Banquet of Ladies' Auxiliary Success

One of the artists given a particularly warm welcome back to an Auxiliary programme was Wilson Thomson, who on Monday night made his first appearance at a Legion gathering since the Legion hall has been erected. Mr. Thomson delighted the audience with a recitation of his own composition. He was recalled twice.

Other artists on the programme who specially delighted the crowd were:—Mrs. Gay, Miss Peggy Shaw, Mrs. Chulak and R-n Jones, all of whom won very noteworthy popular favour. Miss Peggy Shaw made a special hit with her presentation of "In Our Home of Dreams." This slow foxtrot song, published by the noted London, England, firm of Peter Derek Limited, has special interest in Timmins because its author, Peter Craig Boyd, is a well-known Timmins violinist. All were delighted with the song and with its pleasing rendition by Miss Peggy Shaw.

During the intermission the ladies served refreshments to the men, at which time Fred Curtis was called upon for a couple of his favourite numbers, W. A. Devine accompanying him on the piano.
Mrs. Jean Larcher was the pianist for the evening and her talented work added much to the evening's success.
Fred Curtis was M.C. for the evening.
One of the items on the evening's proceedings that will be long remembered by many is the response to the calls for a speech from Mrs. Harting who was the lucky winner of the ticket prize. Mrs. Harting pointed out that two years ago the lady sitting at her right had been the winner of the prize for the evening; last year the lady on her left had won the prize; and this year she herself had been the lucky one.

Compensation Board in Town at Present

Inquiry into Number of Cases of Alleged Silicosis-Tuberculosis.

Inquiry began at the town hall this morning into a number of alleged silicosis-tuberculosis cases in which compensation is not at present being paid. With Dr. Bell, Dr. Galbraith and Mr. Hutchison of the Workmen's Compensation Board and the contingency committee of the town council doing the questioning, a dozen or so men told the story of their employment in Northern mines.

Medical examination and a detailed investigation of all the information brought out to-day will precede any action on the part of the board. Circumstances in some cases have already pointed the way toward mix-ups. One man had had jobs at Hollinger under at least two different names, he said. With most, employment had been intermittent. All are now unfit for underground work. It is claimed, through lung disease, and have become a burden on the municipality.

Many of the men had been maintained in sanatoriums by the town, it was brought out at a recent council meeting, and the present inquiry is to establish the responsibility of the men's conditions. The council's idea is to reduce the cost of keeping those in sanatoriums who have been victims of industrial disease.

Dr. Galbraith and Mr. Hutchison are to meet officials of the mining companies while they are in town and will talk over the question of silicosis.

Pleasant Social of Co-operative Guild

P. Larmer Suggests Extension of Co-operative Idea to Doctors, Dentists, Repairs, Etc.

Another social evening and card party was arranged at the Consumers Social last night by the Consumers Social and Educational Guild. Five tables of whist, one chess and another of various games took place. The prizes, sundries donated by the wholesalers, went to Mr. T. Thomas, Mrs. J. Worthington and Mrs. J. Stevens.

Refreshments included Co-op. Coffee, sandwiches, cakes, English and Scotch Co-operative Wholesale Society's Ceylon tea, etc., were served. The speaker of the evening was Mr. P. Larmer, who was introduced by Mr. J.

Worthington. "New Ideas on Expansion of Co-operative Benefits" was the topic of discussion. Mr. Larmer described the possibilities of including professional services, such as dentistry, medical aid, watch-repairing, optometry and even shoe-repairs into the co-operative field. He suggested the Board of Directors of the Consumers Cooperative Society investigate these possibilities because by adopting a co-op. dentist, doctor, optician, jeweller, etc., members and customers of the society would gain many conveniences and advantages.

This method is broadly developed in old co-operative countries, England and Scotland, where through their own co-operatives the members can secure almost everything, even up to the undertaker.

Manager Mr. C. M. Haapanen, thanked the speaker on behalf of the Consumers staff for his favourable comment on the service rendered and promised that the Board would give every consideration to the above suggestions.

A despatch from Detroit on Monday says that three human heads were stolen from an automobile parked on Mullett St. between Hastings and Rivard Sts. They had been left in a suitcase in the car by Oscar V. Batson, professor of anatomy at the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School, who lectured to the Wayne County Medical Society.

The heads were recovered several hours later when two suitcases containing them were found under a house at 938 Mullett St.

A suit of clothes was missing, however.

KENTUCKY GOLF BIT ON COURSE BY A FISH? YES!

Caddie at a Louisville, Kentucky, golf course reached into a water trap the other day for his golfer's ball. He jumped back, saying "It bit me." Investigation revealed that a yearling bass had made its home in the trap.

THE VIEW OF THE SAULT

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)
Premier Hepburn has shown himself to be a good friend of Northern Ontario, but residents of the section between the French River and the Manitoba boundary will be disappointed at the decision of the Cabinet to abolish the Department of Northern Development and to distribute its work among other departments.

Mr. Hepburn announces that the change is dictated by motives of economy, and points out where it is expected that savings will be made. But against that there should perhaps be set the fact that the problems of Northern Ontario are very different from those of the older portion of the province, and require different treatment. It is a vast and for the most part unsettled area with a great variety of resources, and it is for that reason that Northern Ontario residents and those familiar with its extent and its possibilities will feel that it would be advisable to continue the system of having a special department and a special minister responsible for its development.

AS IN ONTARIO

(Edmonton Journal)
Only the other day a man who has lived in a nearby town for the past five years decided he would move his family to Edmonton. Once here, he applied immediately for relief, and had to be given it. The city probably will have to trust to the courts to be reimbursed. Before the new regulation went into effect this applicant would have been refused relief in Edmonton and told to return to his home town. What's more, knowing that this would happen, he probably would have hesitated to leave his home at all.

PAYING, AND KNOWING IT

(London Free Press)

There is much to be said for direct taxation. It makes taxpayers realists. We pay indirect taxation on sugar, cigarettes, cheques, telephone calls, etc., ad infinitum, hardly realizing they are taxes, but when hard cash is extracted from the pocket, it really hurts. It makes people realize the frightful price they are paying for the bureaucracy of over-government.

If all taxation could be as direct as income and property levies, the people who pay wouldn't be so indifferent to the quality of governments they elect to spend their money. More of the uncompromising realism of direct taxation and less of this mooning about in a fool's paradise of indirect taxation, would be a very good thing for this and every other country.
