BE BEAUTIFUL By ELSIE PIERCE FAMOUS BEAUTY EXPERT

Warm sunny days find MONA BARRIE giving personal attention to her garden. But hands are protected from callouses and ruined finger nails by beauty gloves.

GARDENING SEASON IS HERE—WILL YOUR HANDS SUFFER?

He (who happens to be her husband), "Would you believe that these hands have been gardening all day—I've seen them with my very eyes."

She (this wife): "Flatterer, still the big boy though he's more than twice twenty. But, gardening is a favourite outdoor sport of the screen stars—why shouldn't we all indulge?"

To which a wise young blade added, "Nothing like getting down to earth."

Later when the women gathered in the far corner there was a general buzz, "Did she really do her own gardening and how in the world did she keep her hands so soft and white and young and her nails so perfect. Didn't the sand dig deep under the nail whittes? How did she guard against scratches. And sandpaper roughness? And general discolorations. She was besieged with questions."

Cream Treated Gloves She confessed that she didn't work in the raw and rough, she wore gloves—and what gloves! Have you ever heard of gloves that are cream-treated? They serve a double purpose. They protect the hands and actually benefit and beautify them at the same time.

There's really such fun in gardening. It's a sport for rich and poor alike. From the backyard with a single patch to the elaborate garden, there's the same spade-digging, sand-sifting, seeding and the same fun, at length, in watching the flowers pop up and smile "how-do."

The "she" of our story had not only been going through the usual gardening routine, but had been shifting stones and boulders about making a rock garden, but her hands never showed a sign. No sign except one, and that a very charming one; the poise and grace that comes with using the hands and using them well.

Grace in Gestures For you'll find, if you notice carefully, that working hands develop a character and grace seldom found in the absolutely idle hands. Whenever, you use your hands, however, try to make every movement a curve or circle. Get used to doing that so that when you do gesture, and gesture only when you must, each movement will be graceful and meaningful. And when you do not have to gesture, remember that there is infinite beauty in hands in repose. Remember, too, that nothing is more destructive to poise than hands that move aimlessly, nervously, hands that fidget and finger, scratch and stroke and tug and pull unnecessarily. Relax. Calm yourself. (Copyright 1936, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Ask Government Aid for Hospital Costs

Fixed Contribution Suggested at Meeting of Northern Mayors at Sudbury Last Week.

A fixed annual contribution toward hospitalization by organized municipalities, the government to assume the unpaid balance, and the government also to assume responsibility of indigents from unorganized territories was recommended in a resolution endorsed by the Northern Ontario Municipal Convention in session at the Nickel Range hotel in Sudbury Saturday.

In presenting the resolution on hospitalization, Mayor W. H. C. Jackson, of Parry Sound, declared: "The cost of hospitalization has become outlandish in some municipalities. It has gone up by leaps and bounds in the last few years."

Says Resolution Incomplete Alderman A. R. Huggill, of Sault Ste. Marie, stated that the resolution was defective since it provided in no way for these people to pay their own way. Fundamentally, he said, it does not cure the situation.

"I think the resolution should be unanimously passed by this convention," declared Mayor W. J. Cullen, of Sudbury, "and I think it is fool-proof as it stands."

In Sudbury, according to Alderman E. C. Facer, hospitalization costs had mounted comparably with relief costs. In 1930 hospitalization cost the city $10,000 and in the present year it was estimated it would cost $26,000. He also pointed out that the question of what constituted an indigent was an important item for consideration.

The Resolution was passed finally as follows:

"That local hospitals be given a greater measure of protection by making it compulsory for indigent patients to be taken to their local or nearest hospital for treatment, except in such cases as require special treatment not available in local or nearest hospital, and furthermore

"That some definite yearly levy or contribution be made by organized municipalities toward hospitalization of indigents, the government to assume the unpaid balance and the government still assume responsibility for all hospitalization of indigents, from unorganized territory.

"That the Public Hospitals' Act be amended to provide:

"(1) A specific definition of an indigent person.

"(2) To extend the time of residence to constitute an indigent person as a resident of a municipality to one year instead of three months as now provided.

"(3) To provide that no person shall be admitted as an indigent without an order from the medical officer of health or relief officer of the municipality that must accept liability, except in case of emergencies, as set out in Section 26 (2) of the Act when the procedure outlined therein be adopted for all municipalities."

That Body of Ours

By James W. Barton, M.D., Toronto Curing Migraine—One-Sided Headache I believe that most physicians including myself have the idea that the liver is in some way connected with migraine or one sided headache.

Drs. Etienne and Colleson of Nancy, France, recently reported their observations as to the part played by the imperfect work of the liver in causing migraine. They report three types of migraine: (1) the usual severe one-sided headaches occurring from time to time; (2) the cases in which the one-sided headache is present practically all the time, with a feeling especially on awakening of a confused mental state, nausea often without vomiting, fatigue, and inability to concentrate and to work; (3) the same as the second type only periods when the headache becomes more severe.

Forty-five persons were given treatment, the object of which was to stimulate the action of the liver, such as alkalies in small doses, especially sodium benzoate, magnesium salicylate, sodium citrate and vegetable and other liver stimulants (to increase the flow of bile).

In seven of the forty-five cases the attacks disappeared completely after fifteen days of treatment. In twelve other cases the same result was obtained only after two months. In the remaining eighteen cases the attacks disappeared after a longer interval. Eight cases are not included because they have not been followed for a sufficiently long time.

In all, thirty-seven cases of the forty-five who were given only the above medicines to stimulate liver action were relieved completely of their attacks.

Now it is not my intention to suggest that sufferers from migraine should immediately start on a course of alkalies and bile-stimulating drugs. Treatment of this kind should be under a physician's supervision.

My point however is that as a sluggish and gall bladder appear to have something to do with causing migraine then the liver and gall bladder should be stimulated.

Some physicians get satisfactory results by prescribing bending exercises (knees straight), and the use of a level teaspoonful of Epsom salts two or three times a week.

NEW TRAIN SCHEDULE FOR THE T. & N. O. RAILWAY

As noted in The Advance last week, the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway and the Nipissing Central Railway announce change of time in passenger train schedules effective on Sunday, May 17. New time tables are now being prepared and will be available with all agents in the course of a few days. No new trains are being established nor are any withdrawn.

The service which has been available throughout the winter months and which has proven, from close study, to have satisfactorily taken care of passenger traffic available will be continued with some slight alterations which should prove beneficial.

To Enter Appeal in Having Liquor Case

Lawyer for Defence Says Appeal Likely* Made in Next Twenty Days.

The case of Cliff Caesar, fined $100 and costs in police court on Tuesday on a charge of having liquor in a public place, will probably be appealed within the next 20 days, A. C. Brown, counsel for the defence, told The Advance yesterday. Caesar himself says that if Judge Caron at Cochrane fails to reverse the magistrate's decision, he will carry an appeal to Toronto.

An unusual situation developed at court following the conviction on Tuesday. In the past, when an appeal has been announced, the practice has been for the magistrate to grant bail, usually $500 cash in cases such as this, but acting under instructions received from the attorney-general's office recently, the magistrate was unable to allow bail until a certificate could be produced from the office of the district court clerk showing that such an appeal had really been entered. This new regulation makes it necessary for all to pay their fines before being granted their freedom.

As an indication that the provincial police in Timmins were not out to persecute in this case, Caesar was permitted to remain out of the cells at the local police station for the first hour of time after the conviction had been registered. Two hours after the conviction the fine had been paid.

Kirkland Expects Mail Delivery About July 1st

According to word this week from Kirkland Lake that town expects to have mail delivery in actual operation there by about the first of July. That is not official, but it is the opinion of those in Kirkland Lake who have kept in close touch with the matter. Work in Kirkland Lake is proceeding in the installing of street signs, numbering houses, installing mail boxes and door slots, and the other requirements asked by the Dept. These requirements are noted in an item elsewhere in this paper.

Word from Ottawa is to the effect that the Government has approved the employing of eight letter carriers for Kirkland Lake for the mail delivery. They will be appointed likely next month. In the meantime the civil service commission will hold an examination for letter carriers, and from this examination a list of eligibles will be made, the eight required being selected from this list.
