Waterworks Surplus May be Applied

meeting day of the council. At 4.30 a rather surprised mayor announced that the meeting was merely for discussion of an important matter and almost all those in attendance went away. No other place in the town hall could be found, so the session finally took place at the council table downstairs. It was nearly an hour later that the council got around to the discussion of the matter of waterworks.

First to appear was a man representing the firm from whom the 1935 council had agreed to buy a machine for relief vouchers that gave three copies of an order at a time. He pointed out its efficiency and its low cost of operation over the present book system. The town uses about 15,000 voucher forms per year and these would cost about $71.55 if purchased all together, while the books at present in use cost very much more, the council was told.

Conklin's Shows Here Again Austin Neame approached the council on behalf of the Canadian Legion who requested permission to again have the Conklin Shows in town about the end of May or beginning of June. Permission was given, with the proviso that the Legion members were to keep down any objectionable practices and that the chief of police was to investigate any complaints by the council. Some objection was raised to the gambling games.

Mr. Neame told the council that the Legion received $1,000 clear from the show; that they left a great deal of money in town for groceries, rent of the grounds, license fees, power charges and in many other ways.

Water Bill Complaint Harry Jones had a complaint to make about a water bill which he thought had been paid. He did not object, in the end, to paying the account, but did object to paying a penalty and not being allowed the discount, since the arrears had not been included in the last couple of bills. The council agreed to write off the penalty and give the cash discount.

Another water bill case was brought to the attention of Leo Charlebois by the mayor was that of a man named Fortier, who had claimed he had not been given any notice of an increase in rates when he increased the size of his house. Mr. Charlebois was able to show, to the complete satisfaction of the council, that a good three months' notice had been given, so the case was dropped.

A Mr. Ferrari asked for a tobacco and soft drink license but wanted it at a quarterly rate until March when the new licenses are due. After a great deal of consideration, the matter was left undecided, since it would be an infringement of one of the town's by-laws to grant the request. Some suitable arrangement will be made, it is likely.

Evicted from House

A young married man told the council a story of a real woe. He, his wife and two children had been evicted yesterday from their home and had no place to go. Their stove, chairs, table, and bed had been taken from them, he claimed. The mayor had been told that the man read all night and slept all day and that he had been offered work at one time for his rent but refused to take it. The council agreed it would be impossible to leave the wife and children out in the cold all night, so Relief Officer Dunn was instructed to make temporary arrangements for sheltering the family.

It was suggested that the bailiff had gone beyond his powers in evicting the family without the usual three days' notice (the eviction bore the date of January 15) and that he had no right to seize the stove, chairs, bed and table, since they are by law exempt unless seized for re-possession.

The complicated case of a Fourth avenue restaurant, recently become defunct, was brought up and will be taken to a lawyer. It appeared that the restaurant had some money coming from the town when the business had to be closed. One creditor garrisoned in the name of the restaurant, others in the name of the man. A part of the money had been paid out to various creditors by the town but a sum of $44 remained. The man who had issued the garnishee for the whole cheque was objecting, holding that he was entitled to his bill in full, since he had taken action first.

Kirkland Lake Snowed-in by Heavy Fall This Week

This week Kirkland Lake suffered more from the heavy fall of snow than did Timmins. The snowfall was general over the North but in Timmins the snow plough and other facilities were able to keep traffic open. In Kirkland Lake the work was too much for three ploughs. There were parts of the town cut off for some hours on Monday, while all roads out of the town were cut off except the Ferguson highway to Swastika. It is likely that some of the roads and part of the Ferguson highway will remain closed for the winter. Extra gangs of men and hired trucks had to be engaged to clear downtown streets for traffic on Tuesday at Kirkland Lake.

Kingston Whig - Standard:—The speed of communication between all parts of the world is one of the proud boasts of the present era. But there are some regions without direct contact with the rest of the world. For instance, the news of the earthquake in China reported to have brought death to thousands in Szechuan province, did not reach the world until a week after it occurred.

Crowd Pleased with Timmins Glee Club

Excellent Programme Presented Last Night at Trinity United Church, Schumacher.

With Rev. Murray Tait chairman for the evening, the Timmins Glee Club gave a concert last night in the Trinity United Church in Schumacher before a fair-sized audience. All the offerings of the musical organization, as well as the many solos of the evening were well received and the Glee Club was highly congratulated by many for the fine manner in which the programme was carried through.

The most popular number of the evening was "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," a part song in which the voices of the club members blended particularly well.

Although it was announced at the beginning that there were to be no encores, the audience insisted on one for the part song number, as well as second appearances from Mrs. Rus Stoneman who sang "My Ships," and Mrs. J. Griffin and Mrs. T. Gay who sang a duet, "Lampit Hour."

"In the Gloaming," the theme song, was the opening selection by the Glee Club, then followed a solo by Mrs. J. Griffin, "Sanctuary of the Heart," with the club singing chorus.

"Flight of Angels," was the title of a well-rendered cornet solo by Carl Johns. The Glee Club's rendition of "Send Out Thy Light" was also a pleasing number. Mrs. Rus Stoneman and W. M. Rice sang a duet which proved popular with the audience, "Come Sail Away With Me." The part song, "My Pretty Maid," while not as popular as "The Bells of St. Michael's Tower," was well done by the Glee Club. A vocal solo by Mrs. R. Webber, "Forgotten," was well received.

One of the two quartette numbers of the evening, this one with all male voices, was excellently performed by L. L. Pare, P. Reed, N. Glanville and P. Toms. It was the familiar "Bells of St. Mary's."

Before intermission, Mrs. T. Gay sang "Tommy Lad"; Carl Johns played another cornet solo, "The Lost Chord," and the Glee Club sang "Shepherd of Souls."

In the second part of the programme "Just As I Am," by the Glee Club as a whole, was popular. The quartette number of the second part, with mixed voices, was "Rock of Ages," sung by Mrs. C. Surman, Mrs. T. Gay, L. L. Pare and P. Toms. The anthem, "The Master's Call," by the whole club again had obviously required a lot of work.

"Open the Gates of the Temple," a solo by N. Glanville, was well delivered. Before the singing of "O Canada" at the conclusion, Mrs. T. Gay was soloist in a number entitled the "Plains of Peace," a well-rendered selection.

Rev. M. Tait was a particularly pleasing chairman and his witty introductions to the numbers of the programme were well appreciated by the audience.

The personnel of the club is as follows: Conductor, Stan Johns; pianist, Mrs. C. Wilkins, L.R.A.M.; Mesdames J. Griffin, C. Surman, R. Webber, sopranos; Mesdames T. Gay and Rus Stoneman, contraltos; J. Jago, L. L. Pare, P. Reed, tenors; P. Toms, W. Rice and N. Glanville, bass.

Huntingdon Gleaner:—Loznica, Jugoslavia, is suffering from a plague of practical jokers. The latest joke has caused indignation which may flare into a riot of revenge. During a recent night the jokers squirted plaster of paris into every outside keyhole, and next morning nobody could insert a key to unlock the doors. Thus the village became a community of prisoners until the plaster could be removed.

Health Seals from Far-Distant Places

Korea Joins in Christmas Seal Campaign Against T.B. Venezuela has Campaign Against Malaria.

Harry W. Darling has some letters showing how widespread is the "seal" plan for envelopes in campaigns for health betterment. One letter coming to Mr. Darling from Korea bears a "Christmas seal" stamp in colors with a symbolic picture, and the phrasing on the design in both Japanese and English. The Korean authorities have joined the battle against tuberculosis and are attacking the problem with thoroughness and energy.

Another letter with a "health seal" on it, came to Mr. Darling from a friend at El Callos, the mining district of the State of Bolivar, Venezuela. The health authorities in Venezuela are not troubled so much by tuberculosis as they are by malaria. They are out to conquer malaria so far as this may be done, and they are using the "health stamp" as a means of raising funds and also giving publicity to the health campaign. To have the "health stamp" on a letter in Venezuela costs just one cent extra. The wording of the stamp is in Spanish, but Mr. Darling translated the inscription for The Advance as follows: "The mosquito transmits malaria. Stamp him out! Assist the entire nation in this patriotic campaign!"
