Moving House Stops Electrical Services

Incidents on Tuesday Evening Amusing to Spectators but Not to Those Concerned.

Houses near the corner of First avenue and Maple street were without power and telephone service for a short time on Tuesday evening when a house being moved along the street by two tractors tore down a number of wires.

To the casual observer, there was nothing uncommon in the appearance of this moving structure. Close observers say, however, that there was a certain haughty attitude expressed in the windows of the house, as it trundled determinedly along the road, perhaps to a better locality.

And then, at the corner of Maple street and First avenue, the travelling building displayed a spirit of absolute scorn as it viciously darted into a group of power lines and chewed them asunder with a nasty smirk. Excitement waxed high as the movers frantically shouted to the tractor drivers, whose ears were deafened by the gentle purr of their motors. But a stop was finally achieved, and while diligent workers placed the fallen wires out of reach a man was delegated to a lookout post on the peak of the roof so that he could ward of any further disasters by lifting power and telephone wires over the house as it moved along. However, they had not reckoned with the strategic resourcefulness of the house. No sooner had the man on the roof safely lifted the next group of wires over his head. than a chimney, hidden amongst the shingles, swiftly reared its head and, peering furtively to left and right, darted at the wires with gaping jaws and angrily ground them to pieces. Showers of sparks ensued and more live wires fell to the ground, where happy little groups of children sprang forward to revel in a new-found attraction. But again those diligent hands coiled up the dangerous wires and placed them out of reach.

The house, having worked off its ill temper satisfactorily, expressed a willingness to proceed cautiously for the rest of the journey, and it soon disappeared on the horizon, leaving little groups of grocer's clerks and citizens scratching their heads and staring vacantly at the debris.

Members of Legion Enjoyed the Meeting

Some Interesting Addresses. Much Work Accomplished. Donations Given to Pipe Band, and Service Bureau.

There was a very good attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Canadian Legion here, last Monday evening. President A. Neame, zone representative for this district, occupied the chair.

Very pleasing indeed was the financial report. This showed that the recent prize draw had done much to boost the branch funds—especially the relief fund.

A matter of much discussion, centred around the Vimy banquet deficit. One member said "if the branch does lose the hundred dollars, it would be all right, because everyone present had such a good time." The branch will fill the bill in this case.

Three members went through the initiation; these represented Canada, Jugo-Slavia and Italy. Quite a unique affair in Legion activities.

A donation of $50.00 was given to the Porcupine District Pipe Band for services rendered. Band-leader Cotcher, thanked the members for their generous action.

A cheque for $150.00 will be forwarded to Ottawa as the Timmins branch contribution towards maintaining the Service Bureau. This is really an obligation pledged by the delegates present at the Ottawa convention last year.

Much discussion centred around the recent changes in the staff of the beverage room of the Legion club. The members learned a great real. Mental arithmetic was of no great help as figures came thick and fast. The holding capacity of the varied utensils gave room for much thought. Comrade Elphick the late steward and A. C. Brown, clashed on more than one occasion. The outcome of all the interesting discussion was that an auditor will go over the books kept by the late staff, and the committee in charge of the building giving the newly appointed stewards a fair show to make good.

A committee of six, with Comrade Stewart, will do all that can possibly be done to assist a member's family, which is in urgent need.

Mention was made of the work done at the cemetery, upon the Legion plot and details of the parade on Sunday. The members were asked to attend in force wearing berets and decorations. The time was settled as 3.45 p.m., to march away at around 4.00 p.m. The pipe band offered to accompany the Legion upon this occasion.

Comrade Jack Tamer, provided a treat for all present which was graciously received.

The meeting closed around midnight after a most interesting session.

Dance Recital and Children's Dress Ball

Notable Event to be held in Masonic Hall on Thursday and Friday Evening, June 6 and 7.

Announcement is made this week of the dance recital and children's dress ball to be presented in the Masonic hall, Timmins, by the pupils of Miss Margaret Easton. The event will be of the same type that won so much popularity here when presented by the pupils of Mrs. R. Simms, some years ago. Miss Margaret Easton has an unusually large class of pupils, many of them with remarkable talent and all of them very cleverly trained. No one who likes either dancing or children should miss this event. Special attention is being given to the dress ball features of the event and the costumes alone will be worth seeing. For the Dutch dances clogs have been ordered from Belgium, and kilts from Edinburgh, Scotland. Other national costumes are also imported and this part of the programme will not only be of special interest but patrons may know that the costumes are correct in every detail. There will be no less than 14 in full Highland costume for the event. Fourscones, reels, strathspeys, Highland Fling and other Scottish dances will be featured. Other dances to be presented will include:—Minuet, tap dancing, Spanish dances, Dutch dances, skirt dances, Irish dances, etc.

London Free Press:—It is becoming more and more apparent that if the League of Nations is ever going to be any influence in the world it will have to have behind it something more than just moral force.
