

Porkies Even Play-off Series by Taking Macs 10 to 3

Hockey Stars in Politics

What's the bug that is biting seasoned hockey stars and sending them to the stump in political campaigns. Can it be that the rough and tumble jollity of winter leaves their summers rather tame so that they seek an outlet for surplus energy in the political lists? Anyway, here are three lads who have made a name for themselves in the puck-chasing sport who are now active electioneers. Eddie Shore (RIGHT, burly Boston Bruin defenceman, and Dick Irvin (TOP LEFT), coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, have stumped the province of Alberta on behalf of Liberal Leader Hewson, in the provincial elections there. Hugh Plaxton (LOWER RIGHT), former Varsity Grads and Montreal Maroon ace, runs as a Mackenzie King candidate in one of Toronto's federal ridings.

Married Ball Players to Play Single Men in Benefit

Norm Hann still in Hospital, But Making Good Progress to Recovery. Tickets on Sale Now for Game Next Week-end.

The secret will be out next week-end—the baseball fans, particularly the female element, will be able to find out which of the boys they've been cheering for are married, and which are single.

For the home-lovers of the three district baseball teams are going to take on their more fortunate brethren in a real game of ball. It's in a good cause, too. Norm Hann (who will root from his bed in the hospital for the married men) underwent an operation not long ago, and his team-mates and opponents offered to stage this benefit game.

Norm is making fine progress to recovery now, but he'll be laid up for some weeks yet and won't be able to work, of course. The fans remember him well as the tall, slim, well-tanned young man who played a nice game for McIntyre all season. You know, the fellow with the smile.

Anyways, they're selling tickets now at two-bits each and from the way they're selling, it should be one of those S.R.O. affairs.

Who'll be on the married men's team? The line-ups will be announced in Thursday's Advance, but if you want a sure bet—put your dough on the family men. A good ball player can always get a wife.

Third Playoff Game at South Porcupine

Fourth Game also at South Porcupine on Wednesday Night, Should be Most Exciting of Season.

Porkies get their big chance to-night to get the jump on the Macs in the Temiskaming Baseball League playoffs. They did a good job on Friday at McIntyre and on their own home diamond, they have an even better break. The game is scheduled to start at five o'clock, in case any extra innings are necessary.

From the way the two teams have been playing lately, it looks as if the two best pitchers will face each other to-night—Wood for the Macs and Cox for Porkies. The rest of the line-ups will probably be about the same as Friday's.

Win or lose, Porkies meet McIntyre at South Porcupine on Wednesday. In what should be the game of the season. No matter how to-day's game goes, both teams will be out there fighting day after to-morrow.

Kirkland Wants to Get Into Playoffs

Willing to Pay T. B. L. Entry Fee to Meet Winner of Local Playoffs. No Decision till Wednesday at Least.

Now that the T.B.L. is nearly over for the year, Kirkland has decided they'd like to enter a team and are willing to pay the entry fee. They'd like to play off with the winners of this group for the right to meet the E.O.A.B.A. down Ottawa way.

President S. C. Piatas told the Advance on Friday that the matter was being left entirely up to the winning team. Had it been known sooner that Kirkland wanted to come in, all would have been well, but they turned down their chance at the beginning of the season. In other words, the T.B.L. winners don't have to meet Kirkland's champion mine team before going down below, but they can if they want to. So the whole thing's up in the air just now and will be until Wednesday night at least.

Make Macs Look Easy in Their Own Back Yard; Get 12 Singles

Callery Fans 13, But Team Blows in Sixth Under Barrage of Hits, Senese Steadier in Box Hits Well. Porkies Play Best Game of Season with League's Youngest Pitcher to Back.

Porkies, playing better ball than they have all season, evened up the T. B. L. play-off series with McIntyre when they gave the league leaders their first real trimming of the year. The score was 10-3.

The sixth inning was the one that beat McIntyre. The Porkies all had a batting and started their second round before being retired. Seven runs, six hits, and two expensive errors by the Macs, combined with an uncanny base running facility gave the Porkies a lead they were careful to protect.

To-night's game at South End will go a long way toward taking the series.

Even up to that bad sixth, Porkies had been leading 2-1, and the Macs had been playing first class ball, too.

Senese Steady, Not Sensational

Dominick Senese, on the mound for Porkies was not sensational, but pitched nice steady ball and refused to be rattled. He struck out six, allowed only one walk and five scattered hits. Fred Callery, pitching for the Macs, was more sensational since he fanned 13 Porcupine batters but the three walks he allowed and the 12 bunched hits were too much of a load for the infield to carry.

How well under control the game was, is shown by the low number of outfield flies caught—two—both by Porkies. Porkies did get a couple of long hits, but they were far over the fielders' heads. The Macs only got one real outfield hit and that was in the eighth when Osborn slammed a triple out to left field, with only one down. He was held in his base.

Couldn't Go Wrong

Porkies played ball as if they were inspired. At least nine infield plays were made for outs that would otherwise be thought good for hits. Hot liners, grounders with a bad hop, flies between the infield and outfield, bunts and all were easy for Porkies on Friday. They couldn't go wrong. On the bases, they were just as tricky, stealing seven bags to the Macs three. Buck Thomas made the Macs look pretty slow in the sixth when he took advantage of their loose play and stole home, just after batting out a triple to deep right field. Two were out at the time and Chamberlain had a couple of strikes on him when Buck pulled his steal.

Consistent Hitting

Senese, in addition to pitching steady ball, was a consistent hitter. Of the four times he was at bat, he got a single and a double, made first on an error once and scored two runs. He and Karl Schultz, the other end of the battery, worked nicely all day. Schultz had the Macs leery about stealing and though he picked off only one at second that was enough to show the losers that taking chances didn't pay. He was injured twice during the game, once in the seventh inning when a foul tip from Wood's bat caught him on an unprotected part of his left leg, and again in the ninth, when MacDonald, last man up, fouled one that caught the catcher on the side of the neck. Had the ball struck just an inch or so nearer "centre," it would doubtless have meant a serious throat injury. As it was, the hurt was painful enough. He finished off the game like a good soldier.

Both teams had short first innings—three up, three down, and in the second though the Porkies got two on without a hit, one was picked off at second on a fielder's choice and the other was left there as the side was retired.

Macs Score First

Macs got their first run in the second by smart play. Eddie Angrignon got the first hit of the day, over third base. He stole second but was held there as Quinn hit to short. Wood dumped one out the first base line to let both runners advance. Gilbert's attempt rolled out toward Senese, and Angrignon scored on the play. MacDonald fanned.

Two errors in the third made the Macs, look bad. Janette had fanned when Senese put one out to short. Malloy fumbled and Senese was safe. The next play should have been an easy fielder's choice, as Cattarello grounded to third. But Osborn threw wild to second and both runners were safe. Wagner dropped one over second to load the bags and Schultz' only hit of the day, some distance off first, scored Senese. Gilbert picked up quickly and pegged a nice one to the plate that would have caught Cattarello had not MacDonald dropped it. Callery and Cybulski disposed of the next two up.

Nice Infield Work

For the next two innings, both teams played superb ball in the infield. Wagner went back into the sun to take a fly of Malloy's. Senese stopped a hot one from Osborn for an out at first, in the Macs third. Cybulski took a grounder from Chamberlain about midway between his base and the pitching box and beat the runner for the best out of the Porkies' fourth. Hammill had to go 'way back off first base to make a catch on a fly from Cybulski. Wagner pulled off another sensational catch back of short as Angrignon tried to drop one there in the fourth.

Callery started off well in the sixth by fanning Chamberlain, but after that he walked Hammill and then the Porkies began to find him. Four singles in a row—Janette, Senese, Cattarello and Wagner, was too much for the Macs. Wagner had the team badly balled up through an accidental play and it took the Macs a few minutes to get re-organized. Hammill had scored as Gilbert was slow in returning Senese's grounder over first. Janette and Senese were on when Cattarello bunted and made first, scoring Janette and putting Senese on third. Carlo stole second. Wagner hit between third and short, scoring Senese, and he started for second but Cattarello was still there and he started back to first. Carlo started for third when Cybulski abandoned the attempt to catch Wagner, fearing that a run might be scored before the runner was trapped. Cy started across the diamond and threw wild to Osborn, letting Cattarello in. Murray's attempt rolled out toward Callery and he was safe at first, Wagner scoring. Schultz went out at first, but Thomas' triple to right field brought in Murray. Thomas' steal home brought in the last run of the inning, just before Chamberlain fanned.

Not Big Enough

The Macs were determined to make their sixth a big inning too, and although they did get two runs off two hits, Porkies didn't seem worried. Callery had been out at first when Malloy dropped a Texas leaguer over short. Osborn got the only walk Senese gave all day. Cybulski grounded one to Callery to force Malloy at third. Osborn stole third by Cy second, both scoring as Angrignon lifted one to left field. Eddie was caught stealing to finish off the innings.

Porkies raised their tally one higher in the ninth when Chamberlain singled and scored on Hammill's triple that sailed over Angrignon's head. Cybulski made the spectacular play of the inning by taking a fly of Thomas' that looked good for at least a single. Cy turned his back and sprinted, reached out with his gloved hand and caught while off balance. Murray, at centre field for Porkies made a smart catch on a fly by Cybulski, as he came up from deep centre to catch a few yards back of second. Wagner took a real liner from Angrignon to finish off the inning.

Getting Tough to Please

Temiskaming Baseball League fans are getting harder to satisfy with every game that passes. Somebody had the nerve to say after Porkies had worked like the very old Dickens to win on Friday and had succeeded in giving McIntyre the first real trimming the Macs had all season that Ike Solomon didn't care about winning it. They must be giving Ike credit for being slicker than anybody else in the business after seeing a game like that one. And they couldn't have been sitting near the dug-out—that's certain. And they didn't stay around the park afterwards to hear what the McIntyre manager had to say to the members of the Porkies team and their manager. "Good game, fellows," said Ike, with just a touch of sorrow in his voice; "you certainly played swell ball."

Ike may not have been particular about a couple of the regular schedule games, but he wants his team to take absolutely no chances about these play-offs—you can bank on that. There wasn't a man on the McIntyre team on Friday who wasn't playing the best game he knew how. The game goes for Porkies—and then some.

Will Prove Something

This married man versus the single men benefit game next week-end should prove something—better figure out yourself what it is when you see the game at the McIntyre park. It might show that the married men are smarter, and if so, were they smart before they got married or after? The pitching should be good on both sides, with the whole of the T.B.L. from which to choose.

Ouch!

Sore legs item: It seems that when an outside team play their first game at the McIntyre athletic field, they invariably end up with the calves of their legs aching like they never did before. The reason is this: They play all year on a hard field. The heels don't sink in, but when they step onto the mat-tress-like McIntyre pitch, the tendons and muscles of their legs are stretched till they are practically useless. It's a new exercise for the muscles and, they complain, with disastrous results.

Hundred Boys to Take Part in Kiwanis Swimming Meet

Final Twilight Track Meet to be Held Thursday. Chambers to Run in Labour Day Event. River Rats Mix with Snob Hill for Kiwanis Baseball Championship.

A hundred boys of all ages will take part in the big Kiwanis swimming meet on Wednesday of this week, when the swimming programme for the summer will be brought to a close. There are races of all kinds for beginners and experts in all classes; the instructor will give a demonstration swimming lesson for the benefit of those who might like to teach others to swim; and good prizes have been secured from the proceeds of the ticket sale.

It's an event such as has never been held in Timmins before. It should show clearly just what wonders have been accomplished by the Kiwanis summer sport programme and how much safer the swimming spots in this vicinity have been made for the youth of the district. Boys who know how to handle themselves in the water are a big asset to any swimming hole.

Twilight Meet Thursday

This Thursday evening's twilight track meet will include all the boys' races as follows:—

- Boys 6 and 7 years—25 yard dash and sack race.
- Boys 8 and 9 years—50 yard dash and sack race.
- Boys 10 and 11 years—75 yard dash high jump, broad jump and hop-step-and-jump.
- Boys under 14—100 yard dash, high jump, broad jump and hop-step-and-jump.
- Boys under 17—100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, quarter mile run, high jump, broad jump, hop-step-and-jump.

From this twilight meet the boys may choose whichever two events in which they are most proficient.

Labour Day Programme Good

Interest is running high in the open events, and it is expected that entries will be received from Cochrane, Iroquois Falls, McIntyre and Achilles teams. Frank Chambers of McIntyre team, who defeated Dave Komonen so decisively on Civic Holiday has accepted an invitation to run in the open mile. Cups have been donated for a mile relay and it is expected that McIntyre Achilles Club and Cochrane District A.Y.P.A. will enter teams.

River Rats Win

On Friday last the River Rats took a baseball game from the Scorpiions and in doing so qualified to meet the Snob Hill team on Labour Day for the league championship. The River Rats have steadily improved since the start-

Good Golfer Now, 16-Year-Old Timmins Boy Has Good Future in Game, After Showing Made in Annual Tourney Here. Second Year of Event Attracts Many More Entries.

Joe Guiseppi is this year's champion caddy at the Timmins Golf Club. In a caddies' tournament in which 29 of the boys entered, Joe came out on top of the championship flight, defeating Hector Dominico, last year's champion, in the 18-hole final match. In the semi-final Joe had taken Bill Sangster out of the play while Dominico eliminated S. Guiseppi.

Guiseppi is just 16 years old but is already a good golfer. This is only the tournament's second year and Joe was ill last year when the play came off. He's been caddying at the club for the past five years. First prize in the championship flight is the cup, which goes up for annual competition; while the runner-up was presented with a Hagen spoon.

In the consolation, in which all those who were eliminated in the first round of the championship flight took part, Lloyd Colton came out on top. He defeated Marcel Barbary in the final match. In the semi-finals Barbary had eliminated R. Romualdi, while Colton had taken out J. MacIsaac. Colton's prize was a Forgan niblick, and Barbary's a monogrammed belt.

Of the fourteen entered in the first flight—those whose scores were lower in the qualifying round—Henry Bernard won out, defeating Stan Bailey in the final match. In the semi-finals, Bailey outclassed R. Ferrari as Bernard won from W. Valchuk. Bernard is now the proud possessor of a Hagen putter, and Bailey a monogrammed belt.

Game Laws of Province Enforced by Court Cases

Effort is being continued by the game department officials to enforce the law. Not only is this true in this particular section but also in other areas of the North. Some days ago two men were convicted before Magistrate Tucker at Cochrane in connection with breaches of the Ontario game and fisheries laws.

For killing a moose out of season, Albert Boulger, O'Brien township, was given suspended sentence. The charge was laid by Overseer W. H. Martin, Kapuskasing. The moose carcass was seized. On an illegal fishing charge, Fred Chumner, Ansonville, was fined $50 and costs or three months. Overseer E. O'aveson investigated.

Frisch Does a Dance But Moore Gets Base

Joe Moore, slugging Giant outfielder, opened the second game of New York's crucial double header against the Cardinals with a single to centre, whence he advanced to second on a passed ball by catcher Delaney. In the picture, Moore is shown arriving safely at the keystone sack, as Frankie Frisch performed a few fancy steps in his efforts to stop Delaney's peg from going beyond the infield. Durocher backing up Frisch, leaped up and stopped the ball, thus holding Moore to second. The Giants lost the second game, 3-0, after having won the first, 6-4.
