Canadian Chautauquas Here Oct. 7th to 11th

Programme for This Year's Series of Entertainments Promise to be Better than Ever. Plays Featured by Chautauquas This Season.

For many years the Chautauquas have been popular in Timmins, and any year these entertainments have missed the town many have regretted the loss. Ralph Elston, who has been secretary of the local Chautauquas committee for some years, reports that the Canadian Chautauquas will be here next month and that their programmes seem to be better than ever. The local committee play a sporting game in the bringing here of the Chautauquas. They guarantee a certain amount to the Chautauquas, that being the only way to secure these high-class programmes here. If the receipts do not reach the amount guaranteed, then the local committee have to make good the balance. In case, however, there is a surplus, the local committee simply hand over any profits to some worthy local cause. Last year there was a balance of over $120 and this amount was turned over very promptly to the Children's Aid Society. Accordingly, in buying tickets for the Chautauquas, you are doing a lot of things at the one time, including the following:—You are giving yourself the opportunity to hear remarkable programmes of entertainment at remarkably low cost; you are protecting the sponsors from loss entailed in bringing this notable series of concerts within the reach of all; you are giving others opportunity for first-class entertainment; you are helping a worthy cause. This year the Chautauquas are featuring the plays presented. There are three specials that have been notable successes in the big cities. These plays are: "Little Miss Spiffire," "Whitlin," and "The Big Idea." Another big feature of this year's Chautauquas is the famous Ladies' Dixie Jubilee Quartette. This group of talented artists from the Southland has captured the fancy of every audience this year. Of course, the children are always remembered by the Chautauquas and this year Gordon Forsyth's celebrated Marionettes will delight the youngsters here as they have done with children all over the continent. Other items on the programme will also make special appeal to the youngsters while being equally attractive to adults. This year Dr. A. D. Carpenter, the noted astronomer, will be one of the lecturers. He will deliver two lectures on the second day of Chautauquas here. There are a number of other special features for this year's Chautauquas. Programmes, booklets and other material will be available in a day or two to give full particulars of the big Chautauquas event here.

Louis Keeps All His Promises to Baer

Ninety Thousand Fight Fans See the Most Cruel Beating Administered at Yankee Stadium.

He promised no mercy; he promised to put Max Baer away in four rounds; he promised himself he'd never let up until the blond Californian was completely smashed. Joe Louis, the brown man from Detroit, kept those promises on Tuesday night when he administered the most cruel beating seen at the big Yankee Stadium for many and many a year. Baer, still not in the best of condition, tried to keep his famous smile even though his face was streaming blood. He even tried to keep going by doing a bit of his old-time clowning. But it was no go. In the fourth round, after two minutes and fifty seconds, he knew he was licked. Head bowed, his legs almost too weak to lift his heavy body upright, he knelt in the corner until the count of nine. Lefts, rights, to body, head—the grim negro let his barrage of blows go right from the first. The crowd of 90,000 people who paid more than a million dollars to see the fight, gasped as they saw every stinging blow make its mark. Baer took it on his feet for two rounds, but in the third he stumbled, fell, took a count of nine. Again at the end of the third, he went down and Jack Dempsey, his chief second, half carried him to his corner.

Big Swim at North Bay is Considered a "Washout"

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the opinion of a Timmins gentleman who made the trip to North Bay last Saturday to see the "big swim" between George Young and Marvin Nelson. He thought the affair a "washout," and the same idea is also expressed by the sports editor of The Sudbury Star. The comment in The Star is as follows:—"North Bay's big bid for a spot in the calcium glare of sportdom has come and gone. And from the comments of many Gateway City fans, particularly the sponsors of the classic "grudge" swim, they are glad it is over and it will be a long, long time before anything of the same nature is attempted in the terminal city again.

The touted, heralded and much-advertised affair between Marvin Nelson and George Young was just about a washout. While a thriller in many ways, from the standpoint of the actual racing, the event went decidedly sour and several of the incidents connected with the race did not give North Bay any good advertising. It appeared to be a case of North Bay sportdom turning thumbs down on the affair and there was a wholesale lack of co-operation so necessary to make it a success. Only about 200 paid their admission, while many others invaded the government wharf and simply refused to purchase tickets. They wanted something for nothing, and when it became known that no admission could be charged on the government wharf they went for it in a big way.

"The government wharfinger started something when he told the people they could go on the dock without paying. There were some who commended the wharfinger for his sense of duty in advising the people that tickets were not necessary, but there is a lingering doubt as to whether he did his duty when he allowed the earlier erection of temporary bleacher seats on the wharf, apparently knowing that admission tickets were being sold for these seats. It was an unfortunate decision and caused an awful headache for the promoters. The whole incident was unfortunate, only about $200 being realized from the affair, not even enough to pay the winner's purse. It was a big fizzle from a financial standpoint, and it is said a few ultra-enthusiastic promoter-sportsmen will be the ones to take it on the chin. Doubtless they did their best to give North Bay a major attraction, but so many ifs and ands entered into the proposition that it got completely out of hand. The attitude of the "something for nothing" public did not help any."

Alcohol Making as Industry for North

Proposition Said to have Been Submitted to Hon. Peter Heenan. Advantages Outlined.

For years the Abitibi Power & Paper Co. had engineers and other experts engaged in the work of seeking uses for the waste products of the paper mill business. The late John Vanier, for several years mayor of Iroquois Falls, was enthusiastic in the business it was to seek uses for the by-products, but also from the average idea that sometime or another new industries would be developed as side issues from the paper mills and lumber industry. On numerous occasions he urged the Northern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade to co-operate and support any and every plan that might lead to the development of new industries from the present waste products of existing industries. In Iroquois Falls he received great support in these ideas, not only from the experts, part of whose man who caught some of Mr. Vanier's enthusiasm. Accordingly, it seems par-

Said he Lived Ten Days with Porcupine only Food

Three men were reported lost in the bush near here over the week-end, two of them turning up all right after looking for each other when they became separated in the bush. The third man was duly found and returned to his home safe and little the worse for a trying experience. In Kenora, however, a man returned home at the week-end after finding his own way back from being lost in the bush for ten days. His name was Mike Malic and he was an employee of the Keewatin Lumber Co. at Camp 16. He had been lost for the full ten days before he was able to make his way home. Search parties organized by the provincial police had failed to secure any clue as to his whereabouts and hope had been practically given up of finding Mike at all. During the ten days Mike is estimated to have travelled about 50 miles in a huge circle. He says that he lived chiefly by eating two porcupines that he was able to kill in the bush.

Hit Man Over Head with Shovel while at Road Work

At Haileybury police court last week-end, John Hamilton, Brethour township settler, was allowed his freedom by Magistrate Atkinson on a charge of assault, in which he was alleged to have struck Alexander Peters on the head with a shovel. Peters told the court that Hamilton interfered with him while at work on the government road job, and that in a scuffle he was hit on the head. George Oram, road foreman, corroborated Peters' evidence.

Hamilton said Peters had told false stories about his family receiving relief from two or three various sources.

He was bound over to keep the peace for two years, and signed a $200 bond.

Orator Literally Brought Down the House in Speech

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former minister of justice, was knocked unconscious for 10 minutes and 14 persons were injured when a large slice of plaster, 40 feet long and three feet wide, fell from the ceiling of the town hall at St. Joseph D'Alma, Que., in which a Liberal rally was being held Saturday night. Mr. Lapointe was struck on the leg.

When he regained consciousness Mr. Lapointe insisted on the programme being carried out, and delivered a one-hour speech. He was forced to keep his injured leg off the ground most of the time.

Jules Martel, of Hebertville, was the most seriously injured. He was unconscious all night and was administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church. On Monday his condition was reported as slightly improved. Of the injured eight suffered head injuries, and six bruises and cuts on the legs. The slice fell from the ceiling as an orator was winding up his speech.

Mistook Bank Man for Former Timmins Citizen

An odd story comes from Sudbury, and it may be of interest to friends of one of the parties in the story, Dave Miller, formerly of Timmins, and who left here recently to take charge of the radio station opened at Sudbury by The Sudbury Star.

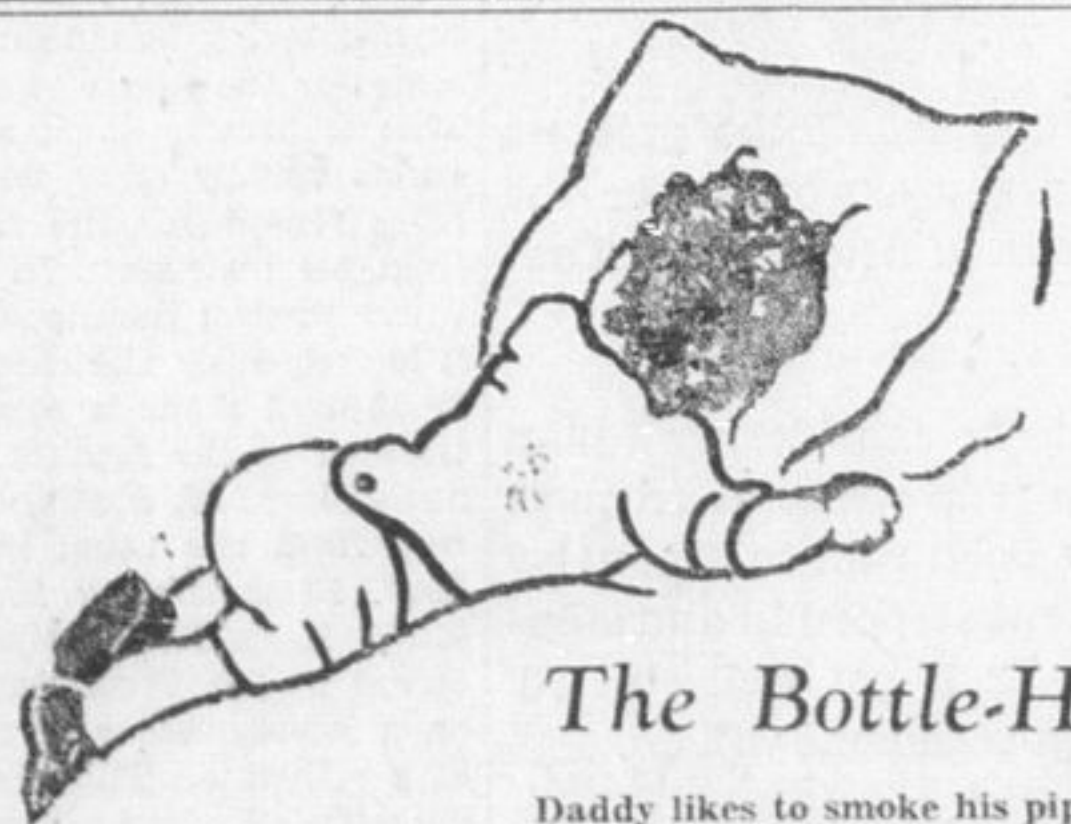

According to the story, J. W. Teasdale, a ledger-keeper in one of the Sudbury banks, was approached recently in a drug store by a man who called him Mr. Miller and "Dave" by turns. Eventually Mr. Teasdale was able to explain that he was neither Miller nor Dave and that there was some mistake. "Aren't you Dave Miller of the radio station?" the stranger asked. "No, I'm Teasdale of the other bank," was the reply. Now, Mr. Teasdale is said to be anxiously waiting for a sight of his double to see what he looks like, while no doubt Dave will see to it that both see each other very soon.

The Bottle-Hitter

Daddy likes to smoke his pipe
And Mommie likes to sew,
But the grandest after-dinner
Sport I know
Is to hit the bottle.

Sometimes I hold it in my hands,
Sometimes I rest it on my feet,
YOU couldn't do that! But
I like it—it's nice and sweet.
I always tip the bottle up
To see if there's any more,
But there never is and so
I just throw it on the floor.
