TOO MANY BUGS

A boy of twelve years of age visiting in the North last week delivered this sage opinion:-"There's nothing wrong with the North Country, except that there are too many bugs here." It was pointed out to the lad that while the North might have different kinds of bugs to those that flourish in the South, as a matter of fact there were really more bugs and queerer bugs in the South than in the North. The young visitor was courteous and not altogether unbelieving, but he still held there were too many bugs in this country. Even when he was told that the North had no potato bugs while the South has several for each potato, the boy was not sidetracked from his original observation. "There are too many bugs," he maintained.

This young man has wisdom beyond his years or it may be wisdom in keeping with his years. There are too many bugs, and something should be done about it. Even the glorious North has bugs that would be more appreciated if they did not exist. The South is over-run with bugs, male and female, large and small, human and otherwise. Just at present North Bay is suffering from an invasion of shad flies. North Bay will agree that these bugs are a nuisance, even though they may not endanger human life to any greater extent that the anaemic wolves of Sault Ste. Marie.

It was David Harum who said:—"A reasonable amount of fleas is good for a dog. They keep him from brooding too much on being a dog!" It may be that North Bay may be able to find similar consolation in its shad flies. While the shad flies last North Bay will have little time to worry over the hockey rink that will not materialize, or to brood over some of its municipal problems.

Probably the most annoying bug of the day is the one known as the communist bug. This bug originated in Germany and was imported into Russia on the red shirt of a politician. Consignments of this bug have been regularly sent over from Russia to Canada, and every effort has been made to breed the bug here. There are a few odd specimens of the bug actually bred in Canada, but the most of the communist bugs are those exported at adult age by the Soviet. Timmins has a number of these imported bugs, and if there were only one or two, the young lad from the South would be right to say: - "Too many bugs!"

The communist bug is easy to identify from its red colour and the size of its mouth. All communist bugs are "drones"-parasites-living on the backs of the workers. They cause more trouble and misery to the workers than the cooties did to the soldiers in the trenches.

There are some people who pretend to believe that the way to exterminate the communist bug is to feed it on honey and cream. This idea is chiefly held by those who have never had any communist bugs preying on them. A communist bug may be very funny while it is making somebody else scratch, but the itch that a live communist bug gives the ordinary man who has to . suffer its bites does not tend to philosophy or tolerance.

The boy from the South is right! There are too many bugs-especially communist bugs-and the people would do well to exterminate the pests before they become established and acclimatized. They serve no useful purpose, create a disagreeable odor, irritate people unnecessarily and cause considerable damage

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Last week The Advance made editorial com plaint about the destructive dust on the roads of the North. The complaint was heeded in high quarters. The rains came down and motorists during the week-end were saved from the curse of dust on the roads. It made heavier travelling for the automobile but easier breathing and better seeing for the drivers. It pays to advertise.

The complaint about the dust also mentioned the fact that the dust itself was due in large measure to the bad condition of the roads, and that the said bad condition of the roads also added very materially to the danger created by the dust, With higher quarters looking after the dust curse it would be well for slightly lower quarters to consider what may be done to remedy the bad road conditions, so that driving may be reasonably safe for the public using the roads. At the present time there are practically no men working on maintenance of Northern roads. This is surely poor business policy in view of the millions invested in Northern roads. Common sense would investment in roads by keeping the highways in decent repair. This is apart from any consideration that should be shown the travelling public who pay for the roads as well as use them.

one part of the appeal. Will the powers that reign Review of Dominion

It is beyond question that it pays to advertise The rains that settled the dust prove that. If the lower quarters do not see about the proper repair of the roads in the North, it will not prove that it does not pay to advertise. It will only prove that while The Advance is read and heeded in the highest quarters, it is not in such good standing in lower places.

But in any case, something should be done to Statistics. The Canada Year Book repair and improve Northern roads, used by both Liberals and Conservatives, not to mention C. C. to-date account of the natural re-F'ers and hunger marchers travelling by truck.

The Toronto Globe weeps tears of joy and gratification because a prisoner in one of Canada's penitentiaries was allowed out recently to attend the funeral of his sister. It is admitted to be a serious hardship when a man is unable to attend the funeral of his sister or other near relative. At the same time it is doubtful if it is wise policy to remove all hardships from the lives of justly Time Zones in Canada, which is of convicted prisoners. The Advance sees no cause for joy in the fact that criminals may have a more comfortable and carefree life than honest and sion of the Representation Act of 1933 law-abiding folks. It is not so long ago that The Advance learned of an honest and honourable electoral districts which will return young man who was unable to attend the funeral representatives to Farliament at the of his dearly loved mother.
