Lengthy Police Court at South End on Tuesday

Some Interesting Cases Disposed of by Court. Pastoral Letter Issued by Archdeacon Woodall. First Congregational Social of St. Paul's Church. Other Items from South Porcupine and the Dome.

South Porcupine, Feb. 19th. Special to The Advance.
Mrs. Russell Cameron left on Wednesday for two weeks' holiday in Toronto with her parents.
Dr. J. C. Cochrane of North Bay was a visitor at the Manse on Tuesday night, leaving on Wednesday to attend the Presbytery at Iroquois Falls.
Mr. Victor Chown is spending this week-end in Toronto having been called home on account of the illness of his father.
The Rev. W. Bradbury, Field Secretary of the G.B.R.E., of Toronto, assisted Archdeacon Woodall at the Sunday night service in St. Paul's Church and gave an interesting address.

Archdeacon Woodall has issued a pastoral Lenten letter to his congregation with a list of Lenten services. Each Sunday evening during Lent a series of sermons will be preached—March 1st, "Forgiveness;" March 8th, "Consideration;" March 15th, "Repentance;" March 22nd, "Forsaken of God;" March 29th, "Suffering;" April 5th, "Triumph." Ash Wednesday (Feb. 26th) the services will be: 10:30 a.m. Holy Communion; 8 p.m. Evensong and sermon. On Wednesday evenings during Lent there will be services in the church at 8 p.m., and a series of sermons on "What the Cross Means."

A congregational meeting of the United Church was held on Tuesday evening in the church. Reports of the past year's activities were very gratifying, especially from the session and the two Sunday schools—town and Dome. The choir, too, showed marked improvement. The "session" applies to the spiritual side of the work of the church. The Ladies' Guild reported an excellent year, succeeding in clearing off a substantial debt of fairly long standing on the church. The Board of Officers for the church remains as before, the two resigning members being re-elected to office. The board now stands:— Chairman, Mr. Purdy; secretary, Mr. J. Trueblood; treasurer, Mr. J. Andrews; Messrs. D. Coffey, J. D. Thomson, H. Hall, A. G. Brown, and R. Vokes. Dr. Somerville was added with Mr. R. S. McWilliams to the ministerial board. There was a good attendance at this meeting and refreshments were served by the wives of the elders.

At the police court on Tuesday, four drunks paid the usual, although one who had been convicted twice before paid a heavy penalty. A great deal of time was taken up with a case that was finally dismissed by the magistrate. A man was charged with being drunk while in charge of a car, and while driving the car had knocked down and broken a gas pump outside a store in Schumacher. The two officers who arrested him swore to his own statement, that he had been drinking and of their own accord, said that he was drunk. However, accused produced five reputable witnesses who swore to the contrary. His statement for the broken gas tank was that he was parked ahead of it, and trying to get clear in the rutty condition of the road backed into it. His explanation was given consideration by the magistrate, and the result was dismissal. A man charged with being in unlawful possession of a quantity of beer, not purchased according to regulations, protested at first, but when asked by the magistrate if he wished to plead "not guilty" he preferred to plead "guilty" and paid a $25 fine plus costs. A lady, charged with the same offence (Schumacher) told the bench she had purchased same before she got notice of cancellation, so she gave a dance and party and gave "free beer." However, his worship made the remark that her house had not a good reputation and she was fined $100 and costs or 30 days. Also her house is declared public and all the liquor seized. A case of assault came up next. Asked if accused wished to have his case heard that day he assented, but made the remark that he had not told his two witnesses to come along and that complainant had brought his. "All right," said the magistrate, "you get your two witnesses and let the other man bring his two next Tuesday to court and we'll have a regular fight." An old lady of Hoyle brought a charge against her son for non-support. She had a tale of woe. He was working at the Pamour and living at a boarding house and she was left to bring up two children (one adopted) without his aid. She admitted living rent-free in the boy's house, and getting $25 a month mother's pension, also that the boy brought groceries into the home. Under the circumstances the magistrate refused to support her charge and the case was dismissed.

Interscholastic basketball games at the High School have been in progress this season, each team in school playing against the other in a regular schedule. On Tuesday night the grand finale was fought in the auditorium with Pat Laforest's team coming off victorious. Pat had on her team Joan M. Smith, Dot Deacon, Dora Kesnesky, Irene Mousseau and Bessie Verner. The runners-up who met defeat to the tune of 5-12 were in charge of Marjorie Costain whose team consisted of Eileen Lowry, Jean Andrews, Betty McIntosh, Annie Cartonick and Mary Curtis.

Owing to the Noranda-South Porcupine playoffs on Friday night the Rebekahs have decided to postpone the bridge scheduled for that evening till further notice.

The first congregational social sponsored by activities within the Anglican Church took place at the parish hall on Tuesday night. A very good attendance proved the popularity of the venture which will now be a monthly affair of the church in the hall. Archdeacon Woodall opened the evening with an address of welcome saying that each society in the church was taking some part in the entertainment. The Women's Auxiliary was responsible for the musical part of the programme, and Masters Vary and Keats from the Paymaster Mine played pianoforte duets and solos during the programme, which were well performed and received. The Sewing Circle enacted a mock marriage which caused lots of fun, each person grotesquely overdressing the part and behaving in a manner suited to the costumes. Mrs. Morgan enacted the part of the minister, while Mrs. Walker was the adipsoid bride, escorted by the diminutive groom—Mrs. Covey. Mrs. Curtis—the bride's father—informed all and sundry that he was not giving the bride away—he got five hogs for her! The choir, consisting of three members of the sewing circle, sang suitable soft music which tickled the audience. Mrs. Jay, Mrs. Woodleigh and Mrs. Pullin all had parts to play. Altogether the mock wedding went over well. A dressmaking competition put on by the Men's Club elicited much laughter, and brought out some latent talent. With yards of tissue paper, pins and needles and cotton, six members of the Men's Club essayed in 15 minutes to concoct a creation on and for a lady. By the sudden cries of the models, it may be judged that the pins sometimes went deeper than intended, but when Miss Commission sailed onto the platform in a two-tone violet creation with a train—the work of Mr. Blockley of the Ankerite school—the applause was genuine. True the material gave out when it came to making two sleeves, but the one-sided effect was at least new! The A.Y.P.A. in their old-fashioned "mellerdrummer" made a hit. With Mr. Ross "reader," the story was enacted in dumb show by the characters, as follows:—Two curtains—E. Commission and Mary Peacock (they parted); Son—A. Couchman—"he rose and set;" Stairs—M. Smith, Jr. (She tore down the stairs); Horizon—Lorne Hart (they scamed the horizon); Shadows—K. Reynolds (she fell); Hours—D. Walker (they passed slowly); Maid—B. Clemis; Mr. Depopolo—H. Hall; Maggie O'Brien—B. M. Smith; Patrick—H. Pyke. Part of the reading: "I see," said Mr. Depopolo, "you are appealing to me." (Heroine kneels, peeling a banana). "But alas for you, your appeal is fruitless!" (He snatches banana and eats it, leaving only the peel). Needless to say the young people made a greater hit with this sort of thing than with anything else in the dramatic line yet attempted. Refreshments were served, after games and cards had been played. Mrs. Naish proved herself to be the checker champion of the evening, defeating five good players.

Death from Exposure of Shawkey Gold Mine Worker

Nick Newman, an employee of the Shawkey Mine in Northwestern Quebec, is dead following the results of exposure and cold during his attempted walk this week from the mine to Val d'Or. He was picked up on the trail between the mine and the property and rushed to the Rouyn hospital by airplane. He died a few minutes after reaching the hospital. His hands and legs were badly frozen and the exposure evidently injured him so seriously that even the prompt attention made possible by the airship failed to save his life. Apparently he was overcome by the cold while walking from the mine to the village of d'Or.

Newman, who was popular with his fellow employees, was employed at the Shawkey Mine, which bears the name of Bob Shawkey, veteran baseball pitcher and manager, who is one of the chief owners of the mine.

Urges Early Buying of Tickets for Vimy

Attention of Legion Members and Others Called to Desirability of Early Arrangements.

Seeking to prevent last-minute confusion and disappointments, the Canadian Pacific Steamships have issued a circular letter to Canadian Legion secretaries and rail and steamship sub-agents in connection with the Vimy Pilgrimage next July.

It is urged that all members and other ex-servicemen who intend joining the pilgrimage from localities in Northern Ontario make early application for membership. It is only upon early receipt of applications that Pilgrimage committees and steamship companies can arrange sailings.

Sailing Plans
Pilgrims' wishes will be respected as far as possible in regard to the steamer by which they sail, but as according to present plans some ships may land at Havre and others at Antwerp the selection of the route in France may have some effect on this.

Though many pilgrims will be returning directly after the pilgrimage proper is completed, others may desire to remain in England for a visit. This will be allowed under the special rates. As accommodation will be allotted on the "first come first served" basis, it is further suggested that all pilgrims who do not plan immediate return notify steamship agencies as soon as they can on their westbound sailing date so as to be sure of space and thereby avoid possibility of delays.

Radio Set Like Dial Phone Tested in Forest Fire Work

A radio set that works like a dial telephone and may revolutionize forest fire-fighting tactics was praised as a success at Spokane, Washington, this week.

The portable device weighs only 35 pounds. When an operator on the fire line wants to communicate with headquarters he has only to turn a dial. A resulting radio impulse rings a bell at the central station. The central station may call any subordinate point merely by dialing.

The dial eliminates the necessity of having an operator always at the earphones. Exhibited at Spokane this week for the first time, the instrument made instantaneous two-way communication between a ground set and an airplane 4,000 feet above Spokane. The plane's pilot quickly found and reported the location of an obscure bridge 25 miles away without loss of radio contact.

Some Samples of English Humour Duly Imported

(From the London Humorist)
The fault with most after-dinner speakers, we read, is that they refuse to speak up. The trouble with others is that they refuse to dry up.

Silk, we are told, possesses certain qualities of magnetism. When it is made up into an alluring gown, many women find it completely irresistible.

"You can now sit comfortably in a chair at home and chat to a friend in Australia without raising your voice," says a writer. In fact, all you have to do is raise the money.

"It is not everybody's blood that is suitable for transfusion," says a doctor. An aristocratic volunteer whose services were refused was rather pleased when he was told that his blood was far too blue.

When a mouse ran across the platform at a girl guides' meeting there was much feminine shrieking. It was gratifying to note that even yet there are occasions when girls will be girls.

A two hours lecture on economy was given in London the other day. But when he had finished, the speaker was honest enough to admit that his wife looked very nice in her new hat.

New Map Describes the Cadillac-Malartic Area

A preliminary map and brief report on the geology and mineral deposits of the Cadillac-Malartic area, Quebec, have been issued by the Geological Survey, Department of Mines, Ottawa. The map and report are based on geological investigations made in the area last year and in 1934 by H. C. Gunning and J. W. Ambrose, and are issued under the title "Preliminary Map of the Cadillac Belt from Pandora to Pan Canadian."

The map is on a scale of one inch to 1,600 feet, and shows in colours the geology and structure of a 35 square mile area extending eastwards from the Pandora mine. A feature of note is that the continuation is shown of the Cadillac belt of greenstone for several miles southeastward from Pandora mine in territory where it was not previously known to occur. It is in this greenstone belt that all the important gold deposits of Cadillac township occur, and the map should accordingly prove of real value to prospecting and mine development. The structure is clearly defined of an area of complexly folded Temiskaming and Keewatin strata, which have been regarded as the junction of the highly productive gold-bearing belts of the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake camps. The important gold deposits are indicated on the map and are described briefly in the report. Suggestions are made as to further prospecting and development.

The map and report furnish the results of the first half of a mapping programme in the area, which when completed will bridge the gap between Cadillac and the Canadian Malartic mining areas, and will permit correlations to be made between the two areas.

Woman Acquitted on One of Drug Charges

Complainant at Sudbury Tells of Drinking Beer and Becoming Unconscious. Another Charge.

At Sudbury at a sitting of the Supreme Court on Tuesday Mrs. Hilda Johnson was acquitted on one charge of administering drugs to commit theft and also of one charge of the theft of $42 from John Burton. The jury deliberated about 70 minutes before giving the verdict. There was also another charge against her of administering drugs to commit theft.

The charges against Mrs. Johnson followed the stories told the police by Burton and another man to the effect that Mrs. Johnson had induced them to visit her apartment and there have a drink or two. The stories of the two men agreed in the idea that after drinking the men became unconscious and that while unconscious they lost money from their pockets. Mrs. Johnson at the preliminary hearing pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by a judge and jury. She was defended at the preliminary hearing by J. J. O'Connor, but in the meantime she gave out the information that at the trial she did not intend to be represented by counsel. Ten minutes before court opened at Sudbury this week, however, Mr. Justice F. D. Hogg, who evidently felt the woman should have the benefit of counsel, asked G. M. Miller to act for the defence. Mr. Miller apparently did the necessary work for his client, the woman being acquitted without the defence being called. Burton told the court that he had drunk a glass of beer with Mrs. Johnson at the home of a friend and had then gone to the bathroom. When he returned a fresh glass of beer he had left on the dresser tasted bitter after he had taken a drink of it, so he threw it out. After taking the drink of beer, he said he became unconscious almost immediately. An hour later, he told the court, he regained consciousness and found that $42 was missing from his pocket. Mrs. Margaret McDonald, at whose place the incident took place, found a small bottle at the foot of the bed where Burton was lying when he woke up. The evidence of Professor Joslyn Rogers, of Toronto, was to the effect that the bottle contained a solution of chloral hydrate. The prosecution failed to prove to the satisfaction of the jury that Mrs. Johnson should be held liable if Burton had been given a drug. There was no evidence to directly prove that the accused woman had administered any drugs to Burton. Hence the acquittal on these charges.
