Ottawa Journal:—When it comes to mistakes the supply always exceeds the demand.

Huntingdon Gleaner:—After being in prison for five months, awaiting trial on a charge of murdering her husband Marie Motchnik, a Yugoslavia woman has been acquitted. The murder charge was based solely on evidence submitted by her own two children—a son age 17 and a nine-year-old daughter. The told police they had seen their mother mix poison with their father's food. His body was exhumed, but a post mortem proved death was from natural causes. As a result the mother has been acquitted—and the two children confessed they accused their mother because they were afraid she might marry again and they did not want to have a stepfather.

"There are times when the short-wave station of the Canadian Commission comes in splendidly, but it is so uncertain and so frequently crowded out that it is far from satisfactory for Northern radio owners. Consequently, we are of the same opinion as our counterparts at Timmins and Rouyn-Noranda, and believe the immediate solution of the trouble is the increased power of broadcasting stations at Toronto and Montreal, each carrying different programmes and of sufficient power to stop the interference of the American WLW station. Given this service much discontent would be over-
