Three Months for Porter for Carrying Revolver

But Charge Against Him for Illegal Possession of Gold Dismissed. Provincial Officers Could Not Swear Porter Had Thrown Away Black Parcel Containing Gold. Gold Estreated to Crown.

Ben Granger, formerly a porter on the C.P.R. pullman running from Montreal to Timmins, will spend three months at hard labour in the Halleybury jail as punishment for carrying a revolver without a permit.

A charge of having gold illegally, laid against the same man, was dismissed by Magistrate Atkinson at Tuesday's court when there was insufficient evidence to show that a little black cloth bag containing $400 worth of partly treated gold ore was ever in the possession of the lanky dark man.

The gold itself was ordered estreated by the magistrate.

Provincial Constable J. W. F. Pretorius told the story of the evening of August 7th when Granger was arrested. It was between 11.30 and 11.45 that he, and Provincial Constable White and District Constable Allen went down the track from the T. & N. O. station nearly to the Hill-Clark-Francis warehouse and waited there for Granger to appear. Constable Pretorius was closer to the street than the other two and was behind a post while the other two were behind a flat car.

Said "Wait" Then Ran
"I saw a car stop and I saw the accused get out of it. I walked toward him, told him it was the police. He said 'Wait a minute' then started to run. I took after him, caught up to him and after a little struggle, arrested him. He had a revolver in his hand and had dropped it at his feet. The gun was loaded."

Constables White and Allen joined the other officer immediately and Mr. Allen picked up the revolver that lay on the ground.

"You knew he was coming along?" Dean Kester, counsel for Granger, asked.

"I expected him."
The officer said he had seen a shiny object in the porter's right hand from the time he stepped from the car. This later proved to be the gun. He said:

"If Granger said what he had in his hand were the keys to his pullman, what would you say?"

"I would say he was a liar."

"Is there any doubt in your mind that he dropped the revolver?" the magistrate asked the officer.

"None at all, your worship."

Porter Tells His Story
Granger said he was going to his car between 11.30 and midnight when "A man rushed out from behind a box car. He flashed a light on me. When he said 'officer,' I stopped." He had thought at first it was a hold-up, he said. "It was dark in there."
"Did you have a revolver with you?" asked Mr. Kester.

Four-Month Season for Trapping Otter

Open Season to be Declared for Otter Again This Year. Nov. 1st to Feb. 28th.

Open season for the trapping of otter will again be declared by the Department of Game and Fisheries, it was learned this week. From November 1st to February 28th those who have proper trapping licenses may once more legally catch the valuable animals.

Last year's otter catch in this district was good, and many thousands of dollars worth of pelts were sold by trappers. It was the first time in many years the taking of otter had been permitted. Average price paid to the trappers for pelts is said to be about $20. Coats made of otter are among the most valuable, both in men's and women's wear.

Damage of $10,000 from Fire on Third Avenue

Fire at Northern Upholstery Store had Big Start Before Discovery. Adjoining Buildings Saved from Damage. Literally Thousands of People Watched Firemen Conquer Menacing Fire.

Fire of an unknown origin did more than $10,000 damage on Monday night to the building at 94 Third avenue, occupied by the Northern Upholstery Company and owned by Shankman Brothers.

To the three thousand people who gathered almost immediately at the corner of Third avenue and Mounjoy street, it looked as if the whole series of frame buildings were to go up in smoke. Flames burst through the roof, reddened the sky and attracted people from all over town.

Yet despite the fact that the fire had a big start, the Timmins brigade of 11 regulars and 16 volunteers kept the blaze within the four walls of the furniture store, a business owned by Mr. Koza. The Northern Hotel next door was cleared of furniture within a few minutes, so serious did the fire appear. Residents of a nearby house had all their furniture loaded in a transport truck, ready to take away.

Through five lines, 2400 feet of hose, the firemen poured hundreds of tons of water into the blazing building. The first water was on the fire just a few minutes after Box 51 was rung in by Constable Garipey who saw the smoke coming from the building while on his rounds about 8.50 p.m.

Three Months on Charge Keeping Liquor for Sale

Had 41 Pints in a Cubbyhole in Cellar. Two Charges of Stealing Chickens Dismissed. Wood Dealer Cleared of Theft of Wood. Other Cases at Police Court Here This Week.

Additional Cases at the Police Court Wednesday

Two drunks who appeared in Timmins police court yesterday morning before Magistrate Atkinson pleaded guilty to having been drunk and were fined $10 and costs. One of them, a Finn, was to have appeared yesterday but "misunderstood," he said through an interpreter.

Another man appeared on a charge of supplying liquor to an intoxicated person. Police asked an adjournment of six days which was granted.

Report of the regular police court will be found elsewhere on this page.

John Lirman, 24 1/2 Kimberly avenue, was sentenced by Magistrate Atkinson in police court on Tuesday to a three-month term at hard labour in the Halleybury jail when he was found guilty of keeping liquor for sale at that address.

Forty-three pints of beer had been found in his home, in a "cubbyhole," reached by a trapdoor to a small basement. They were in a washbottle and a large kettle half buried in the sand.

Sergeant Olson and Constable Devine had raided the place on Sunday and had found two women and four men there drinking. "I have to sell beer to make a living," the accused was alleged by police officers to have said. He denied this in court but both policemen were sure of his words.

Refused to Give Evidence
"Do you want to give evidence yourself?" the magistrate asked Lirman.

"No," he replied.

Earl Boyer faced a similar charge, laid by provincial police. Constable White had visited Boyer's place in Mounjoy township and had found two men there drinking beer. F. Scullivan, who on the night of the raid was alleged to have said he bought the beer, was asked, "Did you pay for it?"

"No, no," he said, "he treat me."

The case was dismissed.

Sam Despatie, found by R.C.M.P. officers with three pints of illicit spirits in his possession, pleaded guilty and was given the minimum—a $100 fine or three months. He paid.

Lost Trail of Chickens
The trail of the four stolen chickens, a case that has been hanging around for nearly a month now, was finally lost in court, when the fowl could not be positively identified at the same ones the police officers had brought in to the police station with Nick Petro and John Boteroit.

Walter Milton was positive the four frozen hens produced in court were the same ones that had been taken from his henhouse at 269 Balsam street north in the early hours of the morning of July 18th. Two of them were Anconas, a breed which was rare in Timmins, Mr. Milton said. One was a brown leghorn and the other a cross-bred bird, nearly black. "I know them the same as I know my wife," he asserted.

Constables Devine and Culhane told of being on patrol early that morning and of having seen two men standing in the middle of the road. "As soon as they saw the police van, they ran," a brief chase in the van made it possible for the officers to catch Boteroit in the act of throwing a bag over the fence. His hands were covered with blood and the bag contained some chickens. They arrested him and brought him to the police station. Returning to the neighbourhood they picked up Petro, who ran down an alley between two houses, they said.

But because the police could not establish a complete chain of evidence about the bag of chickens from the time they were delivered at the station by the constables until they were produced in court a month later, the magistrate held the weak link was sufficient to free both Boteroit and Petro.

Cleared of Wood Theft Charge
Another complicated case in which a charge of theft was the main feature was that against Leo Cousineau who had been charged with stealing some of the Arrow Land and Logging Company's firewood. Constable White had visited two places in Timmins where he had found wood marked with the figure "107" and a large letter "S". Both had obtained their wood from Mr. Cousineau. A. Johnson, manager of the company, said that "107" was the number of one of their cutters. He could not tell whether or not Mr. Cousineau had bought the wood from them. The company's foreman remembered selling only one cord to the accused, and it was spruce and balsam, not tamarack, as the wood found in Timmins was. He said he had missed a quantity of wood from Murphy township where cutting was going on.

Two other men remembered having gone with Mr. Cousineau out the Big-water lake road on two occasions on which wood was brought back. Thomas Chartrand testified that he had sold wood to Mr. Cousineau in Murphy township and that it was all from his own wood lot. The case was then dismissed.

Stole Bicycle—Sent Down
"Thirty days hard labour each. You've got to stop this thing," was the magistrate's sentence after hearing John Kremer plead guilty to stealing a bicycle and Albert Kremer plead guilty to having kept stolen parts of the bicycle in his possession.

Constable Olson said John had borrowed a bicycle, had smashed it and had then stolen one from which to get parts to repair the broken one. Both young men had been in industrial school in 1927 after having been mixed up in a theft.

Paul Belisle was remanded for a week on charges of keeping liquor for sale and assault. He is free on $100 cash bail.

and were fined $10. Another pleaded not guilty but police said he had been in a dangerous position on the Hollinger flats roads, so drunk that he might have been killed by a passing car. He was fined. Ray Gibbons admitted a drunk conviction in April, so paid $50 and costs for an offence this week. O.

name was called.

An "indecent act" cost one citizen
$5.00 and another $10.00.

Many Drivers Fined
Herman Mowbray paid a fine of $20
and costs for reckless driving and had his driver's permit suspended for 30 days. Clement Watson paid $25 and costs for a similar offence and had his license suspended for 30 days. Herman Nykanen and Harry Herman were others charged with reckless driving who paid fines of $10.

Four speeders paid $10 fines, three who had defective brakes paid the same amount, as did one who had no driver's permit. Having no lights, illegal parking and failing to stop at parking street intersections brought minor fines to six others.
