Cabinet Said to Object to Northern Expenditures

Word from Toronto this week is to the effect that while the department of northern development is concluding an extensive programme of arterial roadwork which will provide employment in every district of the north, there are many indications that Hon. Peter Heenan will have considerable difficulty in getting cabinet approval. With tenders called for almost $3,000,000 worth of expenditure almost all of which is on trans-Canada highway construction, several of Mr. Heenan's colleagues and possibly Premier Hepburn are showing signs of balking at added expenditures. Many Liberal members from Southern Ontario are making discreet objections to the huge expenditures in the north which Mr. Heenan already has under way. Highway work in the south has been curtailed by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, minister of highways, to such an extent that in about 40 Liberal ridings less than $1,000 will be spent.

Mr. Heenan on the other hand is determined to carry out the government's promise to provide employment between seeding and harvesting. Whether he can convince his cabinet colleagues of the need is a matter of conjecture.

R. A. Campbell, deputy minister of northern development and other officials have been in the north recently looking over the situation generally. There is expected to be a cabinet meeting this week where the whole question will be taken up, probably with reports from Mr. Campbell and other officials.

One feature that should be emphasized is the bad condition of existing roads in the north. In a number of places the roads are reported as actually unsafe, while practically all the workers are now off the roads. Unless something is done to maintain the roads the cost of bringing them back to proper condition will be very serious—much greater indeed than the small amount that is supposed to be saved by stopping work and paying so much more out in relief.

Doctor: "But why make such motions?"

Patient: "Well, if you know any other way for a man to get on his overcoat, I wish you'd let me know."

Suggestion to Rid the Kitchen of Ants

Dept. of Agriculture Gives Plan to Combat Summer Cottage Pest of Ants.

"I would enjoy the summer at the cottage just twice as much were it not for those pesky ants," more than one lady has said. What the men say cannot be printed in a family journal. The Dominion Department of Agriculture is forward this week with a suggestion in regard to the ant pest. The article from the Dept. is as follows:—

Although the majority of the Canadian species of ants live in colonies or nests outdoors, they frequently cause annoyance by invading kitchens and pantries in search of food. One of the most common and troublesome household species, known as the red ant, or Pharaoh's ant, confines itself entirely to heated buildings such as bakeries, restaurants and houses. This tiny, reddish-yellow ant had its origin in the tropics. The common large black carpenter ant, although normally an outdoor species nesting principally in decaying wood, frequently occurs in dwellings, particularly frame houses and summer cottages, and may cause injury to woodwork as well as annoyance by its presence. A third common species is the small yellowish-brown lawn ant, which nests in lawns and gardens, often entering houses in search of food.

Ants are social in their habits, and live together in colonies. The majority of the ants in a colony and the ones most commonly seen, are wingless undeveloped female workers, which are incapable of reproducing their kind. Each colony also possesses one or more true females or "queens" which are responsible for the generation of new individuals. The white, helpless, larvae and pupae which develop from eggs laid by the "queen" are cared for by the workers which may be seen transporting them to a place of safety when the nest is threatened with danger. Ants which enter dwellings will feed on many kinds of foodstuffs, but are particularly fond of sweet and fatty substances.

The most satisfactory material so far discovered for destroying ants is sodium fluoride, sold by druggists in the form of a fine white powder. This powder should be scattered or dusted lightly in places frequented by the ants and left undisturbed until the insects have disappeared. As sodium fluoride is somewhat poisonous care should be taken to prevent children or pets from gaining access to it.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By ELSIE PIERCE
FAMOUS BEAUTY EXPERT

LYDA ROBERT'S happy disposition dispels gloom and sadness. No drooping of spirits or sagging of muscles when she is about. With the pajamas designed by Charles Lemaire she is wearing a filigree lavaliere listed as a precious possession of her mother's.

"UP"—A BEAUTY BYWORD

That little word "up"—have you ever stopped to think how important it is in the language of beauty? Practically everything we do, or rather everything we should do for beauty's sake is "up."

We must all agree that our thoughts are closely related to our looks. What we think etches tell-tale lines in our faces. Our expression mirrors our moods and our thoughts, try as hard as we sometimes do to conceal them. A woman given to moods of melancholia cannot possibly look bright and cheerful. Even if she feigns laughter it is forced, and if she tries to act or look gay an inner light or rather the lack of it tells the world that she is insincere. Her eyes fail to light "up" and her mouth corners fail to turn "up."

That is why we must first think "up" in order to look it. Given a good foundation of health, please value it as the most precious possession, the greatest beauty asset you can have. Keep it "up." Lacking perfect health, let a physician help you find out what you need to build it "up."

Then, with health as a foundation, keep your thoughts happy—"up." Smile and automatically the corners of your mouth pull "up." And what wonders that does for your spirits and your beauty as well. What a favourable reaction it wins from those around you too. It's the tried and true—smile and the world smiles with you.

Poise and Posture
Perfect posture and beauty are an inseparable combination. In the matter of posture that little word pops up again. The whole secret of graceful, beautiful carriage is "up." Stand up.
