VOTE FOR THE BY-LAW

No doubt by this time all who have a vote on the matter of the new power franchise by-law have decided upon the way they intend to vote. The question has been very thoroughly discussed and all possible information in the matter has been presented to the public. Some false information in regard to the subject has also been exposed for what it is. Any electors who are not in position to vote intelligently must blame their lack of information on their own negligence.

However, on this the eve of the voting on the proposed new franchise by-law a recapitulation of the facts in the case may not be amiss.

For many years efforts were made to interest the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario in the matter of supplying power to this part of the empty phrases, or whether they hold a true, a North. Letters from the Timmins board of trade and delegations from the same body and from other interests in the North were given scant courtesy. When pressed for an answer the Hydro gives the public in general an opportunity to "re-Commission could not be prevailed upon further member the dead by helping the living." Since then the power company has made four voluntary reductions in rates, showing that the company is fair and reasonable, and ready to treat the people as well as possible. Some ten years ago a representative of the power company told the Timmins board of trade that reductions in rates would be made as soon and as often as conditions permitted, and the facts prove that the company has fully lived up to this promise. For about two years past the question of power has been considered and discussed in Timmins. Series of Misfortunes footsteps of Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Derouin, of Cobalt, recently, the series of mishaps culminating in the sad death of their nine-year-old son, Maurice, on Tuesday evening of last week. Maurice was struck by a motor car on the street near his home on Cobalt Boy Scouts Lose Tuesday night. He suffered a fractured skull and a broken arm and died in the municipal hospital at Cobalt some three hours after the accident. According to information gathered by the Cobalt police, the lad ran out to cross the street immediately after the passing of a loaded truck going north. Rowan Hutchison, of New Liskeard, was driving south in his car at the time and did not see the child until it was too late to avert a tragedy. Eyewitnesses say that the Hutchinson car was not going fast and that nothing could have been done more than was done to avoid an accident. As soon as the car could be stopped, the driver picked up the child and hurried him to the hospital where all possible was done for him, but his life could not be saved. The mother was at the hospital when the child was brought in, being there to badly gashed by an axe while at work real river. The father, after bringing the son with the gashed leg to the hos- ning to enter a Cobalt grocery store. pital, had returned to his work in the bush and was brought back to Cobalt couple of years ago. At that time he suffered serious injuries to his face through an automobile accident and though recovering from the accident Misfortune had certainly dogged the his face was permanently scarred. An inquest has been held in connection with the accident last week. In view of the fact that no blame seemed to rest upon the driver of the car, no charge was laid in this connection.

Money to Mean Burglar

Recently the Cobalt Boy Scouts staged an apple day, the proceeds of the event being only $16.00. There was worse than that to come, however, as a sneak thief or sneak thieves entered the building where the Scouts had stored their apples and stole a barrel and a half of the fruit. The apples had been left in the Scout headquarters in the building formerly used as a Methodist church in Cobalt. The thief or thieves gained entrance to the building by smashing open a side door. The circumstances of the burglary seem to suggest that the criminal or criminals knew what was in the building and accordingly must have had information that would include the fact that they were stealing from the Boy Scouts. The visit an older son who had had his leg same night the T. and N.
