Canada Considers Blueberry Culture

Vision Seen of a Thriving New Industry to Add to That of Wild Blueberry Picking.

The blueberry industry is a notable one in certain sections of the North, and brings in considerable money. Areas in the North covered with blueberry bushes not only produce a good revenue most years, but also provide employment that is much appreciated. For the most part while the blueberry patches in this part of the North are privately owned they are not intensively cultivated. However, the industry helps the North.

Now there is suggestion that Canada may take up the culture of blueberries on a large scale. According to information from Ottawa the idea of blueberry culture has been under consideration for some time. As one newspaper phrases it, considerable interest is being evinced in the possibilities of the introduction of the commercial culture of blueberries into the Dominion. In the United States blueberry culture is a new and thriving industry.

At the present time in Canada there are three experimental plantings in Nova Scotia and a small planting of cultivated varieties at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. From the work done in Nova Scotia, particularly at the Dominion Experimental Station at Kentville, during the past few years, it would appear that blueberry culture in Canada offers considerable possibilities to the grower. Most of the varieties grown are hardy, comparatively free from disease and pests, and properly handled may be depended upon to give a good yield of large berries.

It has also been reported from Yarmouth, N.S., that a small consignment of cultivated blueberries shipped from one of the plantings there brought 45 cents per quart during the past year.

There are certain conditions to successful culture of course. The soil for blueberries, for example, is important, and it is necessary to have rigorous new wood produced every year. The drainage must be good, and at the same time retain a liberal moisture supply.

How these main points are best dealt with, together with the latest knowledge on planting, preparation for planting, cultivation, fertilizer, pruning, and propagation, are usefully explained in a booklet "Blueberry Culture," just issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Notable Recovery Seen in Old Country

Morley Smith Impressed by Activities in Britain. Slum Clearance is Noteworthy. Business Good.

Morley Smith, president of Dominion Stores Limited, who has just returned from a motor trip of several weeks throughout England and Scotland, observing chain store operations there, is very enthusiastic about the evidence of genuine and sustained recovery he saw in the Old Land.

While a number of depressed areas still persist, states Mr. Smith, such as the Manchester area, the Newcastle-Tyne area and some others, the greater part of the staunch old island appears well on its way back to a well-based and well-deserved prosperity.

Business in London is good. The south of England is, on the whole, quite prosperous. Scotland is swinging back into more comfortable times. The motor industry is having a magnificent year. Almost everywhere one goes, hundreds of new and modern houses are in evidence, built or being built. Very few of the new houses have the usual array of chimney-pots, since they are being provided with central heating systems. Slum clearances have been undertaken on an extensive scale.

It makes a Canadian very proud of his British ancestry, said Mr. Smith, to see how the British people, stubbornly refusing defeat and making heavy sacrifices to balance budgets and to recapture business, are steadily regaining their prosperity. One needs only to rub shoulders with the everyday Scotsman and Englishman there to understand why these magnificent peoples, while they may lose the earlier battles, are sure to win the last one. They are overcoming the depression, not by any artificial or spectacular methods, but by the application of common sense combined with their steady temperaments, their business integrity and their indomitable "will to win."

Great changes have been made and are in progress in Great Britain, concluded Mr. Smith, but their people recognize the wisdom of gradual, evolutionary methods in preference to hazardous revolutionary panaceas.

OLIVIA DIONNE SAID TO WISH TO BREAK CONTRACT

Charging that a group of "chiselers" had persuaded the Dionne parents to cast him aside for an opportunity to make money, G. Leo Kervin, Olivia Dionne's manager, stated on Saturday that under no circumstances would he "sacrifice" his contract. Overtures had been made to him by Dionne's solicitors with a view to dissolving Kervin's contract with the father of the quintuplets.

"I could have made plenty of money for the Dionnes had I disregarded their real motive, the regaining of control of their children. I turned down numerous contracts so as not to publicize the parents to the detriment of our real aim," Kervin stated.

Ontario to Impose General Income Tax

Machinery to be Set up by Next Session of Legislature. Dominion May do Collecting.

Creation of an income tax department for the province got under way at the parliament buildings with officials of the department of municipal affairs drafting tentative policies which will become effective with enactment of legislation at a fall session of the Ontario Legislature immediately after the federal general election.

With the abolition of the income tax as far as municipalities are concerned, the earlier plan of the government was to assume full relief costs to compensate many cities, towns and townships for the loss of this valuable source of revenue.

It was indicated to-day, however, when the initial machinery for the tax was started that out of the income tax collected by the province, large lump sums will be given to the municipalities and each one will administer its relief out of this.

Wealthy Escape Tax
The inauguration of a municipal income tax will place all municipalities on the same basis. At the present time, the municipal income tax is principally confined to the cities and larger towns of the province. Many wealthy people have moved into suburbs to live, although earning their livelihood in a city. By this means they have escaped payment of municipal income tax.

The province plans to collect upwards of $10,000,000 by the new provincial income tax. Out of this new revenue, it is the desire of the government to pay the great part of present relief costs. It will almost all be passed on to the municipalities of the province, in relation to their relief costs, with the government retaining about $1,000,000 to add to its consolidated revenue fund.

It was indicated by a most reliable Queen's Park authority to-day that the new tax had been discussed with federal Liberal leaders and it had been arranged that if the Liberals are returned, the federal government will collect the tax for the province at the same time as they are collecting the Dominion income tax and the whole

SONGS OF CHILDHOOD

I want some more cee-ree-ull!
I want it now!
What kind of service
Is this, anyhow?
Oatmeal or squeakies
Snapprels or rice
I don't care what it is,
It skwushes so nice!
I want some more cee-ree-ull,
Mommie, I do!
Cee-ree-ull makes
A grand kind of goo,
It's fun just to stir it
And slop it and beat it,
And dig around in it...
And finally eat it.

Death of Prisoner at Burwash Still Mystery

Solution of the mystery surrounding the death of Alex Bachuk, 46 years old, Toronto prisoner at the Burwash Industrial Farm did not seem to be any nearer solution after the inquest held into his death. At the inquest there were 15 witnesses, most of them prisoners at the Farm. They were examined at the inquest but seemed to be unable to throw light on the murder. Eventually the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the late Alex Bachuk came to his death by a weapon in the hands of a person or persons unknown. It was the only verdict that could be given by a jury in view of the evidence and circumstances of the case.

While John Melnick, another Burwash prisoner, is charged with the murder of Bachuk, the jury did not have evidence to connect Melnick's name with the verdict and still be fair to the accused and to the evidence as given.

A statement alleged made to police by John Melnick, who is charged with Bachuk's death was read to Coroner J. S. McKessock. Melnick admitted fighting with Bachuk on the morning of his death, Aug. 21, and admitted striking Bachuk with a file, according to the statement.

A prisoner, Tony Warechuk, declared there was "bad feeling" between Bachuk and Melnick. He said Melnick had threatened "to fix" Bachuk. One morning in July Melnick spat in Bachuk's face, he said. Bachuk grabbed Melnick, but the latter struck him. Further trouble was avoided when a guard appeared.

"They were always seemingly mad at each other," he said.

Surgeons said a sharp cheek wound penetrated to the base of the skull, injuring the brain and causing a hemorrhage which resulted in death. Guard W. E. Owens said he left Bachuk in the planning mill. He returned five minutes later to find him on the floor.

Melnick, who was found missing a short time after the discovery of Bachuk's body and who was captured after an eight-day search, attended the inquest.

Encouraging Results of Work at Bidgood Kirkland

S. A. Pain, consulting engineer for Bidgood Kirkland Gold Mines, in a report to local officials states that in the No. 5 vein system at the 500-foot level, stope 505 has been carried to a height of 60 feet above the drift. This stope is currently giving about 20 per cent. of the millfeed and the grade has varied from $4 to $10.20 per ton. During the earlier part of the month some low-grade material was broken owing to slight faulting, but grade should hold at a higher level now, the report states, as the latest available assays from stope sampling are $9.90 over a width of 34 inches, $45.10 over 32 inches and $15.80 over 36 inches.

The 506 stope has been started on the newly-developed ore shoots in this vein and has been carried forward for a length of 140 feet and a height of 60 feet. An exploratory sub-drift is being driven to the east at a height of 32 feet. To date it has advanced some 20 feet with the following assays obtained: $14.40 over a width of 46 inches, $50.60 over 30 inches and $24.31 over 30 inches. According to present indications, Mr. Pain states, grade of ore will improve as the drift is advanced.

Development work during August has been held to a minimum with all efforts concentrated on the No. 5 vein, and it is now intended to resume work on the No. 18 vein, which is believed to be the extension of the Moffat-Hall vein.

Mixed Pedestrians with Presbyterians

Some Comment on Traffic and People. Praise for the Good Work of Traffic Officer.

Timmins, Ont., Sept 9th, 1935
Dear Sir:—On Saturday evening I stood on the corner of one of the streets waiting to cross over, and while I was waiting I watched the policeman. He seemed to have traffic control brought to a fine art. It was most interesting to watch him.

He blew his whistle a half dozen times in quick succession and I wondered why? Then I saw some men were trying to cross and that was his way of calling their attention.

It reminded me of something I read some years ago and which is supposed to be true. I thought perhaps it might interest you.

An Irishman just out from Ireland was standing on a street corner in New York city and was watching the traffic policeman.

At certain intervals the policeman would call: "Pedestrians," and then the people would cross over. The Irishman waited for an hour, then he walked over to the policeman and said: "You keep on allowing these Pedestrians to cross the street. When are you going to give the Catholics a chance?"

Then I saw a crowd outside of a store window, watching a man on the inside doing tricks with a Yo-Yo.

I have seen worse performances in the theatre than the one that man put up. It was very interesting. Suddenly there was a crash; two cars had collided; and the crowd melted from the window and gathered around the cars. Luckily there was no damage done, but it shows that in that respect our town was no different from the rest of the world. People will pass up the finest performance on the face of the earth to see a fire or an accident.

I remain,
Yours most sincerely,
A. J. Doling
