No More Coughing or Sleepless Nights

Mr. H. A. Allan, of Sarnia, Ontario, writes: "For years I suffered every Fall and Winter with a terrible cough. I have had many sleepless nights and coughed until tears ran, and my stomach ached. I started again with the same old cough about October first—but after a few doses of Buckley's Mixture my cough was gone."
Recognize the fact that BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE is economical—triple acting—alkaline—penetrates air passages—soothes—helps you instantly get rid of germ-laden phlegm—test it today at any first class drug store and find out why BUCKLEY'S outsells all other cough and cold remedies in Canada.

Hope to Have King Visit Different Parts of Empire

The Earl of Clarendon, Governor-General of South Africa, at Bloemfontein, South Africa, this week said he anticipated that after the coronation the King would visit India to be crowned Emperor.

Lord Clarendon added he was particularly anxious, speaking of himself alone, that His Majesty should visit South Africa and other parts of the Empire. But whether he would be able to persuade the powers that be to permit the visit he was unable to say.

Replying to the toast at a banquet in his honour, the Governor-General said his audience could rest assured that as far as he, Lord Clarendon, was concerned he hoped difficulties in the way could be removed and that the King, in the course of the next two or three years, would find it possible to come to South Africa as head of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Celebrating Sixteen Years of Service in Business

Starting to-morrow (Friday) Mark Bowie Limited, men's wear store, is holding an anniversary sale to observe the achievement of sixteen years of service in business in the town of Timmins. Sixteen years ago the late Mark Bowie, one of the pioneer business men of the Porcupine camp, bought out the tailoring business of Jos. A. Theriault, opposite the New Empire theatre on Third avenue, and the business under careful management and generous service to the public, has grown with the development of the town and district. Quality and courtesy were featured from the start, and the Bowie store was always noted for its modern neatness and attractiveness. Through the years the same policy has kept the business in the popularity and esteem won from the beginning. Mark Bowie Ltd. is observing sixteen years of successful service by a long list of special values in which profits are shared with the customers, new and old.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson left on Friday to visit their parents in Mount Forest, and the Manitoulin Island.

On Monday evening Messrs R. Heath, W. Small, Hugh Calverly, Dennis Duxfield and W. Jones returned from their duck hunt at Moosonee, and report that game was plentiful but weather conditions were not so good.

Mrs. J. Tompkins, of Saskatoon, was the guest of Mrs. J. Ferguson over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Tompkins were pioneer residents of the camp, and left here in 'seventeen for the West. They were amazed at the progress of the town since that time.

Rev. Father Martindale left Monday for a few days' visit at the home of his mother in Earlton.

Interesting Meeting Legion on Monday

A very pretty wedding took place in the Church of the Nativity, Timmins, on Sunday afternoon, when Helen M. daughter of Mr. and the late Mrs. Oprey, of Montreal, became the bride of William J. Workiewicz. Father Gabriel performed the ceremony. The bride wore a beautiful white satin gown, made on Princess lines and its only trimming was white applique rose buds forming the collar and top part of the long fitted sleeves. The skirt was finished with a long train. Her veil of silk net, made in cape style, was caught to the head with a coronet of seed pearls. She wore silver shoes, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and fern, tied with silver ribbon. She was attended by Mrs. N. Blahay, as matron of honour, gowned in brown suede crepe, with burnt orange trimmings, brown velour hat, and carried Johanna Hill roses. Miss Mary Ritchy-nzki, bridesmaid, wore a gown of pink lace, over pink satin, with blue velvet trimmings and wore matching velvet hat, and carried carnations and fern. Miss Tilly Charwick, second bridesmaid, wore a blue net over blue satin, matching velvet hat, and carried carnations and fern. The groom's attendants were Nick Wivchoruk, and Mike Gayola. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Tomiuk, 110 Fourth avenue, where the house and verandah were decorated with evergreens extending to the gate where a welcome was written over the gate for the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs.

Much business was completed at the general meeting of the Canadian Legion on Monday. President Austin Neame occupied the chair, supported by Vice-presidents J. Cowan and A. Borland. Six new members were initiated into the branch.

The financial statement for the nine months came in for some discussion, the chief item being the amount expended on relief. This was $11,000. Some members suggested that this item should be partly carried by the town. The president mentioned that the town had been generous on this account by refunding the cost of the building lot and rebate upon taxes this year. He also said that if everyone gave generously upon Poppy Day the branch funds would not be needed for this work. There are 297 paid-up members upon the roll and a very creditable balance on hand, $1,000 had also been paid off the building during the past nine months.

The branch sanctioned the formation of an orchestra, to be known as the Legion orchestra. There are at present some of the town's best musicians in the branch and their talent will be used to foster the interests of the branch.

It is expected that Austin Neame will receive an acclamation for president again this year, on account of the provincial convention to be held here in August of 1937. Several have been nominated for the office but it was generally voiced that these will refuse to run against the present president.

To date all this year's officers have been nominated along with a score of new and older members. The next monthly meeting will close nominations and the election will be held in December.

A very interesting and informative discussion in which lawyers, bank managers, and real estate dealers figured, centred around the final ownership of the Legion building. To many present this was a source of enlightenment, and the final outcome will not be known until the branch really does finish paying off the building loan.

There was a large attendance and the meeting was carried through in fine manner.

Golf on Curriculum of B.C. Technical School

There may or may not be a rush of students to New Westminster, B.C. For one thing the weather is rather against the idea, though they do claim a sort of everlasting summer in British Columbia, or at least as much summer as there is winter in the North. But anyway, the T. J. Trapp Technical School at New Westminster, B.C., has announced that the school is going to specialize in training for actual life as well as business. The school has added golf to its curriculum. Students will play once a week. It will be too bad if the students find that their studies are stifling their golf. This may be. Even business has been known to put a man off his golf more or less.

Pointers for Use of Grapes on the Menu

Recipe for Grape Pie. All Bran Pastry. All Bran Muffins.

(By Barbara B. Brooks)
Few of Nature's gifts are so lovely to look at and few have earned so much praise in song and story as the grape. Poets have taken pages to tell of the beauties of the loaded vine and the purple fruit, dripping and sweet with juice. Anyone who lives in a grape country and can see the arbors, covered with luscious jewels, will really appreciate the poet's words, and anyone who does not live in the vineyard country can still appreciate the flavour of the fruit.

There are many varieties of grapes which the homemaker can use in her kitchen. Hothouse grapes are available all the year around, but there is something about the outdoor blending of sun and wind which gives added sweetness to vine-ripened fruit. To the person with a little of the Druid in his make-up, no grapes ever taste quite so good as that bunch which is plucked off the heavily laden vines and eaten with the dew of the vineyard emphasizing the violet or purple glory of its colouring. The children, who think that wild grapes are the perfect fruit, and come home after a straggle trip through the autumn countryside, covered with juice stains. Many women have found that no other variety of grapes can quite compare in flavour and tartness to wild grapes, and use them for jellies to serve with meats. If they are able to get wild grapes from the vines, they are fortunate, for many of us live where wild grapes would seem as strange and rare as wild animals.

The use of grapes in salads is unlimited, and for harvest dishes they are a lovely garnish. They make a beautiful centrepiece for autumn tables, combined with leaves and other fall fruits. For jelly there is nothing nicer, and who doesn't enjoy grape juice?

Grapes are highly perishable and delicate. Moisture on the fruit will cause deterioration, and since they are apt to collect moisture while standing, place them where there is a free circulation of air. Look the bunches over frequently and remove spoiled grapes. However, do not handle the fruit unnecessarily.

When you have made your jelly, serve it for breakfast with hot all bran muffins, in jelly roll, to accompany a crown rib roast of lamb, on sandwiches, in tarts, and of course you have other favourite ways of using it, too. Here we give you the recipe for a new pastry that goes with jelly in tarts to perfection, and a recipe for muffins to eat with grape jelly at breakfast. This grape pie is good with the bran pastry, too.

Grape Pie
4 cups Concord grapes
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 recipe bran pastry

Wash and stem grapes; cut in half; remove seeds. Mix sugar, flour, cornstarch, salt and grated lemon rind together thoroughly; combine with grapes. Cook slowly until thick and clear. Stir occasionally being careful not to crush grapes. Cool. Line a pie pan with pastry. Fill pastry with cooled filling. Cut a few gashes in centre of top crust. Moisten edges of under crust with water; place top crust on lightly. Press edges of top and bottom crusts together and trim one-half inch beyond pan, using scissors. Flute by placing forefinger and thumb of left hand against outside edge and pressing pastry against forefinger of right hand. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 1 8-inch pie.

All Bran Pastry
1/4 cup all bran
1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
5 tablespoons cold water (more or less)

Roll all bran and combine with flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Mix until the consistency of cornmeal. Add enough water to form dough. Roll out on floured board to 1/8 inch in thickness. Yield: 1 2-crust pie or 2 8" pastry shells.

All Bran Muffins
2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all bran
1/2 cup milk
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat until creamy. Add all bran and milk; let soak until the moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderate oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes.

Yield: 8 large muffins (3" in diameter) or 12 small (2 1/4" in diameter). Note: When sour milk or buttermilk is used instead of sweet milk, use 1/2 teaspoon soda and only 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Girl Guides Now in Forty-two Countries

Guide Week Being Observed Throughout the World This Week.

This is Girl Guide Week and is being observed not only in Timmins, the North, Canada, the Empire, but also in over 40 other countries in the world. Tuesday of this week was International Day of Canadian Girl Guide Week, when Guides throughout Canada stressed the international significance of Guiding in linking together one and one-half million girls in 42 countries in a sisterhood of youth and service.

The Guides of Canada keep in touch with their sisters around the world through the national post boxes, which arrange for correspondence between Guides in different countries, and through the various international camps and conferences which are held each year.

Canadian Guides share with others the world Guide chalet in Aedeoboden, Switzerland, which serves as an international holiday home and training centre. The World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts binds together the many national Guide associations, and the Canadian Girl Guide Association ranks as fourth in the membership of the World Association.

Among the many international camps held in the past ten years Canada has been represented in Belgium, Poland, Netherlands, Denmark, Switzerland, Suomin-Hungary, France, Irish Free State, Finland and England.

The following notes on Guiding throughout the world give some idea of how widespread is the movement, and of its value to girls of all nationalities and creeds in training them to become happy, useful citizens.

In Poland in the heart of the Carpathian Mountains is a house lent to the Guides by the province of Selesia as a training school for the Guides. During term time the state schools in certain big Silesian towns send groups of 40 or 50 children for Guide training and school work under the supervision of a group of Guides and resident school teachers. In Poland fire is the symbol of life, so from one Guide campfire to another a part of the embers is saved. When a Guide leaves the training school she takes a stick from the embers with which to start her own company campfire.

The old Spanish custom of keeping the good caste girl busy with embroidery in her own home is crumbling in Puerto Rico where Girl Scouting has introduced the joys and fun of hiking and camping.

In Ceylon at a Guide rally held at Colombo during the visit of the World Chief Scout and Guide, were Hindus, Jews, Buddhists, Parsees, Brahmims, Mohammedans and Christians parading in all friendliness on the same ground.

The Chinese government insists upon all registered schools providing Guide training during some period of a girl's first three years in the junior high school.

Hungarian Guides held two "wandering" camps last summer, one on the Danube for the Water Guides and the other a journey to Italy.

The Girl Guides of Vienna have an old castle as their headquarters. Rows of houses and streets have sprung up around it, but the castle stands in all its romantic beauty in a little old park with beautiful columns and vases. It is one of Maria Theresa's hunting lodges.

Into Malay the Guiding hand reached to bring together as Guides a Malay girl, whose joy as a small child at seeing and caring for a white baby for the first time was culminated on the day when both the children grew up and were enrolled in the Guide sisterhood.

When 40 African Guides assembled for a Guide camp week in Uganda they were so generously provided with food by the village chief that there was a danger of over-eating. During the week the Guides cleared a half-acre field for an old blind woman, and with her daily blessings showered on them, they planted enough food to last her for six months. Two African princesses, the daughters of the King of Uganda, were enrolled as Guides in a company of 12 African girls who are betrothed to natives who want their wives to learn how to run their household in European style.

Japanese Guides wear blue kimono-type uniforms. Guiding in Japan is now receiving publicity through the Asahi Shinbun, the newspaper with the largest circulation in that country.

Guelph Mercury:—The photo shown of Sir Oswald Mosley, in most of the papers, either tells the full story, or seems run by his enemies for propaganda purposes.

Blairmore Enterprise:—A farmer friend of the Coleman Journal informs that paper the difference between a tax and a levy. "The tax takes half of what you have, while the levy takes it all."
