Graceful coloured glass clasped in holders of pierced chromium plate in a somewhat similar manner to a gem mounted in a finger ring. This unique design is adapted to glistening stemware for liqueurs, cocktails, highballs and wine. Water goblets, salt and pepper shakers and compots are really beautiful too. The glass is coloured in tones of blue, amber, green or amethyst and is easily removed from the stems for washing yet can not fall out. These unique pieces come separately or in sets with chrome tray to match. You really must see them to know how smart chrome and crystal can be.

The Canadian Legion in the Porcupine

By One Interested in their Welfare

The depression is still with us, so they say, and as yet no remedy has been discovered to give the unemployed work. Relief grants have been cut to a minimum and some people at the present time are only just existing. Every once in a while some one comes across with a plan—writes about it in the newspapers—then forgets all about it. About two weeks ago in the House of Commons an M.P. opened one of the old ones. This gives your correspondent his chance:—

Launched in Timmins

The M.P. referred to above made the statement that between 100,000 to 150,000 young men should be enlisted into a Land Army, paid the army rate and put on to farms, land clearing, etc., for a period of months. If one will just take a jump back about three years ago, as a glance in the files of The Advance will prove, they will find that at a regular meeting of the Canadian Legion, held in the Oddfellows' hall, Comrade W. O. Langdon drafted a resolution along the lines, just recently outlined by the M.P. at Ottawa. Comrade Langdon, outlined at length the benefits of such a scheme. For a time this weekly feature of The Advance made comments upon the proposal. They showed that by enrolling the unemployed, the men would be housed and fed, and the cycle thus started would bring industries back into working full time and eventually relief would hardly be needed. Editorial comment was made in reference to W. O. Langdon's suggestions but the powers at Ottawa let these go by unheeded, except for the one who recently revived the proposals to the members in session at Ottawa. The scheme was launched by The Canadian Legion in Timmins, and if the government really does see the splendid advantages it has and puts it into effect, then some of us in Timmins will begin to think we have been of some use. When anything of helpful nature has been voiced it has been the policy of this column to feature it. For a time in regard to the "Unemployed Army" it looked as though we were going to get something started. Several were of the opinion that the scheme had great possibilities, but those in charge of relief problems had different views, and the result was that the agitators were allowed to crawl in among the unfortunates and everyone knows the results of their work. All who enlist in the "Unemployed Army" would have to take the oath of allegiance and sign for a given period. It might cost a few million dollars, but the Dominion would have something to show for it. Discipline would be a necessity and this in return would keep those with glib tongues out of the army as it did in days of yore. It is worthy of another try. Now that someone has at last voiced the scheme that was "Launched in Timmins" two or three years ago those responsible may see their ship riding the tide to prosperity.

It's Come at Last

It had to be! One could vision it long ago! The place in Timmins to which the veterans of the last war and others before that also generally parade has been christened. The dedication ceremony takes place on May 1st. The place will from then on be known as "Memorial Park." It all came to light at a recent council meeting when some organization asked for permission to parade on May 1st, with some addresses following. They were granted permission with speeches at "Memorial Park." After reading this, one immediately began to wonder where was this place. It could not be the one proposed in this column last year, because no action had been taken upon that scheme except that the cyanide has been covered with black earth, perhaps in readiness for such a scheme of beautifying the roadway. There was a Floral Park; that seemed too much out of the way for those who wish to tell the people of Timmins something. An Athletic Park, the map says "grounds." But not another spot that even resembled a park. Someone suggested that the spot at the railway station was what was meant and seeking the information of this, it was found to be the place. "Memorial Park?" Where's the memorial? There is a concrete block upon it with a very blackened tablet upon same. If that's the memorial, why wasn't the park given its name before? The truth is that the people know it is not a fitting tribute to those whose memory it commemorates. It's been a hard struggle to ever get anything done to this concrete structure. The Legion has had to ask to have the plate cleaned. If we are not going to get a new memorial, because of the lack of funds, will the town spend a little in having the base faced with some kind of marble or granite tiling; the chains painted; the plate kept polished and have the police see that during the summer transients and children are not allowed to loiter and play upon the edifice from which the Timmins Memorial Park derives its name?

"This Sunday"

There should be no excuse for a small attendance on Sunday of this week at the monthly meeting of Timmins branch of the Legion. The meeting will be held in the upstairs hall of the Legion building, Cedar street, south, at 2:30 p.m., on Sunday, April 19th. This is your notice to be present.

Royal Decree Ends Mourning for King

Queen Mary Expresses the Wish that London Resume its Social Affairs.

Advices this week from London, England, say that everyone not connected with the court will go out of mourning for the late King George V as a result of the express wish of Queen Mary, widow of his majesty the late king.

Hopes for a brilliant social season in London this summer have thus been revived, with the success of many traditional events assured.

Sets a Precedent

The Queen's wishes in this respect, setting a precedent in social history, were communicated through Lady Howard de Walden, one of London's leading hostesses, at a party given at her home in Belgrave Square.

The announcement set at rest fears that tourist trade, and the success of such events as the Covent Garden Opera, the Horse show, Henley and Wimbledon, would be interfered with by public mourning for the late King.

It is now taken for granted that Queen Charlotte's Hospital ball will be the first big social function in London at which the 1936 debutantes will be seen out of mourning.

"Debs" at Ball

In the absence of the Royal courts because of mourning, the hospital ball may be the only occasion on which the 1936 "debs" will be seen together.

More than 150 mothers of this year's debutantes attended Lady Howard de Walden's party, and 174 debutantes, it is estimated, will be at the ball.

The Queen's wishes in respect to mourning, submitted to 100 leading hostesses, were received with enthusiasm by West End dressmakers, florists, caterers and hotel managers. Weddings, balls and entertainments will be far more colourful and gay during the coming months than was anticipated.

Expect Much Activity in Matheson Area in 1936

A correspondent writing from Matheson says:—"A considerable spurt in mining activity in the Matheson district is anticipated for the coming summer, as a number of mines and prospects in the district prepare for active exploration and development as soon as weather conditions permit. A considerable number of men are already employed in surface exploration of various properties, with their numbers increasing gradually each week. Last week the directors of Munro-Creosus Mines Limited, a property controlled by Tellaurum Gold Mines Limited, visited their property, where an important new strike on the 425 foot level was reported late in 1935. Diamond drilling has been in progress at the property for several weeks, and it is expected activities will be further expanded shortly."

Ontario Mine Fatalities Lowest in Twenty-five Years

The lowest fatality rate in 25 years is the record of mining accidents in Ontario in 1935, according to a report issued by the provincial department of mines.

The return shows a rate of 1.52 per 1,000 men employed, which is a decrease of 0.13 from the rate of the preceding year and 1.09 per 1,000 lower than the average for the past quarter of a century.

There were 35 deaths arising out of 31 separate accidents reported at the mines, metallurgical works, quarries, clay, sand and gravel pits regulated by the Ontario Mining Act.

Classifying the fatalities according to industries gives the following: Gold mines 23, Nickel mines 8, Silver mines 0, Talc mines 0, Metallurgical works 3, Quarries 6, Sand, gravel and clay pits 1, Total 35.

There were 90 non-fatal accidents per 1,000 men employed, which is a decrease of three per 1,000 from the rate of 1934.

The highest rate in fatalities was reached in 1928 when there were 85 killed, the rate being 4.76 per 1,000 men employed. Total number of persons employed in 1935 was 22,972, an increase of 2,416 over the figures for 1934.

D. G. Sinclair, Toronto, is chief inspector of mines, and the district inspectors are: E. B. Weir, Timmins; E. C. Keeley, Kirkland Lake; D. F. Cooper, Sudbury, and A. R. Webster, Toronto.

Beautiful Church Burned in Guadalajara, Mexico

The Franciscan Church, considered one of the finest examples of colonial architecture in Mexico, was destroyed this week by a fire which authorities said was "set by criminal hands." Statues, paintings and religious objects valued at several hundred thousand dollars were burned to ashes.

Annual Report Issued by Ashley Gold Mining Co.

Annual report of Ashley Gold Mining Corporation shows 1935 operating profit of $54,295, compared with $60,428 in the previous year. After write-off of $63,607 prior development costs and transfer of $4,000 from contingency reserve, there was a net loss of $5,311. During the year 47,367 tons of ore were milled, with average grade of .2636 ounce per ton and recovery of $440,553. In 1934 milling was 43,543 tons averaging .315 ounces, with recovery of $456,831. Costs were $8.26 per ton, with a decline at the year-end.

Development of new ore did not keep pace with milling and reserves decreased both in grade and tonnage. Estimated reserves at the yearend were 10,760 tons, averaging less than 3 ounces per ton. An independent geologist has been studying the property since September. Several vein intersections were located by drilling, but failed to produce much new ore. The report says: "Unless new discoveries are made the life of this mine will be short."

Foreman Blames Worker for Own Death Recently

Accidental death was the verdict returned this week at Copper Cliff by a jury under Coroner Dr. G. R. Jones inquiring into the death April 4 of Steve Bohniak, construction employe of the Fraser Brace Company at Copper Cliff. Bohniak was killed when a concrete block fell on him at the International Nickel Company's smelter.

Antoine Samson, foreman, was the principal witness. He said a gang of men were excavating a hill of earth about 18 feet high with a 15-ton hoist crane. The men were using picks and shovels to remove debris and the crane was moving boulders and concrete from an old foundation.

After several attempts failed to move a huge concrete block, a compressor air "chipper" was used to break it up.

He said the men were warned to stay away from the block but that Bohniak went behind it to get his pick. He warned him not to go near the block and then returned to the chipper. Samson said the next thing he knew he was told by workmen that the block had fallen on Bohniak.
