Too Much Stress Given Youthful Hockey Talent?

Princeton Hockey Coach Makes a Claim to This Effect, and Holds that Veterans More Than Hold Their Own in League Battles.

By FRANK FREDRICKSON
Princeton Hockey Coach

The national Hockey League is suffering from a mysterious malady which might be titled, "Too Much Emphasis on Youth." That is to say, there is too much discrimination against veteran players. Managers for the most part are willing to toss their old men overboard if they can find a promising youngster. Offhand, this sounds like 100 per cent. strategy, but the record bears plenty of testimony to the contrary. The question, to my mind, is not whether your stickhandler is an old man, but whether he's a good man. Good men should stick. I think that a hockey player reaches his peak between the ages of 27 and 31. Of course many managers will disagree. Some of them, I know, declare a player will prove his worth at 21 if he's ever going to make his mark in the big time. But take the New York Rangers for example. Some 70 players have been on their payroll since their organization in 1926. How many of them have remained? Not many of the recruits, but plenty of the old-timers.

The Rangers are unique in that they have five originals in their line-up. They are Ching Johnson, Murry Mur-have won the Stanley cup twice, and qualified for the Stanley cup series four times. Other clubs pin their confidence in their old men rather than gamble too much with unproven youngsters. I refer to the Clancys, Days, Jollits, Mozzenes and Shores of the league. They still cut a pretty fancy swath in the puck-punching sphere, and aren't through yet.

Don't think I'm against new talent. I'm all for it but I still say it's a mistake to cast aside proven talent in the interests of youth. Experience plays a mighty role in professional hockey, and more Stanley cups are won by veterans than by their understudies.

To make the National League grade, a recruit must have more than ordinary ability. There are not enough high-class amateurs to go round. They arrive in slim batches, where the old men march on for years. A great hockey player still is worth his salt when most mediocre players are shouting for crutches and armchairs.

Death of E. Williams at Goldenville, N.S.

Several Daughters Live in Timmins. One Son Died Here Ten Years Ago.

Many relatives and friends in Timmins and district will learn with profound regret of the death of Edward Williams at Goldenville, Nova Scotia. Among the near relatives surviving are three daughters living in Timmins—Mrs. Henry McQuarrie, Mrs. A. K. Matson and Mrs. Wm. Isnor. One son predeceased him ten years ago at Timmins. From a correspondent at Goldenville, N.S., comes the following obituary notice:—

"Goldenville, Guysborough County, Nova Scotia, March 6th, 1935.—The death of Edward Williams, whose health had been failing for over a year, due to high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries, occurred at his home in Goldenville on Thursday morning, Feb. 28. The deceased was 78 years of age. He was born at Marshy Hope, Pictou Co., where he spent most of his early life, moving to Goldenville when a young man of 18. He was married to Corrie Currie at Melrose, N.S., by the Rev. Pitblado, Aug. 28, 1879. The couple made their residence in Goldenville since.

"Mr. Williams will be missed very much in this community. He took an active interest in all community projects, did all that he could in the interests of the Presbyterian Church of Goldenville, serving as a member of the Board of Managers for years.

"He is survived by his wife, six daughters and one son. They are Mrs. Rufus Sweet of Goldenville; Bessie, (Mrs. Henry McQuarrie), Timmins, Ont.; Henry Williams, Goldenville; Libby, (Mrs. John E. Smith), Antigonish, N.S.; Anna, (Mrs. A. G. Hattie), Pickle Crow Gold Mines, Northern Ont.; Charlotte, (Mrs. A. K. Matson), Timmins, Ont.; Pinnie, (Mrs. Wm. Isnor), Timmins, Ont.; and one brother, Joseph Williams, Sidney, N.S. One son, the eldest of the family, predeceased him in Timmins, Ont., June 9, 1925.

"The funeral, largely attended by sympathetic friends from the entire community, was held from his home on Saturday, March 2, his pastor, Rev. H. L. Jost, of Sherbrooke, preaching a comforting sermon from John 14:1. The pallbearers were H. R. Cameron, Edwin Fraser, Arnold Bright, John McEachern, Rufus Sweet and Truman Hirschfeld. Interment was in Riverside cemetery at Sherbrooke."

Schmeling Wins Bout Over Hamas Sunday

Victor May Meet Baer in World's Heavyweight Title Match Next Summer.

Max Schmeling won a very one-sided fight against Steve Hamas at Hamburg, Germany, yesterday afternoon, when Schmeling defended his right to meet Max Baer in a heavyweight title match next summer.

Schmeling was a five to one favorite before the match but the boxing world hardly expected the rout that occurred. The fight was stopped in the ninth round after Hamas' face was literally beaten to a pulp. The first five rounds showed that Schmeling was the better fighter, but Hamas managed to get out of the way of Schmeling's hardest blows. After the fifth Hamas took it from all angles.

Hamas, according to the press reports preceding the bout, had a strange custom of training on cigarettes and beer. This did not help the betting odds.

No definite arrangements have been made yet for the coming Schmeling-Baer match, which will probably be in the United States.

Commercial League Title to Laflammas

Sunday Night Final Rough in Spots as Marshalls Defeated 5-3. Larcher Suffers Mouth Injury.

Jerry Laflamme's pucksters romped home last night with the championship of the Commercial league. The game was the second of the play-off series and finished with Laflammas on the big side of a 5-3 score. The first game played two weeks ago was 3-2 win for the Laflamme outfit. A fairly large crowd was out last night and contributed a tidy amount to the St. John Ambulance Brigade funds.

Only one accident happened in the rough game and it was when Larcher, Marshalls' net custodian, stopped a lightning shot from Charbonneau with his mouth in the second period. His upper lip was torn to shreds and he will undoubtedly lose a few teeth. He was playing a really nice game but after this accident he was taken out of the game and was replaced by Aurele Barbarie. There were but three minutes to play in the second period when this happened so the teams left the ice and played the extra time on the last period. Charbonneau was the big noise for Laflammas, netting three goals and getting an assist on the fourth. Elles notched Laflammas other two goals.

Tucker, Heavysage and Grant got the three Marshall counters.

Rough in Last Two Periods

The play was clear in the first period but got slightly rough in the last two when some of the players started to work off a grudge. The game was kept well in hand though, through the efforts of referees, Shea and Richard.

Charbonneau netted the first goal, after six minutes of play when Wallingford slipped him a perfect pass. Charbonneau got the second on a pass from Marminacci a minute later. The third goal came near the end of the period from Elles on a lone effort.

The second period opened fast and Tucker started the scoring for Marshalls on a pass from Charlebois. The second goal of the period went to Charbonneau. With Marshalls playing a man short, Heavysage scored on a pass from Slobasky. Grant scored the last goal of the period after sixteen minutes. The third period saw only one goal and it was for Laflamme, Elles knocking in Charbonneau's pass.

The Teams

Laflammas:—Goal, Lejambre; defence, Wallingford, Renaud; centre, Delmonte; forwards, Fortin, Charbonneau; subs, Marminacci, Elles.
Marshalls:—Goal, Larcher; Barbarie; defence, Tucker, Heavysage; centre, Grant; forwards, Charlebois, Slobasky; subs., Marshall, Shelest, Mobraj.

Handsome Individual Curling Trophies Given

W. Rinn and the other curlers winning the Ecclestone trophy this year are certainly both pleased and proud of the victory. The individual prizes for the winners of this cup are unusually handsome and attractive, each member of the winning rink receiving a trophy that is the equal of many of the ordinary cups put in competition. The trophies are 14 inches high, and the design is especially attractive and artistic. A large silver curling stone is mounted on a mahogany base, artistically poised on four silver brooms arranged over a small curling stone on the plate at the top of the base. There is a nameplate on each trophy and the winners of these handsome prizes will certainly prize them highly. The prizes were given by J. Walter Ecclestone, the donor of the cup in competition.

TORONTO AND HAMILTON IN ANOTHER SENIOR TIE GAME

Another tie game in the N.O.H.A. senior "A" finals was played Saturday afternoon between Toronto Stars and Hamilton Tigers. Neither team could make any more than one goal. On Wednesday in Hamilton there was no score. The third game of the series is to be played in Toronto this week.

O.H.A. senior "B" champions are the Brockville Magedomas, who put out the Chatham seniors Friday night.

Dynamited Bridge to Attract Notice

Sturgeon Falls District Man Gives Unusual Explanation for Attempting to Destroy Bridge.

When arraigned before W. L. Fortier, Justice of the peace, at Sturgeon Falls on Friday afternoon, on a charge of dynamiting a road bridge five miles west of Lavigne, Sturgeon Falls district, George Lemaire stated he did so because the relief authorities neglected his wife and four children.

He was remanded in custody until Friday, March 15th, on a charge of doing wilful damage to property, and was taken to the district jail at North Bay by Provincial Constable Berard who arrested him late Thursday afternoon.

Lemaire's explanation was that although he worked the periods prescribed by relief authorities in January and February, he has not received a cheque since Dec. 23. He alleges he appealed to Premier Hepburn, Hon. D. A. Croil, District Relief Officer J. McCluskey, North Bay, and D. Lauzon, relief officer at Sturgeon Falls, and was advised to apply to J. Champagne, relief officer of Lavigne. He said Champagne said he could not locate the trouble.

With his wife and family nearly naked and the family larder almost bare, he determined to draw attention to his plight by dynamiting a bridge. He placed a heavy charge under the frame structure, but, fortunately, it planted it that the explosion only caught one side. Only slight damage was caused when one side was ripped off. Farmers were able to proceed over the span after the blast.

After his deliberate act, Lemaire returned home to await the arrival of the police. When Provincial Constable Berard visited his home late Thursday, Lemaire showed him his food supply, a few potatoes, can of tomatoes and a loaf of bread to sustain him and his wife and four children. The children were garbed in rags and two had been barefooted since fall and so were unable to go to school, he said. He also claimed his wife was reduced to wearing garments made from flour bags.

Lemaire is the only laborer in a farming community. His neighbours did not suffer for the reason that they had their own produce to rely upon until the relief authorities made the monthly payments.

The accused was exceptionally cheerful when in police hands here, stating that his arrest had provided the best meals he enjoyed since being forced to exist on relief. His only regret, he said, was that his wife and children were not with him.

It is understood the relief authorities are now looking after Mrs. Lemaire and children.

The Household by Lydia Le Baron Walker

Attractive pieces of furniture for a small apartment
HOW TO BUY FURNITURE FOR SMALL ROOMS SO THAT IT WILL SUIT LARGER ONES ALSO

Keeping furniture to scale with the size of rooms is something that the homemaker has continually to bear in mind when purchasing it. A house that is small, or especially an apartment that is not only restricted in size but in number of rooms, has to be furnished with the utmost restraint to make it seem to have space. The homemaker may be delighted with furniture which fills her wants, but unless it can be housed and seems to fit correctly into the area it must occupy, it will have to be left unpurchased.

Larger Pieces Accommodated

Or the number of pieces to find housing in the rooms must be curtailed so that the fewness of articles contributes to the uncrowded appearance of the place. There are times when this latter plan is wisest. This is when an apartment is being furnished not for larger quarters in the near future. To purchase small furniture for the little apartment would be an extravagance, since it would look inadequate in larger rooms.

Dining Room

In buying dining room furniture, for example, it may give the appearance of suiting a small space; yet prove sufficiently large in size if not in number of pieces by choosing a drop leaf extension table and just enough chairs to fit into the little dining room. When moving into the more spacious quarters, the dining table can be left with leaves up, and fill the room space well, and still have the extension to be used when more seating space is needed. Extra chairs can be purchased as needed, and such other pieces as a sideboard to supplement the buffet, a serving table, etc.

Living Room

In a living room, the chairs which were well-suited to the apartment and were comfortable chairs there, can become occasional chairs in the large living room, and larger armchairs be introduced. The table which was adequate in the small room can become one of the side tables and a larger one, or more of approximately the same size, can supplement it.

Bedroom

In a bedroom the opportunity to increase pieces is almost as great as in the living room. The bedsheets needed will be no longer, for there is a regulation length though widths may differ. It will prove wise to get a style for the apartment which will give the impression of sufficient framework when put into larger rooms. The dresser can be supplemented by a full size bureau and the former will then become the dressing table. The desk which once was right for the living room of the apartment can become one of the chamber pieces. For this to be the case the woods must be similar in colour such as walnut and mahogany or pine and maple, etc. Such things must be considered at time of buying.
