(Continued from Page One) $5,750, a total of $86,750. Sixty per cent of this, being under sewage, is impervious to fire, leaving a total of $32,150 that might be destroyed.

"The thing is perfectly ridiculous," said the mayor, referring to the $62,000 insurance.

The Incinerator Did Burn "They argued that the incinerator couldn't burn," said Mr. Montgomery. "So they took off the insurance and it did burn."

A high power line that runs over the disposal plant might be struck by lightning, fall across the roof of the plant and start a fire, one councillor pointed out.

Dr. Day, in discussing the insurance matter with local agents, had been told that if the town reduced the total insurance on the building, say to 40 per cent of its total value, the rates per hundred dollars of insurance would rise to make the total premium nearly equal to what it now is.

Mayor Bartleman, who had spoken to an underwriters' inspector about the business, had learned that the real value of the structure could be reduced by the cost of labour necessary for excavation, and the cost of any foundation below ground, to give a new "total value." This would mean, in the case of the incinerator, that the new total value would be about $40,000 and in carrying insurance on that amount, the town would be entitled to the same rate per hundred dollars as it now is. By the writing in of this special clause, the mayor figured the town would save $230.

No Earthquake Insurance! The mayor suggested once that to protect the disposal plant from any possible damage it might be necessary to take out earthquake insurance.

"If we were in California, it would be different. We might need it," said Councillor Laporte.

"I don't think we'll move the plant to California though," replied the mayor.

In the end, the matter was left with Mayor Bartleman and Dr. Day.

Dr. Day also asked whether anything had been done about the cemetery property.

Offer $100 for Cemetery. Mr. Montgomery reminded the council that he had read a letter from Holden and Murdock, Toronto lawyers for the man who lives in England and owns the property, asking the town to make an offer.

"Offer them $100," suggested the mayor.

"Start it at $50," advised Councillor Cousins.

Woodyards Again The town still refuses Nick Blahy permission to operate a woodyard at the corner of Bannerman avenue and Mountjoy street, though this decision may be altered at the special meeting on Monday when those who complained against the new woodyard will be present and Mr. Blahy's solicitor, Charles Kerr, will be present.

"Why wouldn't Mr. Blahy go outside the town? Why should he bring wood right in to the centre of the town? We're trying to get rid of them. Men like Mr. Blahy could do their business elsewhere," said the mayor. "We've had a lot of trouble with Mr. Blahy. There was that property on Sixth avenue. Has that been fixed up yet?"

"It's in the same condition to-day," said Chief Borland.

"He piles lumber against houses," Mr. Bartleman told the council.

"He did use the lot without permission, which he shouldn't have done, I admit," Mr. Kerr went on, coming back to the woodyard business. Mr. Blahy did not sell wood from there, but used it all in his various buildings in town, he said. The attitude of the council seemed unfair to him.

"People down there don't object to the wood being there now but don't want any more put on the lot after it is cleared," Councillor Brunette said as the discussion closed.

Other council news will be found in another column of to-day's Advance.

Marriage at the Church of the Nativity Yesterday

The marriage of Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Pigeon 61 1/2 Wilson avenue, to Kenneth Urquhart, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Urquhart, of Timmins, took place yesterday morning at the Church of the Nativity here. It was a quiet ceremony, attended only by the immediate friends and relatives of the young couple. They will make their home in Timmins.

The bride was becomingly gowned in raspberry chiffon-velvet and wore matching hat and shoes.

At five o'clock in the afternoon a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents to a number of relatives and close friends. Later in the evening, a large number of guests attended a reception at the same place.

Funeral on Monday of Late J. Heppleston

Former Timmins Citizen Buried in Toronto. Rev. J. D. Parks Conducted the Services.

James Heppleston, prominent mining broker of Toronto, and for many years a resident of Timmins in the earlier days of the camp, was buried at Park Lawn cemetery, Toronto, on Monday afternoon of this week. The large attendance at the funeral and the many floral tributes from Toronto and all parts of the North were evidences of the regret at the death and the sympathy felt for the bereaved widow (formerly Miss Laura Brazeau, of Timmins) and their ten-year-old son, Donald. The late Mr. Heppleston, as noted in the Advance last week, passed away suddenly on Saturday from a heart attack that struck him while he was at lunch with some business friends. The funeral took place from his late residence, 73 Parker avenue, Toronto, Rev. J. D. Parks, now of Toronto, but for several years minister of the United Church at Timmins, conducted the funeral services. The chief mourners were immediate relatives of the family and included the widow and young son, as well as many business associates and friends in Toronto and from the North. The pallbearers were—A. Dorfman, W. T. H. Shutt, A. A. Amos, J. Hamilton, J. E. Grasset (formerly of Timmins) and G. C. Hevenor.

Community Welfare Council Work Here

Organization for Community Betterment Active in the North.

Gilbert Agar, of the Community Welfare Council, Toronto, has been in the town and district recently in the interests of the work of the organization with which he is connected. He was one of the guests at the Kiwanis Club luncheon on Monday and spoke briefly on the work in which his heart's interests lie. The Community Welfare Council is exactly what its name implies—an organization to study conditions and circumstances and then to plan and work for the welfare and advancement of the community—every community in the province. One of the subjects in which the Community Welfare Council is especially interested is the holding of classes of various kinds for new Canadians. It was primarily through the interest of Mr. Agar that the classes for new Canadians were opened last year in Kirkland Lake. Not only did these classes prove of notable value to the Lake Shore town people, but they also proved popular not only with the new Canadians but also with other citizens who could appreciate their value in making for better understanding between new and old Canadians and generally increasing good citizenship. While in Timmins Mr. Agar was especially interested in the evening classes in English for adults and as satisfied that they would prove of much value to the community. He suggested that in Mr. Transom and Mr. Kostel these classes had unusually able and earnest men in charge and that as a consequence they were sure to be a notable success. The present attendance proved this, and the steady increase in those attending was further proof of this.

One of the chief activities at present carried on by the Community Welfare Council is what is known as the Rural Recreation Schools. The activities at these schools include leather work, wood-working, wood-carving, weaving, sketching, lino-cutting, dramatics, art appreciation, folk dancing, instruction in new games, and in swimming, basketry and metal work. The Community Welfare Council has inaugurated or assisted in inaugurating a number of these rural recreation schools, with results most gratifying. The registration at these schools average about 65, and they carried on continuous programmes for a week or ten days. While the Community Welfare Council will do the organizing a local committee is always formed and the conduct of the schools turned over as much as possible to this committee. In each case the local committee is made as representative of the community as possible. Any group interested in any of the subjects noted would do well to get in touch with Mr. Agar, or to write to the Community Welfare Council, 24 Bloor street west, Toronto. Among the plans where these rural recreational schools have proved valuable, helpful and intensely interesting are—Holstein, Merton, Beaver-ton, Elma township, etc.

R. Richardson, R. W. Wynne, and A. E. Prout left this week for their hunting cabin north of North Bay. They will be in the bush for a couple of weeks.

Toronto Board Seeks News of Boycott

(Continued from Page One) be informed on the question insofar as it may effect your community so that I have taken the liberty of writing to ask if you would be good enough to let me have whatever you may know on the subject.

Assuming that there may be some truth in the allegation and that the "boycott" is contemplated, I think you will agree that such action is somewhat drastic in view of the fact that Toronto merchants either of themselves or as representatives of this Board, have no control over the actions of the Ontario Government nor have we received any request from any source in the North Country to assist in securing the desired repair to the roads.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce is to be held in Oshawa, Ontario, on Friday, November 20th. This would be an excellent opportunity for the Boards of Trade of the North to send representatives to make known the needs of the North Country and secure the co-operation of Southern Ontario. This board will be only too happy to assist even to the extent of sponsoring a resolution covering any reasonable request, such as the improvement of the highways, etc., and to subsequently, join in submitting the decisions of the meeting to the Ontario Government.

I shall look forward to hearing from you at your early convenience, both with respect to the authenticity of rumours regarding the roads which we have heard and as to the possibility of your local Board being represented at Oshawa.

With kindest personal regards, I am, Yours very truly, F. D. Tolchard, General Manager

In reply to this letter, President Langdon intends to detail the needs of the North, especially in reference to roads and particularly in regard to the deplorable condition of the Ferguson highway this year. No doubt Mr. Langdon will supply the Toronto Board of Trade with copies of the New Liskeard resolution to be submitted to the next meeting of the Northern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade. This resolution urges a general boycott of all Southern business concerns until such time as the North is given a fair deal, especially in the matter of roads. It is felt that the people of the South in general have been indifferent, to say the least, to the case for the North, and have made no protest despite the strong objections voiced in the North. It is felt in many quarters in this part of the North that in view of the fact that the North is so large a customer of the South, the business men in the South in their own interests should move to see that the North is given a square deal. It is also understood that Mr. Langdon's reply will include a reference to the official naming of the route of the Trans-Canada highway a few weeks after a survey had been promised to decide the best route, no survey having been bothered with in the meantime. In short, the North does not intend to take neglect and indifference in any meek spirit and intend to make the South fully aware of this fact. It may be added that it is really "up to the South itself" whether the boycott spirit grows or not. The suggestion about the Oshawa meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards may help a little.

Commander of "Queen Mary" Died at Southampton, Eng.

Sir Edgar Britten, commander of R. M. S. Queen Mary and commodore of the Comand-White Star Line, died on Wednesday in a nursing home to which he had been taken after he had suffered a stroke in his cabin aboard the Queen Mary. Sir Edgar had won fame as a great sailor and a valuable citizen. Recently he had been in public notice because of his strong attitude that safety was far ahead of speed and that safety, not the making of records was the right role for the Queen Mary.

Additional Year for Escape from Custody

Conrad Roy Sentenced by Magistrate Tucker on Monday. No Action Taken in Case of Woman who Helped Him.

Conrad Roy's few brief days of freedom have proved costly to the Timmins man who escaped his guard a short time ago while being transferred from Cochrane to Guelph reformatory. Roy appeared before Magistrate Tucker on Monday, pleaded guilty to having escaped custody, and was sentenced to serve another year in reformatory. That makes his total term three years.

Roy was found by Provincial Police Constable McDougall in a shack in the bush near Kirkland Lake. He had been sentenced at the assizes in Cochrane a couple of weeks ago for having attempted to bribe Provincial Constable Pretorius in Timmins.

So far as could be learned this morning, Roy was well on his way to Guelph. No action was taken against the woman who assisted Roy to remain in hiding and who had the car ready at Porcupine Junction on the day of his escape.
