

Spode's Jewel with BILLINGSLEY ROSE

Truly a gem of rare beauty, consisting of the famous Billingsley Rose, a rose spray, hand-painted on each piece in natural colours. The mould, Arabesque, is a delicately lacy design of the Italian Renaissance.

The whole is a pattern of exquisite charm, artistically shaped and is particularly effective when used with lace table coverings.

Spode is known and appreciated the world over by lovers of the "finer things." We suggest it as a distinguished appointment for your own home or as a gift of exceeding fine taste for someone else.

the town that there was nothing left for the province. In 1908, the town's share was not to exceed one-third of the liability under the section, except in the case of Cobalt, where the act made it one-half.

In 1917, the act was altered again, to read that no income tax was to be payable to any municipality in excess of 1 1/2 per cent. of the amount of profits, in no case to exceed $35,000.

In 1927, another change was made, and this is the one now under discussion as to meaning.

Apply to Legislature?

Mr. Finlay advised the council to apply to the legislature for a change in the act if they wished to get more taxes. Since the act had been interpreted by the province and municipalities since 1927 to mean one thing, there was no reason now for a change, he said.

"They interpreted it to suit themselves," said Mr. Bartleman.

Recent changes in the assessment act did not include this case at all, Mr. Finlay said, but applied to companies other than mining companies.

Speaking of the collection of income tax, Mr. Finlay said:

"I would like any of you gentlemen to tell me how you would have collected it unless the mines had voluntarily paid it."

"I grant you, we couldn't have collected it," said the chairman.

Taxes Go Up With Profits

In introducing the case for the town, Mr. Kester remarked that he had no quarrel with the historical review given, but disagreed with the "double taxation" item, pointing out that double taxation is common, since an income tax is paid to the dominion government as well as to the town.

Taxation goes up, he said, as profits or income become greater. That is the principle on which taxation of to-day is based, he claimed. In that case, following the reasoning of Mr. Finlay, if it is the government's intention that taxes should go up as profits increase in every other instance, it is logical to apply the same thing to mines, and the section of the act should read as the town has this year taken it to read, he argued.

"The case has never come up in court before," said Mr. Kester, "as to what the interpretation of the act is, but it is very clear when the principle of taxation is considered." The claim of the mine would have the whole principle of taxation reversed, he said.

Both arguments seemed logical, the court agreed, but the councillors felt that a judge should hear the arguments and make a decision.

Minor Cases Heard

Several minor appeals were heard. Some appeals from income taxes were allowed, when it was proven that parties had become married in the last year or so; several tax bills were written off on the appeals of widows; and some minor alterations made.

Ontario Now has All "Hunger Marchers"

Four Hundred Men Said to Have Crossed the Manitoba Boundary on Tuesday. Plans Uncertain.

A despatch from Toronto yesterday says that all the "hunger marchers" on the actual march seemed to be within the boundaries of Ontario. Quebec has been stopping all attempts to "hunger march" by trucks out of that province and there have been arrests by wholesale in the province. Already a number of the would-be leaders of the so-called march from the province of Quebec are serving time in jail for their breach of the law, while others are being held for trial. Despite some firmer words from Premier Hepburn the "hunger marchers" apparently are able to outwit and defy the authorities in Ontario.

On Tuesday after they had been duly warned by Premier Hepburn and by Hon. Mr. McQuestin, Minister of Highways, about 400 of the hunger marchers from Winnipeg crossed the Ontario line on Tuesday. They said they intended to march to Kenora where they would make their next stop on their way to Ottawa.

The men abandoned busses and passenger cars at the Manitoba boundary, and crossed into Ontario on foot, after they were warned by the Ontario Department of Highways they would not be permitted to enter the province by automobile. They planned to march the fifty miles to Kenora on foot. Royal Canadian Mounted Police escorted them to the border.

The Dominion Government did not contemplate interfering with the marchers unless provincial authorities requested it, or action of the marchers required it, Premier R. B. Bennett said in Ottawa Tuesday night. He could not see what good purpose could be achieved by the march.

The Winnipeg trekkers paid for transportation to the Ontario border by funds collected in a tag day at Winnipeg Saturday. Plans for moving on to Port Arthur, after the marchers reach Kenora, were undecided.

Meanwhile, a Toronto army of marchers about 450 strong planned to leave the city Wednesday on the first lap of the journey they expect will take them to Ottawa. Following a parade from Queen's Park Tuesday the trekkers held a rally in Riverdale Park, where officers were elected and the contingent addressed by leaders. The men were warned to observe law and order. The Toronto marchers sought permission for a parade Wednesday, and hoped to leave the city in parade formation. Tuesday night trekkers canvassed Toronto for food supplies to place in three trucks allowed them by the Ontario Government.

Following a tag day in North Bay Tuesday, a group of marchers, estimated at 150, was expected to leave that city Wednesday.

No organized marchers were reported from Quebec, where trials of trekkers who attempted to leave the province were still under way in Montreal.

Police were withdrawn from Valcartier following the collapse of a strike at that relief camp.

In Regina, Hon. T. C. Davis, Saskatchewan Attorney-General, awaited word from Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice at Ottawa, before announcing the personnel of a Royal Commission to investigate clashes between strikers from Alberta and British Columbia and police some weeks ago.

Meanwhile, trial of strikers held in Regina was at a standstill.

TO ERECT MODERN $20,000 3-STORY HOTEL AT RED LAKE

Reports from Red Lake are to the effect that Daniel McGillis, of Winnipeg, is all ready to erect a 3-story modern hotel at Red Lake. The structure will cost $20,000. It will have 32 guest rooms and be up-to-date in every particular, except in the matter of fire-proof construction, thought it will be made as safe as possible in this respect also.

Alberta Election May Delay Dominion Contest

Word from Ottawa yesterday was to the effect that the announcement by Hon. Geo. Hoadley, acting premier of Alberta, that the general elections in that province will be held on Thursday, Aug. 22nd, may possibly have some effect on the date of the Dominion elections. Just why this should be is not stated, but it may be surmised that the two elections should not be held too close together.

Reports in regard to the Dominion election are that it will likely be held in September. Until this week, indeed, it seemed to be agreed in Ottawa that it was a September election, though the guesses as to the exact date ranged from Monday, Aug. 26th, all the way through September and even as late as Oct. 7th and 14th.

In the meantime the work of preparing and printing the Dominion voters' list is progressing very favourably. It is understood that they are almost ready now and will be in ample time for even an early September election.

From present indications there will be an election this month, next month, and in September. Prince Edward Island goes to the polls July 23rd, that is, Tuesday of next week. The Alberta election is announced for Aug. 22nd. The most likely date for the Dominion election is said to be September.

Parents Should Keep Boys at Home Nights

Whole Vanload of Boys Taken Home from the Rink Last Night. Unless Boys Kept off Streets Parents to be Summoned.

Recently the police have had complaints about boys being on street after the curfew and efforts are being made to remedy the matter. Unless the parents look after their boys they will be summoned to court under the curfew bill by-law.

Last night the police had a call to the rink where some young boys were created considerable noise and trouble. The result of the police visit to the rink was a vanload of boys who were later delivered to their homes and the parents warned that if such a procedure were necessary again the parents would have to answer in police court.

For the sake of the boys themselves, they have to be kept off the streets at night. Home is the proper place for them after the curfew. There is nothing good for them roaming the streets at night or congregating near the rink or other places of amusement. Boys allowed out at night almost invariably drift into some sort of mischief. Sometimes it is petty theft, often it is begging in the effort to secure money to gain admittance to some form of entertainment, too often it is some more serious form of crime.

Parents will be helping themselves and their boys by seeing that the lads are home at night. It would be far better in every way for the parents to attend to this, rather than leave it to the police. It should be noted, however, that to prevent disturbances, to avoid petty thefts, to keep down tendency to break-ins and other forms of crime, the police are determined to keep the boys off the streets at night—for the sake of the boys, no less than for the sake of the community. Parents will do well to co-operate to the limit of their ability.

Italy Continues Plans for War with Ethiopia

Word from Europe this morning says that Italy is continuing to pour troops and airplanes and weapons of war into Africa in readiness for war with Ethiopia. At the same time Ethiopia is drilling her warriors in preparation for the expected hostilities. At the same time Britain continues efforts to avert war, despite the fact that all previous efforts have been termed futile and appear to deserve the term from results. A special session of the Council of the League of Nations is said to be called for July 25th, to consider the Italian-Ethiopia crisis, but Italy claims to have had no notice of such a meeting. It will be something like a miracle if war is averted. The danger, clearly seen by Britain, is that if Italy and Ethiopia start open warfare there is grave danger of other nations being dragged into the conflict on one side or the other.

Premier Warns Reds that Hunger March is Foolish

Hunger march leaders appealed in vain to Premier Hepburn for assistance on Monday, hearing only the Premier's opinion that their on-to-Ottawa trek was futile and foolish procedure.

They gained one minor concession. They will be permitted to use three trucks for the transport of supplies and as Red Cross vans for the treatment of marchers who fall by the wayside. But, the premier warned the deputations that came to his office, "If we find that any marchers are being conveyed in trucks the licenses of those trucks will be cancelled at once."

Mr. Hepburn and Hon. Harry Nixon, provincial secretary, turned a deaf ear to the delegates' plea for billeting and food for the marchers assembling in Toronto. W. G. Harris, one of the leaders, explained that the Toronto Board of Control had refused to listen to their plea.

"I won't interfere with the autonomy of the City of Toronto. I am not going to assist you in any way. Your march is futile and useless, and I warn you, that you have lost public sympathy," the Premier said. "The mayor of Toronto swings pretty well to the left, and you have lost even his sympathy."

Any attempt of the trekkers to hold a parade will be stopped promptly, Mayor Simpson announced on Monday. "If they flout that rule they will be regarded as revolutionaries and will be dealt with as such," he said.

Council Court Upholds Assessment

Finlay went on, the first act having to do with taxing of mines was passed in the legislature. The province was seeking revenue and so was the municipality of Cobalt. The "royalty" tax on profits of mines after certain deductions was instituted then. The municipal income tax, provided for at the time, was to be deducted from the amount payable in royalty to the province. "If we still had that section," said Mr. Finlay, "there would be no question of exemption."

When Cobalt got into financial difficulties, the act was altered. Such a high tax was levied on the mines by

Pretty Wedding at St. Anthony's Church

Rev. Fr. LaSalle Officiates at His First Marriage Ceremony when his Sister is Wedded.

A quiet but pretty summer wedding took place this morning at St. Anthony's Church when Alexandrine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. LaSalle, 5 Birch street north, became the bride of John DeHaire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeHaire of L'Orignal. Father LaSalle, of St. Anthony's, brother of the bride, performed the marriage ceremony. It was the first wedding at which the young priest had officiated.

Only the immediate friends of the family were present at the church at eight o'clock when Mr. LaSalle gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white organdie dress with a lace skirt, and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. During the mass, Mrs. E. Pelletier and Miss E. Poitras sang solos.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, at which a large number of the popular young couple's friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. DeHaire leave to-day for a two weeks' trip to Ottawa and Montreal, prior to their departure for Hearst, where they will make their home. The groom is on the staff of the Imperial Bank there.
