First Dome Mines Guides and Brownies

Interesting and Helpful Meetings by Dome Girl Guides and the Brownie Pack.

South Porcupine, Ont., March 26th, 1936. Special to The Advance.

The First Dome Mine Company of Girl Guides held their regular meeting in the Community hall.

Horseshoe was formed and a colour party from the Showdrop patrol—Joyce Hughes, Margaret Burton and Louise Kellow—broke the flag. God Save the King was sung. Patrol drill and roll call was followed by inspection taken by the captain. A discussion on "Proficiency Badge" work followed. It was decided to enter the "Lady Bessborough Nature Competition." Lieutenant Leiterman will have charge of this along with the Naturalist Badge work.

The Folk Dancing Proficiency Badge will be undertaken with Mrs. Stanlake, instructor. Several other badges leading to First Class Guide Badge are already being worked at.

Mr. Uren, instructor for Ambulance Badge, gave a lecture.

Captain Flander, passed the New recruits in Tenderfoot and the others took work in the Health Badge with the Lieutenant.

Horseshoe was formed, the flag lowered, Guide prayer repeated and "Taps" closed the meeting.

The regular weekly Pack meeting of First Dome Mine Brownies was held on Monday, March 23rd.

The Sprite Sixer led the magic chain into the Fairy Ring around Totem Toadstool. Two twentees, Ada Curtis and Janet Richmond, sat beside the Toadstool. Sixer songs were sung and the Health Rhymes. The Brownie "Smile" showed sparkling teeth for inspection. In corner homes, Sixers marked attendance and collected Fairy Gold.

Pack Leader Joyce Hughes played the piano for the Brownies who are learning to skip to music.

Gigliotti Taken to Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Will Have to Stand Trial There on Charge of Murder. Lived in Timmins Eight Years.

Haileybury, March 26th. Special to The Advance.

Escorted back to Niagara Falls, New York State, to face a charge of murder, Rosario Gigliotti, former employee of the Hollinger mine who has been held in the custody of the Ontario authorities since New Year's Eve, on Monday night left the district jail here for the border city under the watchful eye of Chief of Detectives Costello, of the Niagara Falls police force.

Gigliotti has been conducting a fight against extradition since he was arrested for the New York police by Provincial Constable John Pretorius, and he lost this contest when Judge Hayward, on March 5, granted the order under which he has been returned to Niagara Falls. He made no appeal against this judgement, although the usual fifteen days was allowed for any further proceedings of a legal nature.

Accused now will go on trial before a jury on the charge that he shot and killed his former landlady, Mrs. Carlo Carnella, more than eight years ago. A grand jury already has returned a true bill against him. Gigliotti is said to have left Niagara Falls immediately after the shooting, to have travelled first to Hamilton, then by bus to Windsor, later going to Kirkland Lake and Porcupine, obtaining work eventually in the latter camp.

Law of King Charles II Invoked in Sudbury Case

Saved by a law passed in 1679, Joseph Laflamme, Gogama, Friday afternoon won an appeal before Judge Edmund Proulx, in district court at Sudbury, says The Sudbury Star. He had been convicted in Sudbury on January 24 by Magistrate T. H. Wolfe of obstructing a police officer in the execution of his duties, and had been fined $100 and costs or six months.

Judge Proulx ruled that under a law passed by Charles II of England, a law which had been carried into the Canadian Criminal Code, a warrant could not be executed on Sunday as was done in this case. Besides this, no evidence was before the judge to show that the information had been taken on oath to secure the warrant leading to the search of Laflamme's place.

The charge arose out of a visit by Provincial Constables T. Crawford and E. Keen to Laflamme's on Saturday, November 2. They had found a quantity of beer upstairs, but were not sure whether the building was classed as a residence or a public place, since the downstairs was used as a dance hall. On Sunday, the next day, they had gone back with the warrant, and had made to seize the beer. They claimed that Mr. and Mrs. Laflamme tried to keep them from taking it by pulling the cases away from them and putting them back on the pile.

Joe Laflamme was well known a few years ago for his trained wolves which he took on tour to New York. He was defended by G. M. Miller, K.C.

Whist Drive, March 30th, by the Ladies' Auxiliary

T. & N. O. Keeps Up-to-date in Aiding Development

In an editorial article on Monday of this week The North Bay Nugget has the following reference to the proposal to add airships, trucks and buses to the T. & N. O. service in the North:—"Intimation has come from Queen's Park that the Ontario Government's T. & N. O. Railway may shortly turn to airplanes, trucks and buses to provide additional transportation facilities for Northern Ontario, and while details of the legislation to be brought down covering these points is not available as yet, the suggestion is an interesting one.

"Built primarily as a colonization and development aid, the T. & N. O. Railway now taps the major mining, lumbering and agricultural areas of the North, and has been mainly responsible for their development to present-day stages. But conditions have changed vastly from what they were in the days when the T. & N. O. was being pushed northward.

"Conditions peculiar to Northern Ontario, weather, distance and other natural obstacles, make it improbable that transportation by rail, particularly in regard to freight, will ever be supplanted by motor trucks or airplanes. But both have proven their worth, and operated in conjunction with a rail service, would broaden the usefulness of the T. & N. O. to Northern Ontario.

"The airplane is a valuable means of transport when isolated regions are to be reached, and provides a service that is fast becoming indispensable in many parts of the North. It has been said of the transport plane that it is responsible for the development of more mining areas than any other transport medium, but this may be an exaggeration.

"There is no doubt, however, that the airplane is to play an increasingly important development role during the next few years, and the heads of the T. & N. O. Railway are to be lauded for realizing this fact, and preparing to take advantage of it.

"As for motor trucks and buses, their scope is limited to areas where roads have been built, but where they are operated, form a flexible, valued adjunct to the rail service. Details of the plans which are now taking shape for utilization of airplanes, trucks and buses by the T. & N. O. will be awaited and received with deep interest by Northern Ontario."

Claims New Angles in Lindbergh Case

Governor Hoffman Reported as Urging Commutation of Sentence for Hauptmann.

According to despatches from Trenton, New Jersey, Governor Harold Hoffman, authoritative sources disclosed this week, has developed new evidence in the Lindbergh kidnap-murder case, which he considered sufficiently material to seek clemency for Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

The governor conferred last week with Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, Hauptmann's prosecutor, and the sources said the governor suggested they together request a commutation of the death penalty to life imprisonment before the New Jersey pardons court. The governor is presiding officer of the court.

The Attorney-General, to whom the governor did not reveal the nature of the reported new evidence, was non-committal. He professed not to know what the governor's next moves would be in his efforts to "clear up" the famous murder case.

New Hearing Sought With Hauptmann facing electrocution for the crime on March 31st, his counsel, C. Lloyd Fisher, obtained application blanks to-day for a second hearing before the pardons court, which in January refused to grant clemency.

There were indications, in authoritative quarters, that the information in the governor's possession concerned "framed" evidence at Hauptmann's trial, involving alleged pressure brought upon witnesses to identify Hauptmann as having a part, at least, in the crime.

At the state house, legal authorities pointed out that an attack upon identification testimony would not be sufficient to upset Hauptmann's conviction as long as any other evidence linking him in a material way with the crime remained unassailed.

Appeal Court's Ruling Cited The opinion of the state court of errors and appeals, upholding Hauptmann's conviction, was cited.

"From three different and in the main unrelated sources," the court's opinion said, "the proofs point unerringly to guilt, viz: (a) Possession and use of the ransom money; (b) the handwriting of the ransom notes; and (c) the wood used in the construction of the ladder."

Failure of the second appeal to the court of pardons means almost certainly that Hauptmann will die next week.

New Study Course to be Urged for Ontario

Department of Education Refers Proposed Change to Ontario Educational Association.

During "Education Week" The Advance made several references to the contemplated changes in regard to the educational system of Ontario. Dr. Simpson, Minister of Education, forecast some changes in several addresses made since his elevation to the cabinet. This week despatches from Toronto make further reference to the proposed changes.

A plan for remodelling the curriculum of secondary schools will be submitted for discussion at the Easter meeting of the Ontario Educational Association by the Ontario Department of Education, and will form the main subject of discussion at the session, it was learned last week.

The new course of studies, it is understood, has to do with the establishment of an intermediate school, to take care of the present fourth book of the public school and the first two forms of the high school. Committees are at present working on the course.

Optional Subjects The general plan is for a curriculum including a score of compulsory subjects, such as English, geography, arithmetic, etc., and a wide variety of optional subjects, both manual and academic. These would be of such a wide and diverse character as to give the pupil some lead as to the nature of future training for which he is best suited. He would be able to experiment in regard to his abilities and adaptabilities. The options would include technical and commercial studies, academic and music and art, it is anticipated.

From all over the province resolutions have been sent to the secretary and the Canadian School Journal, official organ of the O.E.A., for discussion at the Easter meeting. Considerable opposition from outside centres to the inequalities between rural and urban education is expressed. There is a strong feeling that the province should bear a larger part of the financial burden of education and the local areas much less. Some groups ask that it be made legal for school boards to have a surplus at the end of the year. And one group, Brant County Association, expresses alarm at the use of tobacco by the young people and urges that the government be asked to place a ban on the advertising of tobacco and cigarettes.

Favour New Type School Guelph District Association favours a new type of school for secondary education, similar to the intermediate school which has been proposed, but asks that music be included in the curriculum and Latin excluded, and that no French be taught unless it be conversational. Guelph asks also that a teachers' manual in deportment, manners and general character building be authorized by the department. Essex County Association requests inclusion of a business course in the public school curriculum.

Because of the severe hardships which rural children suffer in the winter in attending school, Lambton County Association makes a request to have rural schools open during August and closed during January. Simcoe, Dufferin and Renfrew County councils strongly protest against certain recommendations made by the committee of the Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association including township or county boards and the suggestion that only recommended pupils be eligible for free secondary education.

DROP IN RED INK SALES SURE SIGN OF RECOVERY

The red ink business is growing rapidly worse, Fred L. Whalen, ink company executive of Cambridge, Mass., declared.

Mr. Whalen said red ink output increased "several hundred per cent. during the recent financial unhappiness," but the drop in sales of the product during the past few months "is the most remarkable feature in our trade history."

He reported mounting sales in other colours of ink.

Had Been Working Hard but Charged as Vagrant

A Toronto man giving the name of John Thomas seemed to have a grievance when he was charged in court with being a vagrant.

"I've worked hard and steady for the past three months," he told Magistrate Tinker. "I'm no loafer."

"Where?" inquired Inspector Guthrie. "For the Government," replied the prisoner.

"Where?" insisted Inspector Guthrie. "Well," muttered Thomas, reluctantly, "I just got out last Friday."
