring in an effort to finish Corbett off quickly. But Corbett though nine years older than Jeff, amazed the ring-siders with his lightness of foot. He danced away, sidestepped, slipped blows with all of his old-time cleverness.

It was Corbett's idea to save his legs which was his undoing, according to Corbett himself. He decided to stand and block blows instead of relying on footwork. In the second round, as Jeff bounced across the ring, Corbett stood still. Jeff let go a terrific left hook to the body. Gentleman Jim caught it all right—but full in the ribs.

Corbett went down for what Jeff claimed was a long count by Referee Eddie Graney. He got up gamely, however, and though suffering keenly with the pain in his side, carried on.

Five more times Jeff sent him to the floor for varying counts until the tenth round. Then another of the Jeffries hooks landed in the stomach region. Corbett went down for the last time.

Then Corbett knew. It was his last fight.
